

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions.

Accept no substitute for Hood's.

"I had dyspepsia twenty-five years and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no burning and no distress." Mrs. WILLIAM G. BARNES, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

One Pleasure Once

"I suppose, Miss Rambo," said the caller, "that your father feels much happier now that he has been cured of his rheumatism?"

"Well," explained the young lady, "he feels better when he realizes that he does not have to suffer any more; but he feels pretty bad when he remembers how exactly he used to be able to foretell the weather."—Judge.

An Important Distinction

She—I suppose that it would take a great deal of observation and experience to enable a man to pick the fastest horse entered for a race.

He (mournfully)—Yes, but that isn't what you are trying to do. What you want is to pick the horse that is going to win.

Ocean Trout

Trout are believed to be exclusively fresh water fish. It happens, however, occasionally that some are caught with the herring in the German ocean.

Silence at Dinner

Whenever there is a marked silence at a large dinner party it is always, so the superstitious say, twenty minutes of the hour or twenty minutes after.

Easter

Easter is the Sunday which follows that fourteenth day of the calendar month which falls upon or next after the 21st day of March.

Wild Animals in Captivity

Captivity changes animals' nature. A lion captured when it is full grown will always be treacherous, but lions, tigers, leopards and other carnivorous animals that have been born in captivity can be tamed till they are quite as gentle and affectionate as poodle dogs.

Last Touch of Realism

The photograph and moving pictures have been combined, say the Chicago Tribune, thus making it possible to give the last touch of realism to prize fight views.

Tete-a-Tete

"Ah," he said to her over their ice cream, "it is very sweet, but not so sweet as you." "It is soft," she returned promptly, "but not so soft as you." "And it is cold," he concluded, "but not so cold as you."—Philadelphia Press.

Gyer—In a restaurant.—Chicago Daily News.

Birds and Floods

Many birds have an instinctive premonition of floods, and will change the positions of their nests or make other provisions for safety just before a heavy rainfall results in a flood which sweeps away their former homes.

Cream Custard Pie

Beat one egg, add two-thirds cupful of sugar and run in one and one-half cupfuls of good cream. Mix well, add a pinch of salt. Line a pie plate with paste, pour in the cream mixture and grate a little nutmeg over the top. Bake slowly and serve just cooled.—Detroit Free Press.

Tribute to Woman's Vanity

Traveling beauties never take passage on an ocean liner without a spirit lamp to heat their curling tongs. This practice imperils the ship through danger of fire. One of the big steamship lines has fitted every stateroom on its vessels with an electrical apparatus for heating the curling tongs.

Irish Women

Irish women can boast of having twins more frequently than any other women in the world. Twins are born in Dublin about once in every fifty-two births, as against a general world average of one in eighty.

URGENT INVITATIONS.

An American doctor who had received his degree from a certain German university recently paid a visit to his foreign alma mater. He had not been in the town since his graduation, ten years before, and the first few days of his visit were pleasantly spent in renewing his acquaintance with well-remembered haunts. This stirring up of old recollections brought with it a desire to see some of his former college friends, chief among them a certain Herr Schmidt, a brilliant scholar and entertaining companion.

On the fourth morning of his stay the doctor started out with the determination to hunt up his friend, Herr Schmidt. He had hardly left the hotel, however, when a smartly dressed policeman stepped up to him from behind, and touching him on the arm, inquired if he was Doctor Saunders of New York. The American replied that he was.

"In that case," said the policeman, "I shall have to place you under arrest. Please be so good as to follow me."

"Arrest?" stammered the doctor. "What for? It's an outrage!"

"Perhaps," said the policeman, "but I have my orders, and you must come with me."

The American was indignant, but seeing that there was no help for it, he suffered himself to be escorted to the guard-house. Here, after a brief examination, he was curtly told to seat himself upon a bench already occupied by another flushed and sullen-looking prisoner.

He had been there only a few minutes when a carriage drove up, and a loud, authoritative voice greeted the officer at the door:

"You have got the two criminals? Good! Let me see them!"

"The Herr Commissioner himself!" exclaimed the captain, rising from his desk. "These must be desperate fellows."

There was the ring of footsteps along the corridor, and the prisoners looked up to see, advancing toward them with outstretched hands and twinkling eyes, the tall form of Herr Schmidt.

"I am delighted to see you, doctor, and you, too, Mr. Watson! Pray let me introduce you. There! Now step out to my carriage, and we will have a drive and return to my house for lunch. You are my guests for the day."

It was the two "desperate fellows" took their places in the carriage with a sigh of relief. Herr Schmidt added: "I hope you will pardon my method of making up a party, but I learned in the course of my official business that you were in the city, and as there seemed to be no inclination on your part to look me up, I took this means of securing your company."

Max Muller's Modesty.
Speaking once of languages to Max Muller, a woman of India, herself a scholar, asked how many he knew.

"I hope I know my mother tongue," he replied. "I am acquainted with a few others."

"Why this caution?" laughed the lady.

"I will tell you," said the great Sanskrit scholar. "There came to me one day, as I sat here in my study—the Buddha on my hearth—a man who seemed my ideal of the Sanskrit priesthood. He spoke to me in an unknown tongue. I asked him what language he was speaking."

"The man huddled himself together on the floor and wept."

"I have honored you all my life," said he, "as the greatest living Sanskrit scholar in all the world. I speak to you a simple Sanskrit salutation, and you do not understand me."

"Since then," said Prof. Muller, "I never say that I know any language."

It was merely the difference between the spoken and the written dead tongue that had puzzled him. But that takes nothing from the humility of the linguist—a humility as refreshing as it is rare, and scarcely the mark of the age to which Prof. Mueller belonged.

