DYSPEPSIA
For six years I was a victim of dyspepsia in its worst form. I could eat nothing but milk toast, and at times my stomach would not retain and digest even that. Last March I began taking CASCARETS and since then I have steadily improved, until I am as well as ever was in my life.

RHEUMATISM
CANNOT BE RUBBED OUT
But a good liniment or plaster will often give temporary relief because it produces counter irritation or reduces the inflammation and soreness. But no sort of external treatment can have any effect whatever upon the disease itself, for rheumatism is not a skin disease, but is due to an overacid condition of the blood, and the deposit of irritating matter or Uric Acid salts or sediment in the muscles and joints, and no amount of rubbing or blistering can dislodge these gritty particles or change the acid blood. Rheumatism often becomes chronic, and the muscles and joints permanently stiff and useless and the nervous system almost wrecked, because so much time is lost in trying to cure a blood disease with outside applications or doctoring the skin.

CATARH THIRTY YEARS.
The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman—Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.

Congressman Meekison, of Ohio.
Hon. David Meekison is well known not only in his own state, but throughout America. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the state.

"I have used several bottles of Peru-na and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

Lovers of Dancing.
The Porto Rican native is very much given to dancing. Both men and women have a natural love for the ballroom.

Mr. Gumppe—No; he's got to get over the habit of hanging around the house.—New York Weekly.

A Feast of Good Things in St. Nicholas for 1903.
St. Nicholas announces for 1903 "The Story of King Arthur," written and illustrated by Howard Pyle, a companion story to his famous "Robin Hood." Two short stories by Miss Alcott, will soon appear in St. Nicholas, with other stories and articles by other well known writers. St. Nicholas makes a specialty of papers of information, richly illustrated articles on practical subjects, like the navy yard, the assay office, etc.

GOOD
Short Stories

When Alfred Tennyson appeared in the Oxford Theater to receive his D. C. L. degree, it is said that his disheveled hair and generally negligent state provoked the undergraduates into greeting him with the inquiry: "Did your mother call you early, call you early, Alfred, dear?"

A visitor asked the late James Tissot one day whether the picture he was at work on was intended to illustrate the time of Christ. The artist replied in the affirmative. "Then," said the visitor, "permit me to call your attention to an error. Aloys, such as you have in your picture, did not exist in the Mediterranean region till after the conquest of Mexico by Spain." Tissot promptly took his brush and altered the picture.

Some Goettingen students who had a keen admiration for Klopstock, the "German Milton," once found one of his stanzas unintelligible, and begged him to explain its exact meaning to them. The poet read the stanza—then carefully re-read it—then read it again, while all looked on with bated breath. At last he spoke: "I cannot recollect what I meant when I wrote it, but I do remember that it was one of the finest things I ever wrote, and you cannot do better than devote your lives to the discovery of its meaning."

It is said that one of the great enemies of the overland telegraph line in Central Australia is the common green frog. In order to save the insulators from being broken by the lightning they are provided with wire "droppers" leading round them at a little distance to conduct on to the iron poles in case of need. The frogs climb the poles and find the insulators cool and pleasant to their bodies, and fancy that the "dropper" is put there to furnish them with a back seat. After a nap they yawn and stretch out a leg until it touches the pole—result, sudden death to the frog, and as the body continues to conduct the current to earth we have a paragraph in the papers to the effect that "in consequence of an interruption to the lines probably caused by a cyclonic disturbance in the interior, we are unable to present our readers with the usual cables from England!"

FROST DISTURBS RAILROADS.
On Nearly All Russian Lines It Is an Element of Expense.
In a recent issue of the "Oregon for the Fortschritte des Eisenbahnwesens" L. von Lubimoff, chief engineer of the Trans-Siberian Railway, describes an interesting phenomenon of frost action which has been observed on the line of that railway in Siberia. This phenomenon, the distortion of wooden trestle bridges by the action of frost, is closely connected with the extensive frost disturbances of the roadbed in general which are encountered in both European and Asiatic Russia; but while the latter effect has been known for some time, the action on bridge structures has been noted and studied only during the last few years, says the Engineering News.

I thought it was a tank to hold the skein as mother would
The crimson yarn while here and there a stubborn snarl was found;
I thought my lot a dismal one, as sitting there at night
I heard the humming spinning wheel and watched the freight
Dance out across the floor and back as fairy dancers might.

