THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY MAY 7, 1903.

THE GLOBE DID IT.

An erstwhile valued subscriber to this wonderfully influential journal, whose residence is removed from Condon to the extent of some five parasangs, recently ordered his subscription discontinued, giving as his reason that he could not afford to take the GLOBE any more until after he gets his share of the new court house paid for. It is not generally known that the GLOBE and not the county court is responsible for this public improvement but since the secret has at last leaked out there is no further use in our denying it. This brother is no doubt on the right track. The court house is to be built against his wishes and he will be obliged to help pay for it and he proposes to do the only sensible thing that can be done, viz: Get even at the expense of the party who is directly responsible. Who is that party? We plead guilty to the glaring sin of commission. The GLOBE sure did it.

A year or so ago a certain business house withdrew its patronage from this great family newspaper and the only reason that we could glean from the complaint of one of the firm at the time was that a certain county road had not been kept in proper condition and, as one end of the aforementioned road pointed toward the store of the abovementioned firm, there seemed to be much perturbation of spirit on the part of the member aforesaid lest some of the trade which he desired might go astray and wander off to Alville or Ajax. Of course we should have kept the road in repair. We should have deposed the county court to a man, taken hold the reins of county government with a firm hand and said to the road boss, "You fix that road or we'll fix you—plenty. We had the power to do all this, of course. Aren't we the GLOBE? Isn't the GLOBE IT? We should rather think so from the way some things happen. We must again plead guilty. We failed to do our duty as county court, road boss and general high-cock a-loorum of the county and we lost an ad. It was a sin of omission this time though, The GLOBE did it—nit.

Once upon a time a certain well known politician desired, most fervently, to succeed himself to a certain county office. His party granted his desire, so far as was in its power by giving him the nomination. The campaign opened, progressed and waxed warm, but through it all this paper kept out of it neither supporting nor opposing him or his opponent. When the votes were counted, however, the gentleman aforesaid found to his deep disgust and chagrin that he was "shy" some 80 odd votes. He was not elected, There was only one thing any self-respecting man could do under such dietressing circumstances and that thing he did. He took out his "ad" and stopped his paper. He cut the GLOBE off at the pockets. He knew that this paper kept "hands off" in the campaign but he must have reasoned that in some mysterious, uncanny, supernatural sort of a way, the GLOBE did him up. That silent, all prevading, all powerful "influence" of ours must have gotten in its work. Once more the GLOBE did it—sure pop.

Instances might be multiplied but the foregoing is sufficient to show that some people in these parts rate that incalculable "influence" of ours at fully its face value and we may as well plead guilty, here and now, to being responsible for everything that happens, or fails to happen, on this mundane sphere. The Lewis and Clark Fair is our work, we turned Carrie Nation loose, we are responsible for the late long Winter and the long, late Spring. Mount Pelee would never have erupted and raised hades if it hadn't been for that direful, destroying, devastating "influence" of ours and no doubt the survivers of that disaster would have "got even," to a man, by "stopping their paper" had they been on our list.

If anybody gets the grippe or catches smallpox or stubs his toe or falls in love or backs three aces against four queens he should forth with lay the whole blame of the catastrophe to this journal. Its always safe to say, "the GLOBE did it."

We had not thought much about it before but after reviewing some past events and an occasional present happening we have decided that the GLOBE is credited with a vast influence which may explain why its subscription list doth so prosper and its advertising patronage fadeth not away. Selah!

A Startling Test.

To save a life Dr. T. G. Merrit, Mehoopany, Pa. made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes: "A patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at Condon Pharmacy.
