THRESHING COMPANIES.

The Big Agricultural and Saw Mill Machinery Houses Centered in Portland as Headquarters for the Northwest.

There is nothing of which Portland is more proud than the great agricultural implement houses that make their headquarters for the Northwest in this city. Among the first of these is the Advance Thresher Company, which has built a fine warehouse and offices on the East side at Second and Belmont streets. Mr. J. O. Humphrey is the manager in charge of the company's splendid business in this section, and he is now in the thick of spring activity at his commodious quarters.

The threshermen are just now looking sharply after new equipment and necessary repairs and renovations for the coming season, and no one omits calling at the Advance establishment if he seeks to inform himself fully as to the market and advantages of the various threshing outfits. In fact a visit to the agricultural and saw mill machinery manufacturers houses on the East side is a liberal education to anyone who wants to get a fair idea of the vast farmer interests of this part of America.

Immense capital is invested in these concerns. They sell largely on credit, and when times are prosperous an enormous amount of machinery is sold and paid for. They are the thermometer of the advancement and prosperity of the great Northwest. The factory and principal place of business of the Advance Threshing Company is at Battle Creek, Michigan. Two years ago they came into Portland, and now they are doing business with the most active and influential people in their lines.

A Guide to the Height of Heels.
There are four different heights, with as many different names, of the military heel alone. As a guide to those who want to be right on the subject of heels, remember the following: Up to one and one-quarter inches a heel is a military, up to one and one-half inches it is a Cuban, above that it is a Spanish heel. When it goes above two inches it is a Cantilian. The French heels range from one and one-quarter to two inches usually—and are called Louis XV. The Du Barry heel runs from two inches—and quite a few women wear it—Shoe Retailer.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer four hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Bones with the People Off.
Two little fellows of 7 and 8 years heard older people speaking of skeletons. The 7-year-old boy listened patiently to the conversation, when the older boy, with an air of superior knowledge, said abruptly: "You don't know what a skeleton is, and I do."
"So do I," replied the younger. "I do know."
"Well, what is it?"
"It's bones with the people off,"—Pathfinder.

"Are you the waiter who took my order for that chop?" "Yes, sir." "Bless me, how you have grown!"

"She says she is very fond of music." "Instrumental?" "Well, it's instrumental in making the neighbors swear when she gets at the piano."—Exchange.

Jinkins—How is your son getting along in his literary labors? Jorkins—Oh, famously! You should see how gracefully he carries his pen behind his ear.—Boston Transcript.

Tonsorial Artist—Your hair seems to be coming out. Freshman—Yes, it is. Tonsorial Artist—Tried our hair tonic? Freshman—Yes, but that didn't do it, though.—Yale Record.

"How hollow it sounds!" said a patient under the movement cure, as the physician was vigorously pounding his chest. "Oh, that's nothing!" said the doctor; "wait till we get to the head."

Alice (aged 5)—Mamma, my appetite says it's time for dinner. Mother—Well, dear, go and see what the clock says. Alice (some seconds later)—The clock says my appetite is ten minutes fast!

Husband—What! A hundred dollars for an opera cloak? Why, it is perfectly ridiculous, my dear. Wife—Yes, I know it is; but you said you couldn't afford an expensive one.—Chicago Daily News.

Tenacious—Johnny, write on the blackboard the sentence "Two heads are better than one." Now, Johnny, do you believe that? Johnny—Yes, sir. 'Cause then you kin get a job in a dime museum and make lots o' money.

"At what age do you consider women the most charming?" asked the inquisitive female of more or less uncertain age. "At the age of the woman who asks the question," answered the man, who was a diplomat—New Yorker.

Howes—Don't like this cold weather, eh? Why, only last summer you were complaining of the heat. Barnes—Not of the heat itself, but rather because of its untimeliness. It would be all right if reserved for such weather as this.—Boston Transcript.

"You may turn up your nose at me, Martha Ann Billwink, but I want you to remember I'm trying to get away from you." "Well, I'll just show the freckle-faced thing she can't do that—George dear!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Father," said Kathie, "how much does a quite small bottle of ink cost?" "You can get one for a penny," answered father. "A penny!" exclaimed Kathie, in great disgust. "And mumble made an awful fuss when I upset the littlest bottle in the cupboard!"

