Nursemaids Behind British Recruits.

General Buller once explained why it was necessary to put such showy clothing on most of the troops. "Because a showy uniform attracts Mary Ann, the nursemaid, who makes Tommy Atkins join the army. In plain uniforms, you would find recruiting a harder job than ever."

The Peruna Almanac.

The druggists have already been supplied with Peruna almanacs. There is sure to be a great demand for these almanacs on account of the articles on astrology which they contain. The subject of astrology is a very attractive one to most people. The articles on astrology in the Peruna almanac have been furnished by a very competent astrologist and the mental characteristics of each sign is given, constituting almost a complete horoscope. A list of lucky and unlucky days for each month is given. There will be a great rush for these books. Ask your druggist for one early before they are all gone.

Rheumatism

Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison, and until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kelly, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The blood in my system was so impure that I became completely prostrated. The attack was unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions and I would get well. After having filed twelve times without receiving the slightest benefit, I decided to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. S. (Swiss Specific) recommended for such cases, I bought a trial, and after I had taken a few bottles I was able to hobble around on crutches, and when seven there after had no use for them at all. S. S. S. has cured me sound and well. All pains, rheumatism and I am happy to say, my appetite has returned and I am left to be again restored to perfect health."

There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits.

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

WOMAN'S SUCCESS

AN INTERESTING STORY OF HOW SHE ATTAINED IT.

For a Long Time It Seemed That Good Fortune Would Not Come—An Apparent Trifle Brought It About.

As with many other women, fortune lingered a long while before coming to Mrs. Knowles. But finally a trifling occurrence brought it to her. Mrs. George M. Knowles lives at No. 16 North street, Portland, Me., and is a reporter who visits her to learn the facts of the case, she said: "For a year and a half I suffered tortures from rheumatism. When I arose in the morning or when I got up to walk after I had been sitting down for a while, my joints became stiff and I could not move easily as I did before the rheumatism set in. My feet ached and I could not walk without limping for some minutes after I started out. It was very painful and interfered a great deal with my household duties."

"How did you succeed in becoming cured?" asked the newspaper man.

"It was one of those apparently little things that brought it about," replied Mrs. Knowles, with a smile. "I had been suffering in this way for a year and a half when one day I happened to pick up the paper and to see an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I made up my mind to try them. When I had taken one box I felt better and after I had taken the pills for about two months all the pain was gone. This was a year ago, and the rheumatism has not troubled me since."

The above statement of Mrs. Knowles was sworn to at the reporter's request before Marshall H. Purinton, notary public, at Portland, and published in the Express, a reliable newspaper of that city.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will not only cure cases similar to that of Mrs. Knowles, but, containing, as they do, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves, they have proved efficacious in a wide range of diseases. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus's dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of grip, of fevers and of other acute diseases, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness, either in male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents a box; six boxes, two dollars and fifty cents, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Be sure and get the genuine; substitutes never cured anybody.

Old Philadelphia.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one reliable remedy, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfection in hearing when it is entirely closed. It is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness cured by catarrh that is not cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PIONEERS IN SIBERIA.

RED TAPE TENDS TO HINDER EMIGRATION.

So Many Qualifications Are Asked of Intending Emigrants that All But the Most Persevering Become Discouraged and Remain Where They Are.

While the stringent regulations now governing emigration to Siberia have abolished to a great extent the disorder and abuses of the old system, they have entangled the whole process in a network of bureaucratic formalities, and the preliminary steps which must be taken by every intending emigrant are enough to make all but the most resolute desist. Before making any movement at all the emigrant must seek the advice of the local authorities and obtain a certificate of his suitability and capacity. Permits to emigrate are no longer easily obtainable, but are frequently refused on such grounds as "insufficient means," "physical disability," the regulations laying it down that only "good farmers and taxpayers" are to be granted permits. The provisional permit is given only to the head of the family or some other able-bodied member of it, who, having taken the advice of the emigration officials at Tcheliabinsk as to the nature and location of the available lands, is sent at a nominal fare into Siberia, where he is free to examine all the lots available. If he is successful in finding suitable land he must first have his choice approved at the local emigration office, the title being indorsed upon his pioneer's certificate. Afterward a final permit to emigrate is given to the remaining members of his family, who follow him on special terms as to railway fare, monetary assistance and exemptions; the poorer obtaining grants or loans to enable them to set up house and purchase the necessary implements. Formerly this assistance was given liberally, but the present policy of the government is to encourage emigration by the more prosperous and thrifty peasants only and monetary assistance is now restricted to small amounts, seldom exceeding from $15 to $25, and then nearly always in the form of a loan repayable without interest within ten years.

But before the final decision to emigrate is taken, the number of requirements to be satisfied is so great that it is not difficult to understand why not 30 per cent of the pioneers undertake the responsibility of bringing their families from home. For while Siberia as a whole contains all the natural resources necessary for nearly all forms of agriculture, these resources are very unevenly distributed, and there is no single district which does not oppose to great natural advantages certain serious drawbacks. All the best agricultural land has long been occupied, says R. E. C. Long, in the Forum, and the pioneer who has only some two months in the year in which he can satisfactorily examine lots scattered over a great area, must compromise a hundred conflicting interests before he can be sure of making the best selection. He must consider the nature of the land, whether dry, marshy or salt, the question of water supply, whether wood exists in sufficient quantities and of the right quality both for building and fuel, and whether the crops raised are those to which he has been accustomed in Russia. He must inquire as to the system of agriculture practiced—Siberian land requires much heavier work than Russian—the losses from thieves, disease, wild beasts and insects; the question of markets and means of transport; and the cost of establishing a home.

