COURT CONDON, NO. 34, F. OF A. MEETS Mondays evening of each month in Armory Hall, Judge room. Visiting brothers are requested to meet with us. A warm welcome awaits you.

Harry Thaw might be crazy, but the way his wife held her own with Jerome demonstrates conclusively that she isn't anyhow.

Secretary Taft says that no war is possible, and after one has looked at the size of Bill and the size of the fleet, they can't blame the Japs for changing their minds.

The newspaper reading public can now sit back and draw a full breath while waiting for the accounts of the Szechenyi divorce proceedings.

Mr. Fairbanks of Indiana is doing his best to demonstrate that the vice-presidency is not a political graveyard.

The discovery that Congress costs $150 a minute is another reason why we should always welcome a recess.

This is St. Valentine's Day and pictures and verses of an amusing or sentimental character are in order. The day derives its name from Valentinus, presbyter and martyr, who was beheaded on the 14th of February. As a festival, the day was established in England, Scotland and France about the fifteenth century and was introduced in America in an early day, but its observance has materially changed as it is now limited to anonymous exchanges between friends, while in its infancy it was very popular among all and especially at many European courts.

Have you ever given a moment's thought to the great work being accomplished through the local press in behalf of the community? A glance at the truths expressed in the following words from an exchange will give an idea how everyone can help in the forward movement of their town:—A newspaper may boom a town through its editorial and news columns, but a critical investor looks to the advertising columns for substantial evidence of push and life. To him they are thermometers measuring the intensity of public warmth; they are the pulse which indicates the healthy condition of the collective body of the people; they tell him whether or not the community is up to the times in business matters.

"A feather in their cap for running a gossipy paper"—you may have heard or seen that statement somewhere—in other words someone seems to be proud of the fact that they are running a "repeating machine." Some weeks ago the GLOBE published the facts that Condon had the honor of being the largest primary grain shipping point in the United States, which fact was known to very few in this city before appearing in these columns. By spending much time, the Globe ferreted out the story, interviewed the grain buyers, the O. R. & N. agent, and many of the business men of this city, as well as a large number of the farmers of this vicinity, and finally a grand total of the crop output for Condon and vicinity was figured out. Knowing that the story, which was specially prepared for the Globe, was a good one—one that would prove to be a great advertiser of the wonderful resources of Gilliam county—and also that of Gilliam county was figured out. Knowing that the story, which was specially prepared for the Globe, was a good one—one that would prove to be a great advertiser of the wonderful resources of Gilliam county—the Globe writers sent the facts and story to the Oregonian and Telegram to be printed and sent broadcast over the country. Other papers throughout the state took up the story and Condon and its vast resources were on the lips of everyone throughout the country. On the strength of the story sent in from the Globe to the Oregonian, an editorial appeared in that paper last week telling of the tremendous growth of Gilliam county as a wheat producer, but not until the figures and facts were carefully looked into by the Portland paper and found to be true, both as to the statements and figures.

Now when the great story had been scattered over the country for two weeks—printed in scores of papers through the efforts of the Globe—the "gossiper" sees what makes a good story and tells it over again—mind you, with the figures as compiled by the Globe. The Times, through its lieutenant, says that it is proud that it prints the gossip and of the fact that it is known as a "gossipy paper" Yea, verily, repeating the news that everyone has had on their lips for over two weeks, is truly a record to be proud of.

We notice that W. J. Mariner of Blalock is being favorably mentioned as a candidate in the coming election for representative of this district in the state legislature. Everyone, who has been looking around for sound timber to represent the people of this district, predicts that should Mr. Mariner, who formerly held the position of county judge of this county, come out for the office that he would be elected by a large majority. Everyone in Eastern Oregon knows that through the persistent efforts of Mr. Mariner in working for an Open River and lower freight rates on all produce exported from this section of the state, the conditions are vastly better than before he started his work in this line. He is president of the Open River Association and is still at work. Should he be a member of the next legislature the people of this district could rest easy in the fact that his efforts and influence would be used in behalf of the people of Eastern Oregon and toward the upbuilding of this great country.