"Aren't you ashamed of your indolence?" "Indeed, I am," answered Meandering Mike. "I've been trying to do something for it." "What?" "I've been takin' de faith cure. I've been 'choppin' make-believe wood wit' an imaginary ax."—Washington Star.

Newitt—Well, there's one thing about the weather. It's always a safe topic of conversation. Boroughs—I thought it was to-day when I met with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. MALARIA

AN INVISIBLE ENEMY TO HEALTH

Malaria is a slow poison, but the most stubborn and deeply rooted when it takes possession of the system. We breathe into the lungs the polluted, germinated air; the little microbes then enter into the system, and feeding upon the red corpuscles of the blood, soon reduce this vital, life-sustaining fluid to such a weak, watery state that the patient becomes listless, pale and anemic, and mentally and physically depressed. Malaria may begin with slight rigors or chills sensations, followed by fever and thirst; but gradually all parts of the system are affected; the liver becomes torpid, and dark or yellow spots appear upon the skin; the stomach fails to properly digest the food, and there are frequent headaches, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, constipation and a general worn-out, tired feeling that only a sufferer from Malaria can describe. Other and more dangerous symptoms are apt to follow where this disease is neglected, such as nervous prostration, palpitation, sleeplessness, enlarged liver, weak kidneys, boils and risings and dangerous-looking sores and abscesses. Malaria is all the more dangerous because of its insidious and stealthy nature. It is an invisible atmospheric poison, and the germs and microbes that are lodged in the blood are propagating and increasing in number all the while, clogging the circulation and gradually wrecking the health.

What is needed in Malarial troubles is a blood purifier and tonic. S. S. S. purifies the germ-infected blood, tones up the stomach, improves the appetite and invigorates the entire system. It stimulates the torpid, sluggish organs of the body, enabling them to properly perform their functions and carry off the poisonous secretions and health-destroying matter that have been polluting the blood and clogging the circulation. S. S. S. contains no strong minerals, but is strictly a vegetable remedy, a blood purifier without an equal, and the greatest of all tonics. If you have any symptoms of Malaria, write us, and medical advice will be furnished without cost.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

The letter of Miss Merkle, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I hesitated to do this, and I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous as perfectly well. My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, MISS MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$2000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Always Leap Year.
In one part of "all the Russias," the province of Ukraine, it is always leap year as far as the female privilege of proposing is concerned. It is said to be customary there, when a young woman falls in love with a man, for her to go to his father's house, and in the most tender and pathetic manner plead with the young man to take her as his wife. She promises the most submissive obedience to his will if he will but accept her. If the young man says: "I beg that you will excuse me from this," she tells him that she is resolved not to depart until he shall promise to take her for better or worse. She accordingly takes up her abode there and remains until he is wooed and won or until he ends the siege by fleeing to parts unknown.

Old Soldier's Story.
Sonoma, Mich., June 13.—That even in actual warfare disease is more terrible than bullets is the experience of Delos Hutchins of this place. Mr. Hutchins as a Union Soldier saw three years of service under Butler Barke in the Louisiana swamps and as a result got crippled with Rheumatism so that his hands and feet got all twisted out of shape and how he suffered only a Rheumatic will ever know.

For twenty-five years he was in misery, then one lucky day his druggist advised him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of the result Mr. Hutchins says: "The first two boxes did not help me much but I got two more and before I got them used I was a great deal better. I kept on taking them and now my pains are all gone and I feel better than I have in years. I know Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Rheumatism."

Flight of Big Birds.
Of birds now in existence, probably the one with the greatest expanse of wing in proportion to the body and with the greatest power of flight is the frigate or man-of-war bird. This bird apparently flies more by skill than by strength, for it has not great carrying powers. The wandering albatross, the largest of all seabirds, is also one of our strongest flyers. One bird was known to fly at least 3,150 miles in twelve days.

HE FOUND THE TROUBLE.
Bourke Cockran's Story of the Boy Who Fathered His Word.
In an address that he recently delivered on the labor question, W. Bourke Cockran told a story of his boyhood, says the New York Tribune. "It was born in Ireland," he said, "and in Ireland I obtained a part of my education. I remember well the school I attended and I remember well a school fellow of mine named Michael, a lad who was always talking about trouble and always looking for it. We are on the question of trouble now and therefore in Michael's experience it may be that there is something to profit us."

