Ajax Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. G. Palmer celebrated their silver wedding last Friday with a big dinner and dance in the evening. They received a number of nice presents and everybody reports an excellent time.

To have the mumps is the latest fad in Ajax.

Shelt Bures is busy these days fixing up his new house. This provides food for speculation.

Lone Rock News.

A. B. Stanley, the Lone Rock merchant, was in Condon a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stevens were passengers Wednesday morning for Western Oregon, where they will visit at several points for a couple of weeks.

The dance given by I. C. Benet in the City Hall at Lone Rock on New Year's night was well attended, over 100 numbers being sold. The music by Laam Bros. was highly appreciated. As there are many people in and around Lone Rock who do not attend dances, the Laam Bros. kindly consented to give a musical on the evening following the dance. It was in every way delightful and was attended by a large number of people.

Mikkalo Items.

We are certainly having beautiful weather for this time of year, but would rather have snow instead.

MAYVILLE GRANGE ELECTS

Plans for Fair Next Fall— Will Dedicate New Home.

Mayville Grange held its regular monthly meeting on Saturday, Dec. 21, with Overseer C. J. Quinn in the chair. After the formal opening of the Grange, on motion it was decided to take a recess till Thursday, the 26th, as a mark of respect and sympathy with Master E. Morgan on account of the loss by death in his family which occurred that morning.

On Thursday the Grange met as agreed on, Master E. Morgan presiding, when the annual election took place. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Trustees, W. J. Edwards, Geo. B. Dukek, Geo. Gibbons, Wm. Wehrli and C. J. Quinn; Master, C. J. Quinn; Overseer, J. F. Thomas; Lecturer, Agnes Gibbons; Steward, I. B. Carter; assistant steward, Geo. C. Miller; treas., Geo. B. Dukek; sec., Mrs. McGilvray; Ceres, Mrs. W. G. Keys; Pomona, Mrs. Taylor; Flora, Julia Thomas; chaplain, Mrs. C. J. Quinn; lady assistant steward, Nettie McGilvray; gate keeper, Allen McConnell; organist, Mrs. Rudolph.

The Grange has decided to hold with the assistance of Igo and Butte Creek Granges a Fair next Fall and the same members as acted for this Grange will do so again. Preparations for moving into the Grange's new home were made and a committee was appointed to arrange the program of dedication on Jan. 29, 1908, each member was to have the "privilege of inviting one friend; the Grangers of Wheeler and Gilliam counties were invited to be present so that initial steps might be taken to organize the new Fair committee.

Joseph Whyte has leased his ranch on Thirty-mile to L. E. McDaniels and will make his home in Condon this winter.

Dr. Madison has left with Hunt, The Druggist, his wonderful rheumatic cures, see his notice elsewhere in this issue.

Archie Boyce, who has been visiting at his New York home, returned to Olex Saturday accompanied by his mother and two brothers, also his aunt and family.

Our fanning mills clean your grain in such perfect order that you have only good, plump kernels for seed. The price is lower and the results better than any other mill offers you. Come in and see Hunt the Hardware Man.

Our line of plows is the most complete in the county. Our disc plows are the only ones upon which you can rely for good results. Our "foot burners" will give you a good appetite for your meals. See Hunt the Hardware Man.

Resolutions

Whereas: The Great Reaper of death has again entered our lodge and taken from our midst our esteemed brother, William C. Caldwell. We meekly bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved; That while Endymion Lodge, No. 66, K. of P. has lost a loyal and true brother, greater still is the loss suffered by the family and those associated with him in his home.

Resolved; That we tender the sorrowing and bereaved family our tenderest sympathy and assurance of our esteem for our brother.

Resolved; That our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days and these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our lodge, and a copy be presented to the family of our deceased brother, and a copy be sent to the local papers for publication.

Fraternally submitted,

Com. { J. F. Cooke

An Ax to Grind.

The familiar expression, "An ax to grind," frequently attributed to Benjamin Franklin, originated with Charles Miner, who introduced the following tale of woe in a short, pithy essay published in a country newspaper of Pennsylvania during the year 1811: A little boy is asked by a man with an ax and an engaging smile if his father has a grindstone, and, the family being in proud possession of that implement of welfare, the youngster leads the way into the back yard.

