THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMEER 6, 1900.

NOTICE.

The GLOBE invites correspondence from all sections of Gilliam county. We aim to make this paper the leading news medium of the county and invite our friends to assist us by sending in the news of their respective neighborhoods. Correspondence must be signed by the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith, and the editor assumes no responsibility for opinions expressed by correspondents.

THE PORTAGE ROAD.

In commenting upon the suspension of work on the portage road, the Spokane Review says:

"The Central Navigation & Construction Company has suspended work of construction. Some of the laborers have been paid in full, and others have received part payment. The report is out that the company is to be reorganized. This is the company promoted by Paul Mohr and backed by Spokane capital. Originally George Turner, W. J. Harris, Frank Graves and W. J. C. Wakefield were the heavy stockholders. It is said that Mr. Harris is no longer with the company. Colonel I. N. Payton recently invested in thestock of the company and is the president of the corporation.

"The company has suffered a heavy loss in the stranding of the Billings. They no longer make a secret of it that, barring the machinery and the possibility of using the patched-up hull for a wharfboat, the vessel is a total loss. To reconstruct her has cost the company $10,000. The losing of this sum at this time is a heavy blow, and it is hardly a secret that leading stockholders have been casting about for somebody or something on which to lay the blame.

"Parties claiming to be in the secrets of the company claim to have foreseen this suspension months ago, as the natural culmination of a bitter fight among the stockholders that has its storm center in the management.

"The plans of the company were to build a railroad from a point below to a point above the obstructions in the Columbia river near The Dalles. Both above and below boats and barges were to be placed on the river to handle products of the farms. Rates far below those charged by the railroad were promised."

The suspension of operations on the portage road is a matter of deep regret to producers in the Inland Empire, as that company had promised much in the way of reduced freight rates, which would have added materially to the farmers' profits. There is only one way, however, by which the producers can ever hope to be materially benefitted by the magnificent Columbia as a means of transporting their products to tide water, and that will be by the opening of the Celilo rapids to navigation by the government for the benefit of the people. That will never be accomplished, however, so long as the big railroad companies control legislation as they now do. "The public be damned" is their motto, monopoly of the transportation business is their method, and the exploitation of the country is their manner of making the people pay all the expenses of running the roads, which are making a big profit. There is no longer any doubt but that the transportation companies have a "cinch" on the people of this big broad land.

One of the incidents of the Powers trial in Kentucky call for severest condemnation, says Louis F. Post, in his paper, "The Public." The prosecuting attorney, in the course of his summing up, turned from the jury to the prisoner, and advancing step by step toward him until within two feet of his face, launched at him what the reporters called "a terrible arraignment." This is a common performance in criminal trials. But it is cowardly. The prisoner can make no reply, nor otherwise hold his assailant to account. He is shackled and gaged by the strong arm of the state. In these circumstances, though the prosecutor may be free to arraign the prisoner as bitterly as he chooses to the jury, a personal assault upon him directly is in violation of all principles of fair play. A judge sensitive to considerations of fairness would not allow it.

In an editorial mention of a temperance lecture recently delivered in that city, the Arlington Record says: "The deplorable thing about these lectures and most of the sermons preached in our churches is [illegible] who might be benefitted by the teachings are not present. The reformers and ministers must get into the homes and cradles of the people, rather than in the pulpits, the rostrum or the polls." We wonder how many "reformers and ministers" the average man would allow to break into his home and the cradle of his progeny, before he would make a kick? If evils cannot be combatted in the pulpits, the rostrum or the polls, there is mighty little chance for this old world being renovated in the immediate future.

Many of our exchanges have taken advantage of the American Type Founder's liberal offer, (we all buy our "patents" from the American Type Founder's Co. because we are obliged to) of free political supplements, and are coming to our table "big" with a six column single sheet supplement. It will next be in order for wholesale grocery and dry goods houses to send out free wrapping paper to their country merchant customers, printed on one side with campaign rot. The American Type Founder's Co. seems to have changed from a business to a political organization.

We are told that "commerce is the life blood of nations." In one sense it is. But human blood should not be recklessly shed for the purpose of only promoting commerce. The commercial spirit has become so greedy that it would sacrifice life for profit. The highwayman plys his avocation with similar intent. He cares nothing for life, nor for human rights, but everything for the wealth that he can secure from their sacrifice. Commercial piracy and highway robbery are on the same level.—East Oregonian.

Oregon has been honored by a request from the National Republican committee to Governor Geer to spend a month in Ohio as a campaign orator. If there is any other good thing that the Eastern fellows are "shy" of, they can be supplied if they will just send in their order to Oregon.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate by Executor.

Under and by authority of the power contained in the will of Henry Beck, late of Gilliam County, Oregon, deceased, directing the undersigned executor to sell the real estate of the said decedent, notice is hereby given that I will on at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of said day, at the court house door at Condon, Gilliam County, Oregon, sell to the highest bidder for cash in hand, and subject to the approval and confirmation by the County Court of Gilliam County, Or., the following described real estate, situated in Gilliam County, Oregon, to-wit:

Saturday, 6th day of October, 1900,

The Northwest quarter of Section Twenty-six, in Township Five, South of Range Twenty East, Willamette Meridian, and the North Half of Southwest quarter and Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter and Northwest quarter of the Southeast quarter of Section Twenty-six, in Township Five, South of Range Twenty East, Willamette Meridian, and containing 320 acres, according to U. S. Government survey.

Given under my hand and dated this 21st day of August, 1900.

C. J. QUINN,
Executor of the estate of Henry Beck, deceased.

To the Consumers of Gilliam County:

We desire to state that we are determined to reduce our large stock of goods and for the next 90 days will make great reductions in all lines for cash.

By referring to your local papers you frequently note the ad. of interior merchants who, with conspicious signs, say: "We sell at Arlington prices." Is this not evidence that the Arlington merchants must lead in low prices or there would be no need for such statements? Before purchasing your fall supplies or the smaller bills get prices from us.

In agricultural implements we have the favorite Monitor Drills subject to four attachments, viz, hoe, disc, press wheels or shoe.

The Oliver and Flying Dutchman Plows are hard to beat for good clean work, durability amd lightness of draft.

It is no longer an experiment to buy a Bain or Stoughten wagon, as they have but few if any competitors when strength and light-running qualities are considered.

If you anticipate treating yourself to a new buggy or hack do not purchase until our new car load of the old reliable Racine rigs reach us, which will be here in September.

When in need of a chop mill, hay press, windmill, sewing machine, or any kind of machinery used on the farm, write us for prices and we will treat you right.

Address all communications to the firm at the old James W. Smith store.