"Michael boasted constantly that the master was afraid to flog him. Why? Oh, because his father had said that if a hand was ever laid upon the boy there would be trouble. But one day Michael misbehaved and the flogging due was not long in coming. "The boy went home indescribably enraged. He sought out his father. "Father," he said, "didn't you say that if the schoolmaster ever licked me there would be trouble?" "Well, I was licked to-day, and only for throwing paper pellets about the room."

"The father frowned. "I never fail, my boy, to keep a promise," he said. "There is going to be trouble. Fetch the strap."

Her "Because."
Mrs. Rubberton—Why did you withdraw your application for divorce?
Mrs. Gayboy—Because I found that I wouldn't be able to get enough alimony to support another husband.

THE OLD CHESTNUT TREE.

Love for Familiar Things of Nature Shows Culture of the Genuine Sort. A woman whose busy life is lived in a large city returned to her old home the other day for a visit. All the old-time neighbors came to see her, and the weeks were crowded with the pleasure of revived memories. Of one of these memories she wrote afterward to a friend:

"But the pleasantest appointment I kept was with the big old chestnut-tree on the path to school. The leaves were deep on the ground underneath, and I pushed about through them just as we used to do twenty years ago, and thought of the many boys and girls who had got nuts there on the way to and from school. I picked up the leaf of big glossy nuts myself, and managed to rub two holes through the patent leather tips of my second best shoes. But the nuts were worth it. I don't know when I've been so happy."

"I came away with a new purpose to live for. I'm going to own that tree! It won't cost much, for the land there isn't worth anything, and what joy it will be to me in my city days to think that I have saved the old tree so that other boys and girls, so long as it lives, can scuffle through the leaves and pick up the nuts under its branches, and gather dreams and memories also from it as I used to do so many years ago."

The letter strikes a note which is far less common than it should be. City "opportunities" seem to eager young people all over the country to offer the one open door to education, and that most rare and elusive ideal, culture. But culture is a quality of the soul, not an amount, greater or less, of knowledge put into the mind. It is won, not by effort, but by the love that unconsciously ripens into "dreams and memories."

Readers of Lowell's letters will recall his life-long love for the trees of Elmwood, and Longfellow never liked to leave Cambridge while his lilacs were in bloom. Men of wide scholarship that they were, much of their treasure was gathered not from the rare folios on their library shelves, but from the common things of their own dooryards.

There are opportunities that the city does not control, and to one who loves them, prairie and distant hills, the meadow brook and the maple beside the door offer a culture that no book can give.

SCARED HIM INTO PREACHING.
In the early days of Methodism in the West a "circuit rider," if he had a large field to cover, was sometimes permitted to have a "colleague," who was frequently a young minister, just beginning to preach. The Rev. John Thompson was a circuit rider in a somewhat thinly settled portion of central Illinois more than fifty years ago. The colleague assigned to him was Brother James Smith, an excellent young man, but with very little experience as a preacher.

One Sunday Mr. Thompson had an appointment at a small meeting-house in the country, but having a severe cold he asked his young assistant to go along with him and preach the sermon, and the latter, as in duty bound, obeyed orders.

Brother Smith had never undertaken to preach in the presence of his more experienced colleague, and when, after the opening services, he rose and gave out his text, he was visibly embarrassed.

He stammered through a few sentences, hesitated, made another attempt, and came to a dead stop.

"What's the use, brethren?" he said, sitting down. "I can't preach!"

Brother Thompson saw that the case was one in which heroic measures were necessary.

"Young man," he whispered sternly in his ear, "you get up again and preach that sermon, or I'll take you out in the grove, after this meeting is over, and give you a hard spanking, as sure as your name is Smith!"

An electric shock could not have operated quicker. Brother Smith rose to his feet again, his hesitation all gone, and in ringing tones he preached a sermon that is still remembered by aged survivors of that old-time congregation as the most fervid and eloquent discourse they ever heard so young a man deliver.

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY

Mrs. Eva Bartho, 133 East 12th St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years with leucorrhea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am today in perfect health and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Belva Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who endorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes: "Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows: "I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria, and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman today."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I wish to add my endorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

"It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied on to cure all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to greater test than the past year."

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their troubles, he will immediately reply with complete directions for treatment, free of charge. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
