Does not let go of you when you apply lotions or liniments. It simply loosens its hold for a while. Why? Because to get rid of it you must correct the acid condition of the blood on which it depends. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured thousands.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hood's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known in the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hood's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. GETTING FATHER'S CONSENT.

Mr. Tenney smiled broadly. "And I s'pose I'm only a punkin with no blood to speak of an' no heart at all!" he said, with the air of holding himself nobly in check. Mrs. Tenney refused to accept the challenge. "That's neither here nor there—you're bain't a punkin," she replied. "What I want to know, Amos, is what you've got against George Raymond? He don't drink; he smokes, I believe, but only a pipe, not them cigarettes. He's got a good education, an' still he's willing to work. An' he's just lost in love for Alice."

"Shouldn't wonder 'f he was," said Mr. Tenney, complacently. "Nothing strange about that, with me the best fixed man in the township."
"Why, Amos, I am surprised!" exclaimed Mrs. Tenney. "You know 'f will you want to know that George would want Alice just the same if she come from—from the Dromedaries, down Tunkett way."

"Mebbe," said Mr. Tenney, discreetly.

"Do you mean that he cares for Alice because you're well-to-do?" dashed Mrs. Tenney.

"Not altogether," said Mr. Tenney, coolly. "But 'tis hardly likely that he's unaware of the fact that Alice will have all I've got some day. You know he'll never have a penny from anybody."

"So you mean to give me to understand that he's scheming an' calculating on Alice's prospects—is that it?" demanded Mrs. Tenney.

"I ain't accusing him of anything," said Mr. Tenney, impartially. "I'm merely saying that George is a poor young man an' that Alice's prospects are good."

"You was poor yourself when I married you," said Mrs. Tenney, reflectively.

"I admit it," said Mr. Tenney, as impersonally as he was able. "But that's no reason why I should set still an' see Alice make the same blunder."

"Did pa's being forehanded influence you any?" asked Mrs. Tenney.

Mr. Tenney perceived the narrowing circle of his wife's reasoning. "If you're going to be pers'nal—" he began.

"Did it, Amos?" persisted Mrs. Tenney.

"No, it didn't, an' you know it," answered Mr. Tenney, stiffly.

"You fell in love with me—just me—didn't you?" Mrs. Tenney knew it without assurance, but she waited anxiously for her husband's answer.

"Ain't you getting kind o' mushy, Ann?" he asked, mildly.

"It was that way, wa'n't it?" Mrs. Tenney continued, robustly.

Mrs. Tenney got up and began to move about the room. "I guess I'll be stirring," she said. "We expect George to supper an' to spend the evenin'. He an' Alice are engaged, Amos, and I told 'em I guessed to-night was good's any to ask your consent."

There was a spluttering exclamation behind the paper.

"What should you think we'd better give 'em—silver or money?" Mrs. Tenney asked, considerably.

"Just which you think best, Ann," answered Mr. Tenney, watching his wife out of the room.

"It's all right," Mrs. Tenney continued to Alice in the kitchen; "he didn't begin to go on as your gran'pa did. When ma spoke to him about your pa an' me, it took the greatest part o' the evening to bring him round."—Youth's Companion.

AUTOMATIC STRAINING DEVICE.
Every woman who has attempted the task is well aware of the muscular effort which is required to strain the cooked pulp of grapes, currants or other fruit to separate the juice for the making of jelly. After depositing the pulp in a strong cloth sack it becomes necessary to treat the latter in about the same manner as the washwoman treats a sheet which she has just taken from the water to wring. The harder it can be squeezed the more juice will there be for making the jelly, and so no effort is spared to collect all that the pulp contains. Should the idea of a Western woman prove practical for this purpose, the above described method of treatment will no longer be resorted to, as the new method is obviously easier than the old. The woman's intention is to suspend the cloth sack, filled with the pulp, from a rod clamped to the table, with a heavy iron ring around the neck of the sack. This ring by the sheer force of its weight gradually settles downward over the bag, compressing its contents as it falls and expressing the juice into a receptacle placed beneath for the purpose.

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, who witnessed her signature to the following letter, praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any I ever knew and thoroughly reliable."

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit, who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—Mrs. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Reed, 2425 E. Cumberland St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you the good I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"I have been a great sufferer with female trouble, trying different doctors and medicines with no benefit. Two years ago I went under an operation, and it left me in a very weak condition. I had stomach trouble, backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, and was very nervous; in fact, I ached all over. I find yours is the only medicine that reaches such troubles, and would cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., as thousands do.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

COULD NOT HEAR THE TICK OF A CLOCK.
Watertown, Pa., July 23, 1905.
Dear Sir: I have used S. S. S. for Catarrh of the prostate for years. I had been troubled with this disease for years and had a discharge from my ear and my hearing was so badly affected that I could not hear the tick of a clock. I was in bad shape when I began your medicine. S. S. S. has done away with the discharge and my hearing has been wonderfully improved; so much so that I can now carry on a conversation in an ordinary tone, whereas a year ago this was impossible.

Your medicine has done me a world of good and I do not hesitate to give it the credit it deserves.

