

THE CONDON GLOBE.

THURSDAY APRIL 14, 1904.

THIS PAPER is kept on file at F. C. Smith, 221 Main Street, San Francisco, California, where a notice for advertising can be made for it.

BOOMING EXPOSITIONS.

Several months ago when the GLOBE took a stand against publishing columns of free advertising matter for the Lewis and Clark Fair on the ground that country papers could not afford to do that kind of business, it was roundly roasted by the Portland Telegram and by a few country cuckoo organs as well. The roasting did not hurt the GLOBE a bit but it has given us some satisfaction to notice that since that matter was discussed the country papers have cut out the long winded boiler plate matter without exception. The following from the Sherman county Observer shows that the position taken by the GLOBE on the Portland fair is identical with that taken by the wide awake publishers of Illinois relative to the St. Louis show:

The Illinois Press Association has adopted a resolution which practically declares an injunction restraining the papers of any of its members from running any form of free reading notices for the St. Louis exposition. This action on the part of the newspaper owners is timely, and was the proper thing to do, as it is time exposition managers and promoters were given to understand that they can no longer work the press in the interest of their enterprises. The coming Lewis and Clark exposition must be treated as a business proposition pure and simple. Charity is a good thing, but charity success never endures as does business success. Publishers have reached the limit in the complimentary booming of expositions.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured. "I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. H. Waldron, of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful liniment."

Senator Burton, of Kansas, who has been on trial for some time on a charge of standing in with a fake grain gambling company in St. Louis and accepting money from the concern as fees for his influence for them in the post office department has been found guilty and been sentenced to six months in the county jail. If it was some poor devil who had stolen a measly cayuse or a four dollar calf he would have got six years at hard labor in the pen. That's the difference between a poor devil and a U. S. Senator. In passing sentence on Burton the judge apologized for the light sentence by explaining that as the sentence would forever debar him from holding any public office he (the judge) felt that that, in itself would be punishment enough. It must be pretty tough on a grafter of Burton's accomplishments to be shut away from the public crib and be obliged to hustle for husks with the common herd. The chances are, however, that Burton's nest is pretty well feathered by this time.

A girl who has evidently been stirred to emulation by the success of the Y. W. C. A. cooking class, offers this receipt for a kiss. It may be worth trying: To one piece of drak piazza add a little moonlight. Take for granted two people. One small, soft hand held between two two stronger hands. Sift and stir in two whis-pers. Dissolve half a dozen glances in an hour of silence, and mix one ounce of resistance with two of readiness. Place the kiss on a flivving cheek or two ruby lips, flavor with a slight scream and set aside to cool.—Ex.

The Smoot investigation at Washington goes merrily on. The committee is probing unmercifully into that poor old polygamist's private life. Wonder how many members of the committee or of the senate at large could have their records laid as bare as Smoot's has been without creating several columns of spicy reading matter for the yellow journals.—Long Creek Light.

If any fairly good looking woman is suffering for newspaper notoriety all that is necessary is for her to get arrested in Portland in connection with the Oregon land frauds. Miss Marie Ware seemed to get her share of attention last fall when she was arrested but she is likely to turn green with envy at the send off all the Portland papers are giving Mrs. Watson who got arrested and a writeup last week.

What's the matter with Oregon's climate? Surely the sunshine and pleasant breezes of the past week partly atone for the stormy March weather.

Whatever views may be entertained as to the rights or transgressions of organized labor, it is an undisputed fact that the situation in Colorado is one that should receive the most thorough investigation. If reports of current events in that labor troubled region are correct outrages are being committed in that in that in this country above all others should not be tolerated for an instant. In Saturday's dispatches from the Rocky Mountain State the public is informed that striking miners who have been deported by the militia from the Telluride district have been the victims of ill usage by the troops such as we might conceive as characterizing the conduct of Russian soldiery doing police duty in Siberia. Such details as striking men under escort with the butts of muskets and prodding them with bayonets are features of the latest reports. Specific instances are also related where deported miners are in a critical condition physically by reason of the treatment they have received at the hands of the troops. If these reports are true there is but one course to pursue in the premises. If they are not true that fact should be established without delay. The reputation of Colorado is not alone involved, the good name of the American people is jeopardized. If in any one of the forty-five states tyrannical brutality, under military administration, in time of peace, is in the saddle, it is time the situation was clearly understood. Unless these reports are canards, there is richly deserved punishment due somebody in Colorado—punishment that should be swift, sure and effective.—Telegram.

The prediction is made and it is by no means optimistic that an advance of four or five dollars a head on practically all classes of cattle seems reasonably certain in the immediate future. This advance would not have come for perhaps several months yet under ordinary circumstances but it would have come all the same. It is coming sooner for the very simple reason that real conditions can no longer be concealed. The actual beginning of hostilities between the Russians and Japanese, while to be generally deplored from a humanitarian standpoint, was an element in promoting a better feeling among buyers. While the parties to this unhappy conflict may not be very large meat eaters under ordinary circumstances, yet with large armies in the field, the fighters must be fed, and the world has learned that American meat is something that can be depended upon to put stiffening into a fellow's spinal column and a spirit of bravery into his heart. It is to America these belligerents must look for meat to feed their armies and their navies with and a brisk demand for American meat advances the price of it on the hoof considerably, even in the face of the continued desire of the beef trust to further milk the producers. A presidential election year is always a bad time for any industry of the country to recover lost vantage ground and so the present year would have been had it not been for the complications that have arisen in the far east. Under ordinary circumstances it is probable that the market manipulations could and would have continued to skin the producers under the cry of overproduction until such time as their house would have fallen of its weight, which would have probably been some time during the coming fall, but the situation has been changed with the firing of the first Japanese gun. There will be a rapid awakening to the real situation through the ascertainment of the depleted condition of the country as a whole, induced by the heavy demand for cattle.
