ARLINGTON--THE GATEWAY TO CONDON, "THE WHEAT CITY"

Written Specially for the Globe by J. F. NORVEL, Editor of the Arlington Record.

No more delightful place in which to spend one's days can be found in Eastern Oregon, or any where in the United States, for that matter, than our own charming little town of Arlington. The climate is almost perfect--neither too hot in summer nor too cold in winter; escaping the excessive rains of the western part of the state, yet with enough moisture to produce bountiful crops; with its streets lined with beautiful shade trees, the envy of all neighboring towns; excellent water supply, good schools and churches, all combine to make Arlington a desirable place to own a home and do business. The Columbia River, the main line of the O. R. & N. and a branch to Condon afford transportation facilities not surpassed in this part of the country. An effort is now being made to induce some experienced man to build a flouring mill here, which will be a great convenience to the hundreds of extensive wheat growers whose productive farms surround the town on all sides. The people of Arlington are prosperous and happy and the new comer is always given a hearty welcome.

SURVEYORS TO FIELD

Plans for Trolley Line Assume Shape.

PROSPECTS MORE FAVORABLE

Consulting Engineers Favorably Impressed With Route and Rich Territory.

Affairs along the line of the proposed electric road to be built from this city southward, invading and tapping the rich Central Oregon country and eventually developing the latent resources of this district, are rapidly shaping themselves into the real thing. The promoter of the proposed system, accompanied by B. Carroll Shipman, a consulting engineer of the firm of Shipman, Denny & Rhane, of San Francisco, and Rollo A. Hollenbeck, a locating and constructing engineer of Spokane, were in Condon last Sunday on a return trip over the projected route, having gone into Central Oregon from Shaniko south and returning by way of Fossil.

After having spent a week in the territory to be developed by the railway, the party was favorably impressed with the country to be traversed by the road and the general details already obtained.

A telegraphic message received from the head of the promotion department yesterday stated that the prospects were favorable for starting the work and that the contracts would be signed today and that the matter of selecting and sending out surveyors in the field would immediately follow.

Five applicants, four young women and a young man, are taking the teachers' examinations this week. The board of examiners is composed of County School Superintendent J. C. Sturgill, Mrs. C. W. Shurte, of Arlington and Mrs. Mulkey, of Rock Creek.

Miss Mary Steiwer, of Fossil, was in Condon, the forepart of the week, having come to meet her college friend, Miss Blanche Huston of Portland, who arrived in Condon Wednesday evening. The young ladies left for Fossil yesterday morning.

Condon Man Sells Sheep.

That the superiority of Eastern Oregon sheep is being recognized by sheepmen of other states, is shown by the fact that Rea Bros. of Montana, through their agent Mr. Flemming who is well-known to Gilliam county sheepmen, are now making large purchases.

During the past week, C. A. Brown, of this city, who has a band of sheep near Baker City, sold to this firm. The price paid was considerable lower than last season's price, but it is claimed that sheep yet bring sufficient money to make the business profitable.

Widow Gets Big Estate.

Mrs. Virginia A. McDaniel, 80 years of age, becomes the sole heir to the $35,000 estate of her late husband, Josiah McDaniel, under the will filed to-day. There are four sons and one daughter surviving, ranging in age from 40 to 50 years, and their father explains in his will that he has kept them all in mind, as well as three grand-children, but is confident that his wife will deal justly with all of them.

McDaniel died on July 6, leaving real estate valued at $9,000 in Multnomah, Clackamas and Polk counties, and about $26,000 worth of personal property. The widow and W. H. Fulkerson are named to look after the estate. The children are Andrew J. M. McDaniel of Rock Creek, Willis H. McDaniel of Dallas, and Hannah E. Newton M., and Lee H. McDaniel of Portland.—Journal.

Bring Forth the Proof.

Arlington, Ore., Aug. 8, '08.

Editor Globe: I am just in receipt of an anonymous letter, purporting to come from some one in Condon, as it was mailed there this morning, stating that there were numerous crimes being committed daily in that town, which could be proved by good, reliable citizens. I wish to say in reply to this letter that if the writer will be man enough to sign his name to his next letter or even give me the names of the "reliable citizens" whereby I may be able to get proof of these crimes, I stand ready and willing to take the matter up and thoroughly investigate any definite charges for him.

Two Small Blazes.

Through the carelessness of a smoker who either dropped a burning match or a lighted cigar, the fire department was called out to extinguish a small blaze started in the dry grass on the vacant lot opposite the Hunt hardware store, Sunday. The fire was within a few feet of the building formerly occupied by the Condon Furniture & Hardware Co. There was no damage done but more precaution to avoid starting such fires should be exercised at this time of the year.

Another grass fire, north of the railroad yards, kept the Japanese railroad work gang busy for about a half hour Monday morning. For a while the fire gained headway on the little brown men but was finally put out before doing serious damage.

Catch that Pig To-Night.

Beeson Bros' big tent was crowded last night by people eager to see one of the best vaudeville shows seen here this year. There were some clever stunts, some good rag-time music and catchy songs that pleased. There are bigger and better road shows but the Beesons give you a big two-bits worth. They will be here several nights and presents will be given away.

With the arrival of Dr. Wood's Reo runabout, Condon boasts of two benzine buggies. The new machine is a winner and made the trip from The Dalles to Condon via Wasco in good shape, though the road is a decidedly rough one. Dr. Wood and Bill Cook made the journey and they relate some rather unique and interesting experiences.
