NO. 27.

Judge Bradshaw and a number of attorneys from The Dalles, Portland and other places arrived in Condon Monday evening to attend to circuit court business.

D. H. Woodfin purchased S. B. Barker's interest in the W. F. Parks & Co. meat market. The firm will still be known as W. F. Parks & Co.

Work on the Gilliam Co. Bank building is going along rapidly with good prospects for the building being completed in a few weeks.

Robt. B. Spencer was shaking hands with friends in Condon this week. Mr. Spencer was one of the early settlers of this county but disposed of his interests and moved to Eugene, Oregon, last April.

F. T. Sanders was in Condon this week shaking hands with friends. Fred has been rust eating for some months on the F. M. Springston ranch in Lost Valley. His wife and sister-in-law, Miss Nellie Springston, accompanied him.

At the meeting of the Condon Commercial Club last Friday evening it was unanimously voted to liquidate the affairs of the Club and disband.

The new oven for the Home Bakery was received from Chicago this week and the bakery has been moved into the rooms that were formerly occupied by the Condon Commercial Club. Mr. Townley has gone to a great deal of expense in purchasing new fixtures and the establishment now presents a neat and attractive appearance.

Word has been received from Dr. D. C. Luster that he has located for the practice of his profession at Weston, Oregon. While in Condon he made a reputation for himself as a physician and surgeon and was universally well liked. That the doctor will soon work into a large practice is a foregone conclusion.

On last Thursday evening at a call meeting of the Baptist Church it was unanimously agreed to continue their pastor for another year on the same salary. Pastor Mount has not announced his decision but has a call elsewhere which he may accept.

CIRCUIT COURT BUSINESS

Judge Bradshaw arrived Monday evening and circuit court convened the next morning at nine o'clock. The first case that came to trial was that of J. W. Engberg vs. C. E. Smith. It was an action on a promissory note. Attorneys Farman and Parker appeared on behalf of the plaintiff and S. W. Stark of The Dalles for the defendant. The jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The case of the State of Oregon vs. Harry Grubb on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon attracted considerable attention. District Attorney Frank Menefee and his assistant, D. R. Parker, appeared for the State and Attorney John Gavin for the defense. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty but recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court. He was fined $50. The cases of the State of Oregon against W. E. Owens on the charge of burglary and against Ed Martine on the charge of larceny by bailee were dismissed upon motion of the District Attorney. In the case of the State vs. John M. Robb on charge of assault with a dangerous weapon the defendant plead guilty and was given a sentence of one and one-half years in the state penitentiary. The case of Dixon Gantt vs. the O. R. R. & Co. in which the plaintiff alleged damages to the amount of $300 as a result of damages sustained to a carload of horses during the course of transportation, was tried Thursday. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

WHITE RUSSIAN MAKES BIG YIELD

Millard French brought in a couple of stools of dry land wheat from the French Bros' ranch on Hinton Creek, Monday which he will send to the Jamestown Exposition for exhibit next year. One variety of the wheat was what he called White Russian, which Mr. French says was his best yielder. In one field he harvested 40 bushels per acre of this wheat this season, and last year he says the yield was 60 bushels per acre, but it was hand planted and "dry farmed". The stool that he brought in Monday of this variety contained 220 stalks with well-filled heads with an average of five berries to the mesh. Forty bushels is a good crop any year, but a season like this it is the exception and certainly places this variety a long way in the lead in the point of yield. The other variety that Mr. French will place on exhibit at the Jamestown fair is a hybrid and although he has not tested it thoroughly Mr. French thinks it is almost as large a yielder as the White Russian. It was grown in the same manner and has the same number of grains to the mesh although the heads do not appear as large and fluffy as the Russian but it does not shatter as easily. The samples he brought in Monday are certainly a good illustration of what can be done by "dry land" or intensive farming.—Heppner Times.

WOOLGROWERS MEET

The annual meeting of the Oregon State Wool Growers Association was held in Condon Tuesday. About thirty-five delegates from nearly every part of the state were present. The morning session was held at the court house and was presided over by R. R. Keys, secretary of the association. The afternoon session was held in the Armory hall and was largely attended by Gilliam county sheepmen as well as the delegates from other parts of the state. Many important questions were taken up and discussed, among the most important of which was that of recommending more rigid quarantine regulations in regard to diseases of stock. A committee of five was appointed to formulate a rough draft of a law that would be acceptable to the sheepmen. The question of the forest reserve policy of the government was also discussed pro and con and it was resolved that the cut in the proposed allotment in the Blue Mountain Reserve should not exceed 25 per cent. J. N. Burgess was elected president for the ensuing year and D. P. Synthe, secretary. The next meeting of the Association will be held at The Dalles.

GOOD FLOUR

The following letter was received by Chas. F. Kennedy of this city from Will Moore agent for the Pacific Coast Elevator Co. at Pendleton and speaks well for the flour that is turned out by the Gilliam Co. Milling Co.

Pendleton, Oregon, Sept. 14, 1906.

Dear sir:
I yesterday ordered a car of Posthater flour through the Portland office. We are in a hurry for this and I wish that you would help us get it as soon as possible. I have sold it to Hoback Bros. They need the 10 barrels that I got for a sample and say that it is better than the hard wheat flour they have been getting from Minnesota.
Yours truly,
WILL MOORE.

SCISSORED JOKES

Bella—What do they want to discover the north pole for? Stella—What for? Why, for the sake of getting some picture post cards from there, of course.

Chapleigh—I—aw—nevah associate with those—ah—hawid baseball players, doncherknow. Miss Caustique—I Suppose not. There are some things that even baseball players won't stand for.

Yeast—A drunken man is always garrulous is he not? Crimsenbeak—Yes; it's hard to shut a man up tight.

"Tell me of Gladys Vanderfeller, who was married five years ago. She used to keep society agog. Is she as sensational as ever?" "More so. She actually has children."

Scribbles—Pennington surely knows how to treat a subject. Dribbles—Yes, but that's his limit. I never knew him to treat an acquaintance.

Dayse—Oh dear! What on earth shall I say to Mr. Jinks when he calls tonight? Grayce—Why, has he proposed? Dayse—No, the mean thing that's just it.

"I asked the young lady graduate who took the medal for the best debate why the logic of her side appealed to her." "What did she say?" "She said 'Because'."