Took a Couple.
It was a shop in a Highland town, and the traveler who called every three months was making his Christmas visit.

"Here's a box of good cigars," he said to the shopkeeper, "and I hope you will enjoy them."

"Oh, I couldn't take them. I never take business that way."

"Well, well, give me a shilling for the box," said the traveler, "if that will appease your conscience."

"Ay, ay! Well, let me see," said the shopkeeper, running his eye over the silver he fetched from his pocket. "I see I've got a florin here; I'll take a couple of boxes."

Curious Funeral Customs.
Prevalent in the south of Scotland. At Annan, in many cases, the funeral of a departed relative is an intimate and friends invited by the bellman going round from door to door telling the people of the event. Of course, he does not ring his bell when on his melancholy journey. At Langholm at the funeral of the relatives of the deceased are grouped together in front of the house where the cortege departs, and the other mourners go up to them, and one by one they give a sympathetic shake of the hand.

Tax on Fat People.
The project of a tax on fat people is being considered in Sweden. The advocates of the tax argue that when a man is above a certain weight he is in a well-fed and consequently prosperous condition, and so in a position to contribute easily to the public funds.

Woman's Nerves

Give Warning of Approach of More Serious Trouble.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability, bordering upon hysteria? Are your spirits easily affected so that one minute you laugh, and the next fall into convulsive weeping?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; sometimes loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy, with a tendency to cry at the least provocation?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Undoubtedly you do not know it, but in nine cases out of ten this is caused by some uterine disorder, and the nerves centering in and about the organs which make you a woman influence your entire nervous system. Something must be done at once to restore their natural condition or you will be prostrated for weeks and months perhaps, and suffer untold misery.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for this purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women have written us so.

How Mrs. Holland, of Philadelphia, suffered among the finest physicians in the country, none of whom could help her—finally cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For over two years I was a constant sufferer from extreme nervousness, indigestion, and dizziness. Menstruation was irregular, had backache and a feeling of great lassitude and weakness. I was so bad that I was not able to do my own work or go far in the street. I could not sleep nights."

"I tried several splendid doctors, but they gave me no relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I soon began to feel better, and was able to go out and not feel as if I would fall at every step. I continued to take the medicine until cured."

"I cannot say enough in behalf of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, and heartily recommend all suffering women to try it and find the relief I did."—MRS. FLORENCE HOLLAND, 622 S. Clifton St., Philadelphia, Pa. (Jan. 6, 1902.)

Another case of severe female trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after the doctors had failed.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in poor health for several years. I had female trouble and was not able to do my housework alone. I felt tired, very nervous, and could not sleep. I doctored with several doctors. They doctored me for my stomach, but did not relieve me. I read in your book about your medicine, and thought I would try it. I did so, and am now cured and able to do my work alone, and feel good. I was always very poor, but now weigh one hundred and fifty pounds."

"I thank you for the relief I have obtained, and I hope that every woman troubled with female weakness will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I have recommended it to many of my friends."—MRS. MARIA BOWERS, Millersville, Ohio. (Aug. 15, 1901.)

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all of the virtues of this medicine?

How shall the fact that it will help them be made plain? Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, and sick, and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

A Strong Character.

One of the novelists, referring to his hero, says:

His countenance fell.
His voice broke.
His heart sank.
His hair rose.
His eyes blazed.
His words burned.
His blood froze.

It appears, however, that he was able to pull himself together and marry the girl in the last chapter.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Next Thing in Line.

The oldest mason is beginning to get his name in the papers again, says the Chicago Record-Herald. Look out for another of George Washington's body servants.

His Business.

"What's your prospective non-law's business?" asked the old friend.

"Love-making, principally," growled the old man. "At least, I don't see how he finds time for much of anything else."—Chicago Post.

Precept and Practice.

Chronic Sores Eating Ulcers, A Constant Drain Upon the System.

Nothing is a source of so much trouble as an old sore or ulcer, particularly when located upon the lower extremities where the circulation is weak and sluggish. A gangrenous eating ulcer upon the leg is a frightful sight, and as the poison burrows deeper and deeper into the tissue beneath and the sore continues to spread, one can almost see the flesh melting away and feel the strength going out with the sickening discharges. Great running sores and deep offensive ulcers often develop from a simple boil, swollen gland, bruise or pimple, and are a threatening danger always, because, when all such sores are not cancerous, a great many are, and this should make you suspicious of all chronic, slow-healing ulcers and sores, particularly if accompanied by a constant drain upon the system.

Menstruation: About ten years ago a small sore came on each of my ankles. I doctored it with ointments and it became large, eating ulcers, and I suffered intensely for nearly ten years. I had spent more than $500.00 trying to get well when I chanced to see S. S. S. advertised in a Memphis paper. I began to take it and was cured. My limbs have never been sore or given me any pain at all since. I have recommended S. S. S. to a great many people, and am now giving it to my nine-year-old son for his sore. During my long sickness I was living near Memphis, Tenn., but have since removed to Kansas City, and am now residing at No. 614 East Sixteenth Street.

S. S. S. contains no mineral or poisonous drugs of any description, but is guaranteed a purely vegetable remedy, a blood purifier and tonic which local remedies cannot cure. A blood purifier and tonic is what you need. Some thing to cleanse the blood, restore its lost properties, quicken the circulation and invigorate the constitution, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy.

S. S. S. reaches these old chronic sores through the blood. It goes to the very root of the trouble and counteracts and removes from the blood all the impurities and poisons, and gradually builds up the entire system and strengthens the sluggish circulation, and when the blood has been purified and the system purged of all morbid, unhealthy matter the healing process begins, and the ulcer or sore is soon entirely gone.
