CAPITAL AND LABOR.

In discussing this question in a recent issue, the Antelope Republican says:

"The best means of bringing capital to fairness in its dealings with labor is to make opportunities for investments, and thus increase the number of the many different kinds of business which give employment to laborers, skilled or unskilled, to such an extent as to create a scarcity of laborers, by making the demand for labor greater than the supply. The next is for the laborer to save his earnings, and he in course of time becomes a capitalist. When so saved up a small capital for himself, by judicious investment, it is likely to transform him into a large bondholder, which is possible for every one if he will try and is done every now and then."

The first remedy suggested by the Republican for the present unfairness of capital towards labor would be all right if it was not for the fact that it has been demonstrated time and again that an increase in the facilities for the employment of labor carries with it an increased production of manufactured and other products, and that an increased production has always resulted in over production, which in time results in the closing of factories and the creation of a surplus of labor over and above the demand. Thus we see that, followed to its logical conclusion, this remedy produces exactly the opposite result than that which the Republican intended, namely, the creation of a "scarcity of laborers, by making the demand for labor greater than the supply."

The next remedy suggested, for the laborer to save his earnings, and by "judicious investment" to transform himself into a large "bondholder," is still worse.

Suppose every laborer in the country was to accept the Republican's advice, and profit by President Harper's statement, that a workingman can live well enough on 15 cents a day. Suppose that every mother's son of them has steady employment for the next ten years at an average wage of $2.00 a day, that none of them are sick during that time, and that they live on 15 cents a day to the man. They would each save about $5550. Then suppose that each one of them should develop into a Jay Gould or a Callis Huntington, and by "judicious investment," i. e., successful gambling on the stock exchange, that they should to a man become millionaires; wouldn't that be a pretty kettle of fish? Who would do our work and who would feed us and clothe us and black our shoes and take care of our automobiles? Who would run our railway trains and man our ships and conquer other nations to increase our trade? I wouldn't do it, you wouldn't do it, for the other fellow wouldn't do it, for we would all be millionaires and we wouldn't have to; and the consequence would be that we would all stand a mighty good chance of starving to death together.

It strikes us that the Republican has hardly got started on its way to the bottom of the labor question.

PARTISANSHIP.

"Democrats tell us that Bryan's speech at Indianapolis was one of the greatest delivered in this country for many years; indeed some of them claim that in the history of the country it has never been surpassed. On the other hand the Republicans say, 'nothing in it,' 'a labored effort,' etc., etc. So it goes. The average citizen can see no evil, no lack in any way, in the men and measures of his own party, nor good in those of the opposition. Will there come a day when partisanship will be less blind? We hope so, but that day is evidently far in the future."—Canonsburg (Pa.) Notes.

Yes, the day will come when partisanship will be less blind, and it may not be so far in the future as would appear to many of us now. Just so soon as the workers of the country fully realize that the politicians are in the employ of the plutocracy, and that the legislative and executive departments of the government are being "run" in the interest of the capitalist class and for the purpose of exploiting labor, just so soon, we say, will the people discard party allegiance as they would a load of gerit laden garbage, and begin to demand that they, the farmers, and miners, and laborers,—all wealth producers—shall be allowed to enjoy the benefit of the wealth they have produced.

NO LICENSE REQUIRED.

An Illinois paper publishes the following: "Oregon has hit upon a new experiment to keep her citizens sober. Every man who drinks is obliged to take out a license costing $5 per year and unless armed with the document cannot be served with liquor at any saloon or hotel. Every six months the names of the persons who take out the license are to be published."

Don't defer your trip to Oregon, brother, on that account. If you land here with only a "short bit" you can get your thirst slaked in a lonely sort of way, but if you are a social cuss and have two bits you can drink with the best of us. That license story was started by a California liar in a vain attempt to divert some of the crowds now flocking to Oregon, to that state. Come to Oregon, brother. If you only have 15 cents, we'll "put in" with you and have a time. There's no license required here but 2-bit pieces.

"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off to the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by The Hudson Pharmacy.—C. W. Crossfield, mgr.

Wanted—A Husband.

The Waiteburg (Wash.) Times says the following letter was received by the Postmaster of that city. We copy it in full because we know of a number of Gilliam county bachelors who, we think, would fill the bill:

"Cedar Bluff, Texas Co., Mo., July 19, 1900.—Mr. Post Master dear Sir I have heard that there is lots of likely young fellers out west what haint got much chance to marry on account of girls being so scarce now if I could find the rite kind of fellers I wouldnt mind gettin married only I got no use for kind of fellers round here what dont do nothing but lay round and talk politiks an cuss the government. Do you know of some party good feller out ther that wants a good wife an is alrite an haint in habit gettin drunk on onessary occasions i am well to do myself i haint so off good looking. "MINNIE BELL JENNINGS, Cedar Bluff, Mo. Texas Co.

"P. S. I haint never been married before an i am a demicrat an fer Bryan but if rite kind of feller comes long reglin nor politiks wont cut no ice."

Prevented A Tragedy. Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her; and she writes, this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Condon Drug Co's.

Send for our Booklet "WHEAT AND HOW TO HANDLE IT" It will explain why you should consign your grain to the MUTUAL WAREHOUSE CO. OF PORTLAND, OR.

To the Consumers of Gilliam County:

We desire to state that we are determined to reduce our large stock of goods and for the next 90 days will make great reductions in all lines for cash. By referring to your local papers you frequently note the ad. of interior merchants who, with conspicuous signs, say: "We sell at Arlington prices." Is this not evidence that the Arlington merchants must lead in low prices or there would be no need for such statements? Before purchasing you fall supplies or the smaller bills get prices from us. In agricultural implements we have the favorite Monitor Drills subject to four attachments, viz, hoe, disc, press wheels or shoe. The Oliver and Flying Dutchman Plows are hard to beat for good clean work, durability and lightness of draft. It is no longer an experiment to buy a Bain or Stoughten wagon, as they have but few if any competitors when strength and light-running qualities are considered. If you anticipate treating yourself to a new buggy or hack do not purchase until our new car load of the old reliable Racine rigs reach us, which will be here in September. When in need of a chop mill, hay press, windmill, sewing machine, or any kind of machinery used on the farm, write us for prices and we will treat you right. Address all communications to the firm at the old James W. Smith store.
