COURT CONDON, NO. 54, F. OF A. MEETS Mondays evening of each month in Armory Hall lodge room. Visiting brothers are requested to meet with us. A warm welcome awaits you.

Would not a modern opera-house prove a good investment in Condon? It would assist materially in securing a better grade of attractions and a larger number of them. Local capital should investigate the proposition and see whether it is feasible.

In the state of Washington, the primary law has given birth to a rather large primary ballot, so great is the number of candidates. In size it resembles a Navajo blanket. The Spokesman-Review aptly remarks: "Since the secretary of state has distributed sample primary ballots the frugal housekeeper can now lay in her winter's supply of blankets easily."

Senator Levy Ankeny has like Senator Fulton been placed by Collier's Weekly on the list of "Senate Undesirables". Ankeny is now candidate for re-election before the primaries. Will he get the same wrap as Fulton got at the Oregon primaries? It is not likely that Heney will take part in the Washington campaign.

It is rumored that another hotel may be erected here. When it will be running, the danger of one going hungry will be eliminated, provided he has the price of a meal ticket. We already have two hotels here.

Mr. Chaffin is not the only presidential candidate who will probably have to take water before the campaign is ended.

A Spelling Reform.

One of the witnesses in a lawsuit, who had just been sworn, was asked to give his name. He replied that it was Hinckley. Then the attorney for the prosecution requested him to give his name in full.

"Jeffrey Alias Hinckley."

"I am not asking you for your alias," said the lawyer impatiently. "What is your real name?"

"Jeffrey Alias Hinckley."

"No trifling in this court, sir!" sternly spoke the judge. "Which is your right name—Jeffrey or Hinckley?"

"Both of 'em, your honor."

"Both of them? Which is your surname?"

"Hinckley."

"And Jeffrey is your given name?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Then what business have you with an alias?"

"I wish I knew, your honor," said the witness ruefully. "It isn't my fault."

"What do you mean, sir?" demanded the judge, who was fast losing his temper.

"I mean, your honor, that Alias is my middle name, for some reason which my parents never explained to me. I suppose they saw it in print somewhere and rather liked the looks of it. I'd get rid of it if I could do so without the newspapers finding it out and joshing me about it."

"The court suggests that hereafter the witness begin his middle name with an E instead of an A. Counsel will proceed with the examination," said the judge, coughing behind his handkerchief.—Youth's Companion.
