PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETS

At the meeting of the editors of Oregon held in Portland during the past week were discussed subjects of great importance, such as the future attitude of the country press which is explained in the resolutions:

"Whereas the association is now organized upon a thoroughly business basis, be it resolved that every editor and publisher so recognize that fact, and from this time forth pledge to himself and those dependent upon him, that his respective newspaper shall be recognized in business circles as a business institution run on strictly business lines in addition to dissemination of the news."

Another matter which took up a great share of the time of the editors present, was the present Libel Law and the case of Geo. Putnam. "Following closely as it did, the recent conviction of George Putnam, editor of the Medford Tribune," says the Oregon Journal, "on a charge of libeling the grand jury and deputy district attorney, the association naturally took up and discussed the libel laws of the state. As a vindication and a tangible expression of the sentiment of the association Putnam was elected vice-president of the association by acclamation and the following resolution passed:

"Whereas, The libel law of this state is unfair and unjust to the press, be it resolved that the legislative committee formulate a new bill to be submitted to the next legislature for enactment, and that the press of the state back up said committee in securing said enactment."

Judge Hanna, who held that the findings of a grand jury are infallible and refused to allow Putnam the privilege of introducing evidence to prove the truth of his alleged libel, was made the butt of much criticism.

"While I am not satisfied with the ruling of Judge Hanna" said E. Hofer, editor of the Capital Journal, "as is the feeling of everyone here, at the same time his ruling may be right, and if that is the case the law should be revised, and it cannot be done too quickly. The libel laws of this state are so antiquated that they are classed with the Oregon boot and other relics of barbarism that existed in our early period history. There is absolutely no remedy against an unfriendly judge under this law, and, while our state is far advanced in many other ways, we are woefully backward in a proper libel law. Several times I have been made a defendant in libel suits and can speak from experience." B. E. Kennedy of the Baker City Herald also occupied the floor and gave it as his opinion that the ruling of Judge Hanna was not right and that he believed the Supreme Court would overthrow it. However he believed the state laws should be revised at the next session, and the entire press of the state should be behind the movement.

A preacher came at a newspaper man in this way—"You editors do not tell the truth. If you did you could not live, your newspapers would be a failure." The editor replied: "You are right and the preacher who will at all times and under all circumstances tell the whole truth about his members, alive or dead, will not occupy his pulpit more than one Sunday and, then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The Press and the Pulpit go hand in hand with white wash brushes and pleasant words, mangifying little virtues into big ones." And the Great Minister went away looking very thoughtful while the editor turned to his work and told of the unsurpassing beauty of the bride while in fact she was as homely as a mud fence.—Ex.

Thaw's lawyer is going to play a straight out insanity defense for him. All he would have to do with an average jury would be to put the bill for his $10,000 Paris dinner in evidence.

Mrs. Case Entertains

About twenty people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Case of this city on Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gross of Walla Walla, who are visiting there. The evening was spent in music and games. A dainty lunch composed of sandwiches, salads, fruit, cake, chocolate and coffee was served after which the guests departed voting the evening a most enjoyable one.