He must ascertain whether the local inhabitants have emigrated from the same district, and speak the same dialect as himself.

WATER FOR THE HOLY CITY.

Jerusalem Is Now Supplied by a System of Modern Designs.

The holy land has its railways, electric lights and American windmills, and now Jerusalem is about to get a supply of good drinking water. In ancient times the city of David was well supplied. The remains of aqueducts and reservoirs show this. But since the Turk's day the people of Jerusalem have been dependent on the scanty and often polluted accumulations of rain water in the rock-hewn cisterns beneath their feet. Even this supply has recently failed, says a correspondent of the London Times, owing to want of rain. Distress and sickness became so general that the Turkish governor has at length been induced to sanction the purchase of iron pipe to bring water from Ain Salih, or the "sealed fountain," at Solomon's pools, about nine miles south of Jerusalem. A pipe six inches in diameter will bring 8,000 "gals" of water a day for distribution at "fountains" supplied with faucets.

Solomon, in his famous "Song," speaks of this secret spring, now turned to use. "My beloved," he says, "is like a spring shut up, a fountain sealed. It is a deep-down subterranean spring, which has, from the time of Solomon, flowed through the arched tunnel built by him to the distributing chamber or reservoir near the northwest corner of the highest of Solomon's pools. Half a century ago the location of this "hidden" spring which was still, as in Solomon's time, bowing into the reservoir mentioned, was unknown. It was discovered like an inverted V, the primitive form of the arch, which is also seen in the roof of the queen's chamber of the great pyramid. The entrance to this tunnel from the spring is one of the oldest structures in existence. The tunnel which formerly, from the time of Solomon, brought this same water to the temple area. There are eleven or twelve ancient fountains here and there in the city, long unused, but now to be utilized, and from which the water may be drawn free to all, several taps being attached to each fountain.—Baltimore Sun.

One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."

Dr. L. S. Smith, of Williston, Fla., writes: "I have found Peruna a most valuable remedy for chronic catarrh of the head, throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. In fact, no matter where located, 'Few people realize that most sicknesses start from colds which develop into different affections and finally become chronic, settling often on the lungs and frequently causing serious trouble in the pelvic organs, while in women it develops into diseases peculiar to the sex.

"From my experience with Peruna I have found it very efficacious to cure these diseases, and I recommend it."

Dr. Mary Smith, Winfield, Ind., writes: "A weak and sick woman must not expect to bear well children. For over 31 years my efforts have been spent among sick women especially, and among all the remedies I have used none excel Peruna, and I believe that it is the best and safest medicine to give a woman suffering from ovarian trouble, inflammation, and profuse menstruation.

"I would not be doing my duty as a physician did I not advise its use. I know by experience that Peruna cures sick women, and I therefore gladly indorse it."

BITTERS FOR BOOKWORKS

A novel by a Hungarian writer, Baron Nicholas Josika, is being issued in English. It is a vivid picture of the overrunning of Hungary by the Tartars in the thirteenth century.

Amelia Barr's new novel of Cromwell's time, "The Lion's Whelp," takes its title from the text in Genesis: "A lion's whelp—from the prey, my son, thou art gone up—and unto him shall the gathering of the people be."

Miss Rosa Nonchete Cary, in the years since she began to write—it was in 1888, that she published her first novel—has given the world more than a score of books, each one of which has enjoyed a well-earned popularity. The "Herb of Grace" is her latest, issued from the Lippincott press.

Think of one woman writing seventy-one books—a library in itself. John Strange Winter (Mrs. Arthur Starns) is the lady, and her latest novel, "The Price of a Wife," is her very first book. She has kept in the front rank of novelists ever since she attained sudden popularity with "Bootsie's Baby," in 1888.

A group of studies of James Bryce in history and jurisprudence has been in the press for some time. There are two volumes, and the contents of these have been composed at different times, extending over many years. While the studies are very diverse, a common thread runs through a number of them. This is a comparison between the history and law of Rome and the history and law of England.

Bret Harte, whose reported illness was lately denied, recently returned to the idea of the "Condensed Novels" which were his first published work in prose. A further volume of "Condensed Novels," suggested by such popular writers as Rudyard Kipling, Anthony Hope and Conan Doyle, may therefore be looked for from him. His earlier excursions in this style of parody belong to the California period of his career and were contributed to the San Francisco Californian.

William Ernest Henley, the English poet, when asked if he would like to reply to the criticisms of his recent attack upon Robert Louis Stevenson, quoted Bishop Berkeley in a lordly tone: "They say! What say they? Let them say!" The criticisms are really not worth the trouble of retort. I shall probably read them in the papers. I have kept silence for five years against ill-natured attacks and every kind of innuendo and I can do so for another five years.

He Knew the Fact.

A convict at a French penal settlement who was undergoing a life sentence desired to marry a female convict, such marriages being of common occurrence. The governor of the colony offered no objection, but the priest proceeded to cross-examine the prisoner.

"Did you not marry in France?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And your wife is dead?"

"She is."

"Have you any document to show that she is dead?"

"No."

"Then I must decline to marry you. You must produce some proof that your wife is dead."

There was a pause, and the bride-prospective looked at the would-be groom.

Finally he said: "I can prove that my former wife is dead."

"How will you do so?"

"It was sent here for killing her."

He bride accepted him, notwithstanding.—Edinburgh's Scotchman.

Very Bitter.

"There is nothing but bitterness in your heart," she sighed, gazing into his eyes.

"Naturally," he responded. "Haven't the doctors informed you that I have a tobacco heart?"
