

Doctor Wanted.

Rabbitville wants and Rabbitville has got to have to once a good doctor. We dont guess we will be lucky enuff to get one as good as the lamented Dick Stappatt, for that would be expecting too much. But we do want a feller what knows the difference between measles and bots, and who woodent puke a feller what needed fysick and vicy vercey. (them is two lattu words.) And that is askin a good lot in these defenegrate days when doctorin is lernit so easy and is teachid by an menny schools, turnin out a good menny doctors what had orter be a diggin post holes or pondm sand. We dont want a diplomny doctor or a specialty doctor, but one what can cure moles and gotes and sheep as well as men and wimmen, and one what has got tonge for pullin teeth and know how to use em too, for there is lots of teeth pullin to be did here, both human and also hosses. Write at once to the city drugstore what gives a rake off to doctors. This is a good chanet, and should not be overlooked, for it would lead a good man to fain and fortune, besides helpin me to bring Rabbitville to the front.—Irrigon Irrigator.

New Business College.

Mr. Wm. Hosford Wann, who is connected with the Pbilian Business College, of Portland, has established a branch of that popular institution in this city and for the present is holding evening school sessions in the east side public school building. The course of study embraces bookkeeping, penmanship and other branches taught in modern commercial schools and the school is starting off under most favorable auspices with about twenty students in attendance and promised. Mr. Wann is a competent instructor and it is his intention and that of those with whom he is associated to make the school a permanent institution in Condon. A new advertisement of the school appears in this issue.

Surprise parties have been the social order of the week. The homes of Geo. Gibbons and Charles Lillie jr. rang merry for the greater part of the evening of January 17th and 19th.

Horace McBride, of the firm of Edwards & McBride, of Mayville precinct, has sold his interest in the ranch and cattle to W. J. Edwards, father of the former senior member the firm. Fred Edwards retains his interest in the property and has assumed active charge of the new firm's business. Mr. Edwards will be pleased to confer with anyone wishing to secure full blood or high grade stock of his breeds. His advertisement will appear in these columns later.

A case was on trial here last week between P. L. Ham, of Lone Rock and Wm. Matlock, of Heppner, over the settlement of an old partnership. Redfield & VanVactor, of Heppner, looked after Matlock's interests and Bowerman & Snover, of this city, took care of Mr. Ham's side of the matter.