NO SIGN OF CATARRH IN THIRTEEN YEARS.
Krebs, Ind. Ter., Aug. 1, 1905.
Dear Sir: About thirteen years ago I used your remedy for Catarrh. I had been troubled with it for about nine years, but since taking S. S. S. I have never been troubled with it. I feel able to recommend S. S. S. as a sure cure for Catarrh.
T. MILLWEE.

The way to cure Catarrh thoroughly and permanently is to cleanse the blood of the unhealthy secretions that keep the membranes of the body inflamed, and nothing does this so surely and promptly as S. S. S. As long as the blood is poisoned with Catarrhal matter the discharge of mucus and other disgusting symptoms of the miserable disease will continue. S. S. S. goes to the fountain source of the trouble and purifies and enriches the blood, and so invigorates and tones up the system that catching cold and contracting Catarrh is not so likely to occur. Keep the blood in order and winter's coming brings none of the discomforts of Catarrh.

Write us particulars of your case, and let our physicians help you get rid of this Blood-tainting and stubborn disease. We make no charge whatever for medical advice.

WORK OF THE SCIENTISTS.

Americans Too Busy to Devote Themselves to Original Research.
The American man of science works in the general laboratory of application and assimilation, says the Book-lovers' Magazine. The individual and epoch-making discovery is not usually made under American conditions. It has not been here that chemistry has been recognized by the periodic law of Mendeleeff, or physics by Helmholtz's conception of the conservation of energy. The greatest work of mathematics has not come from Americans, and it is not from them if we except the work of Willard and Walcott Gibbs that the flying leap has been taken from the conceptions of the mathematicians to the concepts of molecular or chemical physics. American physicists last winter seemed to be principally occupied in describing to more or less popular audiences what French and English physicists had accomplished in radium and radiant energy.

The broad, continuous record is made here in a wide round. So is the practical application of scientific discovery made elsewhere; but the initial discovery, the co-ordinating theory is not usually American.

Bessemer, a German, discovered the steel process that bears his name. English capital applied it. The United States makes more than half the world's Bessemer. This is not an invariable sequence, but it is frequent. Research in Germany; primary application in England; expansion in America.

It is in this country, most ripe with the application of science but deficient in original research, that Mr. Andrew Carnegie has given to this special work the largest endowment yet consecrated to the extension of the boundaries of knowledge. It is a favorite theory in American scientific circles that much discovery is stifled here by the insistent claims of teaching on time and strength. If this be so the revenue of the Carnegie Institute furnishes an escape. If it does not the cause for the relative absence of discovery must be looked for in our imperfect elementary education, which stifles where it should stimulate and dulls by routine and mechanical teaching, leaving the mind unable to profit to the highest by higher study in succeeding years.

THE FATHER-IN-LAW OF EUROPE.
Herewith is reproduced the latest portrait of King Christian, of Denmark, who has been dubbed the "father-in-law of Europe" owing to the fact that his children have married into reigning families of several of the great powers. One of his daughters is Queen Alexandra, of England, who does not let a year pass without paying a visit to her royal sister. The photograph from which the illustration was made was taken at Vienna while King Christian was paying a visit to his son-in-law, the Duke of Cumberland.

Mrs. Gilbert—Dean of the Stage.
Nowhere are gray hairs held in higher reverence than on the stage, especially when we ourselves have seen them come year after year, until the head that was once brown is streaked with silver; and Mrs. Gilbert has lived to teach a whole generation of young actresses something that they cannot learn from books or a dramatic school about the difficult and exquisite art of growing old gracefully. There has never been a time, indeed, when she could not teach her juniors a great deal about the art of listening on the stage, of keeping in the picture so as to retain the attention of an audience without clamoring for it and of playing even the least important scenes so as to give them their fullest significance and value.

Every honor that her profession can bring save the empty one of mere stardom, Mrs. Gilbert enjoys. She is sure of the heartiest kind of a reception on her first entrance, and the stage hands gather in the wings to watch her during her first scenes. Moreover, all New York knows her by sight and looks after her with kindly eyes as she passes.

"I'm sure I ought to be thankful to the Lord for all His mercies," she said to me once. "I never get into a crowded street car without finding somebody who knows who I am and gives me a seat."

This is a tribute that New York pays to no one else.—Ladies' Monthly.

Coaxing the Boy.
"Did I understand you to say that this boy voluntarily confessed his share in the mischief done to the school-house?" asked the magistrate, addressing the determined-looking female parent of a small and dirty boy.

"Yes, sir, he did," the woman responded. "I just had to persuade him a little and then he told me the whole thing voluntarily."

"How did you persuade him?" queried his worship.

"Well, first I gave him a good hiding," said the firm parent, "and then I put him to bed without any supper and took his clothes away and told him to stay in bed until he confessed what he'd done. If 'twas the rest of his days, and I should thrash him again in the morning. And in less than an hour he told me the whole story voluntarily."

A man should be getting on well in life when he is getting well on in life.

Some rules work both ways and some others won't work either way.

Sisters of Charity

Use Pe-ru-na for Coughs, Colds, Grip and Catarrh—A Congressman's Letter

In every country of the civilized world Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never failing safeguard.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommendation recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
Dear Sir—The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."

—Sisters of Charity.
The young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat with good results as the above letter testifies.
