

THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1902.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Bob Madison, a writer in the East Oregonian, draws the following significant comparison between the populist platform of ten years ago and those of the republican and democratic parties of today: "Before us lies a populist platform of 1892. At the time it was promulgated in Oregon it was considered a political freak. The wise men shook their heads at its vagaries. The old war horses frisked and shied at its nightmare bog-ies. The orators of the day rained down their condemnation upon it, like red hot pebbles from Mount Pelee.

It was ranked with anarchy. It was branded as unsafe. It threatened revolution. It was the basis of C. V. Nixon. Business men went into spasms when they thought of its chilling breath. Politicians called down all the gods of the partisan calendar to protect themselves and their jobs.

Those were unsettled times. The air was full of dire forebodings. The mountain of national life was smoking. New seams, spouting fire and sulphuric gas, broke out in a hundred places.

Mrs. Lease came forth. Jerry Simpson arose. Peffer was unveiled. Wait was armed and mounted. Ignatius Donnelly, the giant of the north, came into the arena. Tom Watson flashed his shield against the sunlight. It was a day and age of evolution. It was a transitory period in politics. Men of conservative minds really wondered what the outcome of the agitation would be.

Let us glance at some of the horrible details of that populist plot.

It demanded the initiative and referendum. It called for flat salaries for all public offices.

It demanded the popular election of United States senators.

It reaffirmed the principles laid down in the Declaration of Independence.

It proclaimed the right of the laborer to organize for self-improvement and self-preservation.

It demanded a safe, sound, conservative government, economically administered.

It demanded government ownership of all public utilities.

Barring a few local details that is the whole harrowing tale.

A decade has passed, fraught with its fusions, its joining of hands and its sad farewells.

Before us lie two recent Oregon platforms, a republican and a democratic. Reading down the bold declarations of each of these we find a fac-simile of that awful document of 1892, except the one issue of government ownership.

Those vagaries, used by democrats and republicans in 1892, to scare their children with, are now the watch-words of their faith. They have adopted that threatening ogre—the initiative and referendum, 5 to 1. They all voted for salaried officers. They all voted to elect the United States senators by popular vote. They all said the toiler should organize and have his "rights and privileges." They all want good government, economically administered.

What a change of heart and mind the years do bring about. What a softening of hard hearts and a melting of icicles has taken place. The lava thrown out by those spouting agitators has changed into the fertile soil and from it has grown a full harvest of reform."

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

According to Census Bulletin No. 196, which has just been received, Oregon had, in 1900, 35,837 farms containing a total of 10,071,328 acres. The average size of farms for the state was 281.0 acres, varying from 80.7 acres in Multnomah county to 1,260.2 acres in Crook county. The average value of farms for the state was $3,693. The average value of machinery and implements per farm was $182; of live stock $946. The average expenditure for labor, per farm was $135.

In 1900 Gilliam county had a total of 441 farms containing 340,460 acres valued as follows: Land, $1,438,470; buildings $237,120; implements and machinery $153,910; live stock $848,388 and the value of farm products not fed to live stock is given as $605,011.

For the same year labor on the farms of Gilliam county cost the snug sum of $123,370.

The Bulletin contains a large amount of interesting and valuable information relative to the farming industry in Oregon.

What a Tale it Tells. If that mirror of yours shows a wretched, sallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin, it's liver trouble; but Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the liver, purify the blood, give clear skin, rosy cheeks, rich complexion. Only 25c at Condon Pharmacy.

Card of Thanks. We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all our friends for the generous assistance and kind favors rendered us in our deep affliction, caused by the death of our darling boy. Also to all who sent so many beautiful flowers as a token of their love and sympathy.

D. F. STRICKLIN AND FAMILY.

Their Secret Out. All Sadieville, Ky., was curious to learn the cause of the vast improvement in the health of Mrs. S. P. Whitaker, who had for a long time endured untold suffering from a chronic bronchial trouble. "It's all due to Dr. King's New Discovery," writes her husband. "It completely cured her and also cured our little grand-daughter of a severe attack of whooping cough." It positively cures coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis and all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Condon Pharmacy.

In Memoriam. We have again been called upon to stand with bowed heads and bated breath in the presence of the silent messenger, Death. After so short an interval he again comes to the door of our friend and summons another of their number to follow him, and another life of love is, to them and to us, now only a blessed memory. On Friday, July 25th, at his home on Rock creek, Virgil Vivian, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Stricklin, aged 5 years and 9 months, was called to a higher life.

"How fast they fall—those we have known, As leaves from Autumn branches blown, So quickly sear, Yes, one by one they drop away, As withered leaves they fall and stray, And disappear."

But then we would not call them up To drink again from life's bitter cup; For naught can now disturb their rest, And in God's mercy they are blest.

Dr. Jenkins and W. W. Steiwer, of Fossil, went through Monday night on the way to Portland with Mr. Robertson book-keeper in Steiwer & Carpenter's store, who is suffering from a severe attack of appendicitis, for the relief of which he will submit to an operation.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum. "Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor, was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance."

THE CELEBRATED .. COLUMBIA BREWERY ..

AUGUST BUCHLER, Prop.

Of the product of this well-known brewery the United States Health Reports for June 28, 1900, says: "A more superior brew never entered the laboratory of the United States Health reports. It is absolutely devoid of the slightest trace of admittance, but on the other hand is composed of the best of malt and choice of hops. Its tonic qualities are of the highest and it can be used with the greatest benefit and satisfaction by both old and young. It is used conscientiously prescribed by the physicians with the certainty that a better, purer or more wholesome beverage could not possibly be found."
