THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Leaving out the question of wages, the grievances of the United Mine Workers, who are now on a strike to the number of over 100,000, if they detail facts, are real, shameful and monstrous, and ought somehow to be remedied by the strong arm of the law, that should regard the rights of labor as just as sacred as those of capital. These miners say—and it is not yet disputed—that they are obliged to trade at the mineowners' stores and pay extortionate prices for all they have to buy, including the tools they work with; that while the legal ton is 2400 pounds they have to mine 3000 pounds or more for a ton; that they have been compelled to wait for weeks for their small wages, while their families suffered; that they are charged high rent, and evicted if they cannot pay; and that, finally, while wages have not been increased, though amounting on the average to scarcely $250 a year, the cost of living has been increased 20 per cent.

The matter of wages in such cases ought to be settled by fair arbitration, that would do justice by both parties, and the one that would not arbitrate should be presumed to be in the wrong, and treated by the law accordingly. We shall come to that during the next century. But in this case the public will be very slow to believe that these cooperating mineowners and operators—mostly big railroad corporations—cannot afford to pay increased wages. They can and do arbitrarily increase the price of coal whenever they please to do so, and thereby they freeze to death some hundreds of poor people in Eastern cities every winter. These syndicated coal mine and railroad magnates can make the public pay whatever price they choose to charge for coal, and so they have no excuse for paying starvation wages to the miners. It is rather too much for these great corporations to keep the miners half-starved and half-clad, and their children in poverty, filth and ignorance, and at hard labor as soon as they are able to earn a dime, on one hand, and on the other hand compel the poor to pay an extortionate price for coal.

Unless the mineowners and operators can make a better defense than seems possible, the just sympathy of nine-tenths of the American people will be with the miners in their effort.—Telegram.

A Live Bear Story.

Andy Greiner came to town Tuesday morning loaded to the muzzle with a real, big, live bear story. On Monday the threshing outfit laid off on account of rain and some of the boys strayed off down in the canyon, where, to their surprise (and perhaps horror), they encountered a savage looking black bear. They slipped back to the cook-house and gave the alarm, and after some trouble in convincing the older heads that they were not romancing, the whole outfit took the trail, which proved a hot one before they were through with it. Bruin was soon flushed and the chase began. The bear was cute enough to keep on the rocks and in the brush, and it was several hours before they got him headed out on the open where the cavalry force could get action. Paul Greiner led the troop and he soon rode up on bruin and roped him by the neck. Another rope was thrown on his hind feet and he was soon stretched out all same capsize calf.

The bear was halter braked and led to Mr. Greiner's ranch, where he is at present a star boarder. Andy says his bearship is fond of pie and cake but turns up his nose at good white bread unless it is well spread with cow butter and honey.

While Andy was reciting the above facts Dr. Nicklin was an attentive listener and at the conclusion of Andy's story the doctor filed an affidavit stating that he is an expert on bear stories and, being given the floor, he proceeded to prove it. Joe then treated and the party broke up.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. Carter, arrived Tuesday, but as the authorities would not allow her to visit her daughter at the pesthouse, she proceeded to Condon on yesterday's stage to visit another daughter, Mrs. W. K. Neal.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering. "I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by The Hudson Pharmacy—C. W. Crossfield, mgr.

To the Consumers of Gilliam County:

We desire to state that we are determined to reduce our large stock of goods and for the next 90 days will make great reductions in all lines for cash.

By referring to your local papers you frequently note the ad. of interior merchants who, with conspicuous signs, say: "We sell at Arlington prices." Is this not evidence that the Arlington merchants must lose in low prices or there would be no need for such statements? Before purchasing your fall supplies or the smaller bills get prices from us. In agricultural implements we have the favorite Monitor Drills subject to four attachments, viz, hoe, disc, press wheels or shoe. The Oliver and Flying Dutchman Plows are hard to beat for good clean work, durability and lightness of draft. It is no longer an experiment to buy a Bain or Stoughton wagon, as they have but few if any competitors when strength and light-running qualities are considered.

If you anticipate treating yourself to a new buggy or hack do not purchase until our new car load of the old reliable Racine rigs reach us, which will be here in September. When in need of a chop mill, hay press, windmill, sewing machine, or any kind of machinery used on the farm, write us for prices and we will treat you right. Address all communications to the firm at the old James W. Smith store.
