COURT CONVOY. NO. 34. F. OF A. MEETS
Monday evening of each month in Assembly Hall lodge room. Visiting brothers are requested to meet with us. A warm welcome awaits you.
J. E. VANDEK, F. S. W. W. OVERLANDER, C. E.

A FINAL WORD.

With this issue I sever my connection with the Condon Globe, the ownership and management of the paper having been transferred to W. H. Hornibrook. Mr. Hornibrook is a graduate of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, and of the law department of National University, Washington, D. C., and I bespeak for him the hearty support of all former patrons, believing that, for years to come the Globe will continue to be an exponent of the best interests of Gilliam county.

During the past eight years the Globe has been conducted as a strictly independent newspaper in the columns of which all citizens have been free to express their views on any matter of public import and in which it has ever been my aim to accord strictly fair and impartial treatment to all men, whether friends or foes. That this policy has proven a success is evidenced by the fact that the business of the paper has been multiplied by three within the past five years, the plant has been improved and increased and the business has been put on a firm basis. It is proper, therefore, that I should express my appreciation of the liberal support which the Condon and Gilliam county public has accorded the paper without which such a full measure of success would not have been possible.

During these eight years I have seen Condon grow from an insignificant country hamlet to a modern interior western city, admittedly the best town in eastern Oregon, and in this development I may be pardoned for feeling that the Globe has taken no unimportant part.

It is because of no loss of faith in Condon nor in the Globe that I am retiring from the business. The future outlook for both was never brighter than at the present time. It is simply a case of having been twelve years in the harness and a desire for change of scene and occupation. That's all.

Thanking the public for past patronage and with best wishes for all,
Respectfully,
S. A. PATTISON.

SALUTATORY.

Beginning with this issue of the Globe the undersigned assumes active management of the paper. Like all new editors, business or professional men, we have our hopes. We hope to make the Globe, as it has been in the past, a live, up-to-date country newspaper. We will continue to make a specialty of fine job printing and Chas. E. Hicks, who is a first-class job workman, will continue in the employ of the office. In state and national politics the Globe will hereafter be edited as a Republican newspaper. We trust the new order of things will be agreeable to our patrons and that the paper will continue to receive the support and retain the good will of the community as it has in the past. Wm. H. Hornibrook.

Now comes the report from New York to the effect that unless prompt action is taken by District Attorney Jerome to indict John McCall and Hamilton for their connection with the recent insurance disclosures that Governor Higgins will employ a special prosecutor and have a special grand jury empaneled for that purpose. And why should they not be indicted? Are we living in an age when the cloak of wealth means immunity from criminal prosecution? Should their social and financial status be a bar to punishment for what they justly deserve? Is a man's guilt or innocence to be determined by the amount of goods, chattels or money he has appropriated to his use, or is the standard to be whether or not he has misappropriated what rightfully belongs to another? The New York authorities must choose between the two standards and the public is awaiting with intense interest the outcome of their decision.

The pure food bill has again bobbed up serenely at Washington. In substance it provides for federal control of foods, liquors and drugs in the course of interstate and foreign commerce and provides against the importation of such articles which are misbranded or adulterated. The strongest and most enthusiastic champion of this bill is Senator Heyburn of Idaho and it is largely due to his efforts that "pure food legislation" has ceased to be regarded by the United States senate as a bill which is not backed by public sentiment and not for the public welfare. During the last session of congress by the skillful maneuvers of the opposition, it was not allowed to come to a vote and the same attempt has been made during this session. There is now, however, a strong probability that the manufacturing interests will bow to the inevitable and allow a pure food bill of some form or other to be enacted during this session of congress.