Ab, how I used to long to see the world
I'd read about,
To pack my little carpet sack and boldly sail
Reluctantly I used to bow my head upon the chair
When father found that it was time to say the evening prayer,
And thinking that my lot was hard—ah, how absurd it seems—
I went up to my little bed beneath the whitewashed beams

Oh, there is much that I have learned about the world since then,
And much I've seen that serves to wake the wonderment of men!
The world is far more splendid than I dreamed that it could be
As lying 'neath the rough-been beams fair visions came to me—
But one great glory of the world has passed away forever,
I never again may hold the skein as mother winds, back there,
Or, when the fire's low, kneel down while father offers prayer.

CARE FOR YOUR RUGS.
Many of Them Are Spoiled by Frequent Beatings.
The manager of a Chicago carpet department, whose knowledge brings him an annual income of $10,000, advised the following treatment for valuable rugs: Lay them wrong side up on the grass, beat with a furniture beater, reverse, and sweep carefully, a soft brush being the preference, or a good carpet sweeper. A little airing outside of the sun's rays is good occasionally, when they may be carried in the house. The average American housewife wears out her rugs by continually sweeping and beating. The plan of putting them upon a line every two or three weeks, or even once a month, and there having them whipped, is not to be commended if the rugs are of any value. When a rug is to be thoroughly cleaned it should be sent where the work is properly done or else washed at home. A machine is now in use which loosens the dust and removes it by means of a strong current of air. This is effective and not hard on the rug. When the surface becomes soiled it can be washed with no fear of injuring the colors, since the majority of oriental rugs are washed repeatedly before reaching this country and the dyes used are thereby mellowed and enriched. The best method of washing a large rug is to stretch and tack it upon a clean floor, then scour it well with soap and suds. After the scouring it must be thoroughly rinsed, to remove all trace of the animal matter in the soap, after which it should not be removed until it is perfectly dried. Then it will not shrink and will lie perfectly flat upon the floor. A small rug may be tacked upon the side of the house or barn, scoured as if on a floor and then rinsed with the hose—Good Housekeeping.

Chicago a Great Inland Port.
That Chicago is a great shipping center almost everyone knows. But that it now ranks fourth among the ports of the world is not so well known. The latest figures relating to the matter of shipping are:
London, 16,620,005 tons; New York, 16,445,820; Hamburg, 14,198,817; Chicago, 14,186,100; Antwerp, 13,573,472; Liverpool, 11,818,000, and Marseilles, 9,629,114.
Chicago leads all United States ports except New York in tonnage, and the constant extension of lake traffic has added not only to the commerce of Chicago, but likewise very largely to the commerce of Cleveland, now a very important port of entry; Detroit, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Duluth and Toledo.

Lion a Fly Catcher.
The keeper of the carnivorous house at the Philadelphia zoo led the group of visitors to the outdoor quarters of the lions. "Look at that fellow over there," he said. "It's interesting to watch him catching flies."
The lion lay beside a little puddle that the rain of the night before had made. He dipped his paw into the sticky mud and then extended the member and lay very quiet. The paw served as a fly trap. Fliesighted about from table to table, picking up pieces and collecting morsels from other diners, and presently, when it returned to its mistress, she was astonished to see written on its back in red chalk: "Tell your mistress that she is simply adorable, and I love her exceedingly." The gentleman signed his name. After this a formal introduction was no longer necessary.

The Milkman's Explanation.
"My dear," said the young husband, "did you ever speak to the milkman about those bugs on cream on the milk?" "Yes, I told him about it this morning and he has explained it satisfactorily and I think it quite a credit to him, too." "What did he say?" "He said that he always filled the bottles so full that there is no room on the top for the cream."—Kansas City Star.

Your Hair
"Two years ago my hair was falling out badly. I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and soon my hair stopped coming out."
Miss Minnie Hoover, Paris, Ill.

Perhaps your mother had thin hair, but that is no reason why you must go through life with half-starved hair. If you want long, thick hair, feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor, and make it rich, dark, and heavy.

PULLING TEETH.
No Pain, and Doesn't Cost Much, at Wise Bros., Portland, Oregon.
The wonderful changes accomplished by advertising dentists are well illustrated by the fame of Wise Brothers, whose offices are in the Falling building, Third and Washington streets, Portland, Oregon. It is true that you can have a tooth pulled entirely without pain and that the cost of false teeth is very moderate. This great advance in dental surgery is one of the blessings of the present age. Establishments like that of Wise Brothers in Portland render it about as pleasant to yourself out with new teeth as to acquire any other article of wear and usefulness. We suggest that our readers watch the Wise Brothers' advertisements and act upon them.

Literary Note.

