COURT CONDON, NO. 34, P. OF A. MERTS
Mondays evening of each month in Armory Hall lodge room. Visiting brothers are requested to meet with us. A warm welcome awaits you.

J. E. VAUGHN, F. S. W. W. OVERLANDER, C. R.

Spain is a great country for castles in the air, also for the "heir" in the castle.

Senator Allison says, "The tariff is going to be a live issue soon". Same old story: not yet, but soon.

The Chicago Examiner finds that there are other things in Spring beside love and poetry, carpet beating for instance.

A Southern paper announces that the president will next attack the dynamite trust. This ought to cause a big blow out.

From all accounts that come from the big cities it appears that in race suicide the stork is not so much to blame as the milk.

It may be well for our distinguished foreign visitors to bring only imitation jewelry and toilet articles if they would foil the souvenir hunter.

Mr. Taft is booked for ten speeches in eleven days. If he doesn't care to touch on politics in them, he will find that the weather is always a good topic this year.

"I am convinced" says Secretary Root, "that one of the plainest duties of citizenship is hopefulness". And Messrs. Fairbanks and Bryan are discharging that duty in a most commendable manner.

All of these people who are arguing that women should be especially protected because they are more delicate than men should take a look around at the girls who are wearing peek-a-boo waists while the men are shivering around in their winter flannels.

Rev. Dr. Ferguson says that while he was in Panama he saw several members of the Congressional party break for a saloon as soon as they landed, and he wants the president to investigate. There will be no need for the president to leave Washington to do so. He can see the same thing if he will wait until the opening of Congress.

The gas trust is creating a big stink in New York.

And standard oil still says "What are you going to do about it?" Tweed said that once and found out what we did. The "pen".

The N. Y. Herald claims that are 198,000 young widows in that city. This suggests a revival of the old play "The Perils of New York".

Pittsburg bank clerks are demanding rubber gloves to wear when handling money. Is Pittsburg money so badly tainted as all of that?

So far this season, honors are about even between the automobile owners and innocent bystanders, so far as getting killed is concerned.

"Abe" Ruef says his conscience "hurt" him. It was doubtless quite a shock to his nervous system to discover that he had a conscience.

A Chicago woman says she is going to "try to stop smoking on the streets and in all public places." It might help her some if the men would refuse to give her a light.

The Portland saloon keepers estimate that the Sunday closing ordinance will cause them a loss of about $85,000 per month. Maybe the contribution box won't suffer so heavily.

"Vice-president Fairbanks is a lover of amateur theatricals" says an Indiana contemporary. If that be so, he must take positive delight in presiding over some sessions of the U.S. Senate.

"What's the matter at Panama?" asks the Topeka Journal. "Nobody has resigned for three weeks". Just now, we understand they are too busy fighting mosquitoes to fill out resignation blanks.

The San Francisco woman who is suing for a divorce because her husband compelled her to eat pumpkin pies three times a day, ought to win easily if she can prove that they were pies made by herself.

It is reported that a citizen of Washington has been "tapping" the Government's wireless messages. If the President's opinion of Foraker were to be put on the wireless, the wire-tapper's plant would probably be burned out.

Because the infant heir to the Spanish throne let out a howl while being christened, it is regarded as a good omen. However, did any one ever see a christening in which the victim refrained from setting up a yell?

The name of the royal baby in Spain is Alfonso Pio Christiano Eduardo Francisco Guillermo Carlos Enrique Eugenio Fernando Antonio Venancier. Under these circumstances, perhaps it's a good thing he hasn't got Cuba to worry about.

President Roosevelt's approval of baseball on the theory that men of middle age can play it, suggests the possibility that the White House tennis courts may yet be converted into a diamond.