"What a fine little fellow you are!" exclaims the stranger, quite casually, as though scarcely conscious of speaking loud. Of course the boy becomes at once his most obedient servant and, by more well directed praise, brings water to wet the wheel and heroically turns the grindstone until his small hands sting with blisters. But the moment the ax is ground its owner calls his little fetch and carry slave "rascal," crushes his newborn manly pride by bidding him hurry off to school.—Los Angeles Times.

An Auction Room Incident.

It was an auction sale on Market street, and the auctioneer was disgusted. He had offered a watch and chain which he claimed to be worth $22. The first bid was $1, and he could not get a second. "I'll find out if there is an ounce of nerve in this crowd," said he, and, taking a one dollar note from his wallet, he held it up and asked for bids. A laugh went through the crowd, but for a couple of minutes no one bid on the note. "Come on," said the auctioneer. "What is the matter? Don't you think the bill is good?" After another moment the voice of a small boy was heard. "Five cents," he said. "That's the game," said the auctioneer. "Who'll make it 10?" A man in the crowd bid 10 cents, and the boy raised it to 15. The bidding went on until the little fellow had got to 95 cents, when the auctioneer handed him the note. He gave the auctioneer another note and got a nickel change. The auctioneer then treated the crowd to a lecture on courage.—Philadelphia Record.

Saw His Own Finish.

Some time ago the wife of Judge Blank lost her cook, and, since she had no other resource, she rolled up her sleeves and for a week provided such meals as the judge had not enjoyed since those happy days when the Blanks did not keep a cook. The judge's delight was so great that by way of appreciative acknowledgment he presented Mrs. Blank with a beautiful ermine cloak. Quite naturally the incident was a good deal noised about among the social acquaintances of the Blanks and a spirit of envious emulation was developed in certain quarters. It was in this mood that Mrs. Jerome recited the story to her husband.

"What do I get, Jerry," she asked, "if I will do the cooking for a week?" "Well," said Mr. Jerome, "at the end of a week, my dear, you'll get one of those long crape yells."—Argonaut.

All Alone.

Some legends, especially those with a moral, die hard. A little boy had told a fib with the carelessness of imaginative childhood and was receiving the conventional rebuke, coupled with the threat that the conventional reward of the future would not be his unless he told the truth.

"Won't there be anybody in heaven who has told a story?" asked the small boy, much interested.

"No, dear," answered his teacher at a venture.

The small boy drew a long breath of deep reflection. "How jolly dull for George Washington!" he remarked.—London Chronicle.

England in Virginia.

If an Englishman wants to feel at home at once in the United States he must go to Virginia. I was spoiled everywhere, but nowhere more than in Virginia. They love England there with a special affection, are very proud of their English ancestry, and at an old Virginia country house such as we visited during the week at Richmond you might easily fancy yourself in an old park in Sussex or Worcestershire.—Bishop of London in London Diocesan Magazine.

A Classical Story.

I am going to tell you a classical story. Listen:

The wooden horse was standing before the city of Troy.

"That seems a heavy beast," said Paris to Hector. "Now, what would you say was its weight?"

"Troy weight, of course," replied Hector.

"I didn't mean that, you great hectoring brute!" was the reply, but the wit of the other had turned Paris green with envy.

Cruel.

"I'm developing quite a passion for motoring," said Miss Hoamley. "I wonder if it's harmful."

"Quite the contrary," replied Miss Cutting. "I should think it would be very becoming to you."

"How do you mean becoming?"

"Well, you know, dear, you can wear a mask while motoring."—St. Louis Republic.

Crushing a Bore.

Young Borem (back from traveling in Europe)—And so, you see, I didn't take the advice of that fellow who said, "See Naples and die!"

Miss Sharpe (with a yawn)—What a pity!

Rah, Rah, in Germany. Theater Official (to students)—You are not allowed to join in the chorus, gentlemen. Students—Don't you worry. We are singing something quite different.—Fliegende Blätter.