Pa—No, my son; it's usually filled with advertisements of powder and guns and things.—Philadelphia Press.

Fresh Corn.
Would you like to know, in the middle of the winter, what fresh corn is like? If you would, get a can of Monopole Corn, and, if it were not for the season, you would probably not know the difference. Monopole Corn is canned where it is grown, only the best and tenderest ears being used. It retains the natural freshness and flavor of the vegetable, and you won't find it half so good if you ask for any other brand. Your grocer doubtless handles Monopole groceries and can furnish you with them. If he will not, write us direct and we will advise you of one who will. Wadhams & Kerr Bros., packers, Portland, Ore.

HE COURTS SOLITUDE.
THERE IS A GRIM PATHOS IN THE LIFE
Of Lord Rosebery, of England, Who, Although Rich, Brilliant, Courted and Powerful, Almost Flees from the Society of Man.

After a rest of several years Lord Rosebery, who became the chief of the Liberal party on the death of Gladstone, is again becoming active in the political affairs of Great Britain. Long ago he handed on the homely question as affecting Ireland, to which he and his party were once committed, and now it is probable that there is not a more strenuous opponent to that policy to be found in British public life. Rosebery's renewed activity in public life and his high station make a study of his character interesting and much light upon this subject is given by the London Mail in a recent article.

Lord Rosebery, says the Mail, is one of the wealthiest and quite the most brilliant of the British aristocracy. He is a scholar of erudition, an author of distinction and the finest orator of his day. He stands out from amid a wealth of mediocrity in solitary and grand distinction. But, underlying all this scintillating surface, there is a grim and terrible pathos in his life—the pathos of utter solitude. Unseen by the crowd of admirers who worship and envy him in his proud supremacy, unrecogized even by those who write and speak of him as of a well-known friend, there is an almost tragical loneliness in his position—not merely in his political station, but in his domestic life. He is probably at the present moment the most closely observed of all public men, the best known to the general run of his countrymen. His circle of acquaintances is probably larger than that of any other person not of royal rank. His friends are legion. Yet it would be scarcely overstepping the truth to say that he has not a single intimate—that there is not a living creature with whom he can ever entirely throw off that reserve that hides his inner self as a garment. He is, even in the midst of the applauding multitude, at a reception, or at his own dinner table, always alone. It is only natural that this loneliness of disposition should beget a love of solitude.

It is not far to seek for the cause of this pathetic seclusion. Lord Rosebery's life, with all its glories, with all its achievements, has been a sad one. From his earliest days Fortune scattered her richest gifts on him with a lavish hand. Born of a mother as beautiful, as fascinating as she was intellectually brilliant—a former maid of honor and bride-maid to Britain's late sovereign—heritor of a proud title and of great wealth, blessed with mental gifts and aptitudes surpassing those of any man since Diarrail, and possessed of a sound if not robust constitution, the world lay at his feet when as little more than a boy he fell in love with the wealthiest heiress of his time—Miss Hannah Rothschild, heiress to the wealthiest and most powerful branch of that distinguished family. His meeting with her was as romantic as anything ever conceived by any novelist. His carriage collided with hers, and by extraordinary agility, combined with no less extraordinary presence of mind, he sprang out and caught her as she fell after having been thrown upward by the force of the impact. Then he carried her, stunned, to a neighboring house.

He devoted to her all the ardor and passion of a great nature, and, despite the most relentless opposition on the part of her father, he finally succeeded in winning her. The love that had stood the stress of a trying courtship lasted unimpaired during the whole of his married life. His wife was something more than a wife to him. She was his maker. She threw herself heart and soul into his work and into his sport. It was she that had made him a politician; it was she that set him out on that brilliant career which she never lived to see him consummate.

The effect on such a man of the tragically early death of such a helpmeet can be understood. It accounts for all his love of solitude, his preference for quietly tending his roses at the Durand, or wandering up and down the terraces at Mentmore, to the gnaty of a social life. Lord Rosebery is one of the most restless men in the United Kingdom. He is troubled with insomnia and he is constantly traveling from seat to seat in vain efforts to rid himself of his enemy.

The largest cathedral in the world is St. Peter's, at Rome, on the site where it is said St. Peter was interred. The total length of the interior is 612 1/2 English feet, transept 440 1/2 feet, diameter of cupola 193 feet, height of dome from pavement to the top of cross, 448 feet. It was begun in 1450 A. D., dedicated in 1626, but not finished until 1880. Forty-three Popes lived and died during the process of building. The cost is set down at $70,000,000.
