

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM CONDON AND GILLIAM COUNTY

Will Gross returned from a stay of several days in Portland Saturday evening.

A. L. Hudson, of Gooseberry, was a business transactor in Condon the fore part of the week.

Marcus Portwood who went to the Rose City to see Buffalo Bill's show, returned to Condon Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Parman returned Monday from a visit in western Oregon. Mrs. Parman was called to Park Place by the serious illness of her mother.

R. R. Butler of this city, is to speak at the Pendleton Fair on "Political Day" on behalf of the Republican party. Other political parties will be represented by orators.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ferguson who have been visiting relatives in Clarke, Pennsylvania for the past two months returned to Condon Monday evening.

Your money not ours until you are satisfied with the goods you purchase. The S. B. Barker Co.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Laurence have returned from a few days' visit in Portland.

Jos. Frizzell, of Lost Valley, spent several days in the Wheat City during the past week.

Goods priced in a manner that will bewilder and delight you. The S. B. Barker Co.

R. L. Hunt, now traveling salesman for the Clarke-Woodard Drug Co., was in town the first of the week. Mr. Hunt says that business is good and that he is well pleased with his new work. Mrs. Hunt and the children are still in the east.

To raise good crops they must be properly planted. To be properly planted, you must use a good, reliable instrument. For a good, reliable implement, use the SUPERIOR DRILL.

Miss Pearl Schott who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. G. Johnson for several days, returned to her home in Olex the first of the week.

Subscribe for the Globe! It's newsy every week, because it gives the news while it is news.

The News published at Wasco, issued last week a "harvest special." It is unfortunate that the press work was so mediocre as to mar the attractiveness of the cuts illustrating an otherwise well arranged article. Yet such an effort reveals commendable enterprise and progress. The new management of the News is giving Wasco a good, weekly paper.

Another change was made this week in the management of the Palace Hotel, by the Miller Bros. securing the interest in the business held by Ralph Ashpaugh. The management will continue under the name of Miller Bros.

John Crane, of Mayville, was a business transactor in Condon the first of the week.

H. A. Hartshorn, of The Globe, made a business trip to Portland this week.

E. P. Mahaffey returned Monday from a few days' visit in the Rose City.

Jas. Burns returned Monday evening from his eastern trip. He reports having had a good time but says that Condon looks good to him.

The Alpha Club is one of the new organizations at the University of Oregon with which are affiliated a number of well known young men from this section. Among them are Harold E. Hunt of Condon; Leland L. Steiwer and Thomas B. Hoover of Fossil.

W. E. Nicoll who has held a position with the Recorder for several months left Monday evening for Idaho Falls where he has accepted the foremanship on the Register. Mr. Nicoll is a young man of ability and made many friends during his stay in this city.—Elgin Recorder.

C. A. Brown went to Baker Monday morning to look after his sheep which have been summering in that vicinity. Mr. Brown has several thousand head which he will ship to Gilliam county for the winter. They will be quartered along Rock Creek.

Mrs. M. P. Wilkes of Condon, with her daughter, Miss Bernice, is visiting Mrs. George Phelps at 400 West Third third street. Miss Bernice has been here several days and Mrs. Wilkes arrived from Portland this morning.—The Dalles Chronicle.

Mrs. Wilkes and daughter arrived in Condon Saturday evening after a visit of several weeks in Portland and The Dalles.

J. R. Wells, the hustling auctioneer and valuator, has been much in demand of late. Last Saturday he "cried" the Kargl sale and will be at the Geo. Gibbons sale at Mayville. Mr. Wells is the agent for the Washington Weeder of Walla Walla, one of the best machines of its kind on the market. Farmers will do well to consult him if in need of such an implement.

Monkeys Like Scrapping.
"Monkeys are in a class by themselves," said the circus man. "If one of them has red hair he is sure to be a dandy scrapper. The best fighter is always the leader. They hang together and bow and scrape before the boss just like a good many people. Monkeys with red faces and flat heads will whip the life out of those smaller than they are, but will run like the wind when it comes to an even break. A monkey riot is a funny spectacle. Even in the same cage you will find groups berled together as if there was some class distinction and the lines were drawn tightly. If two of the big ones come together in a row the others generally stand off and let them have it out, but if any of the little ones get to scrapping then the father and mother are apt to mix in, and the next step is a general row. We separate them by turning on the hose and punish them by locking up the den so that they cannot get any peanuts from the crowd and hold back their meals. This plan puts them on their good behavior for awhile at least. The monkey likes to eat and likes to be noticed."

Slightly Mixed.
They had just set up housekeeping and were working on the plan of economy. The bathtub needed a coat of varnish. He promised to attend to it if she would order the varnish.
"You'll find the varnish in the closet with the groceries, dear," she said a day or so later, "and the can opener in the knife drawer."
He opened the can and, according to his contract, applied the coat of varnish and then left it to dry.
The soup for dinner that day had to be abandoned, for somehow it possessed a peculiar paint shop odor that was nauseating. After dinner he took her to inspect his work on the bathtub. Now that it had dried it had a certain unnatural appearance. The top and sides were streaked, and here and there little lumps clung to it.
"The man said that was the best varnish," she explained, taking up the can of varnish for an examination, "but—why, dear, you have varnished the bathtub with the ox tail soup!"
"Then it was the varnish we ate, dear," he added, horror stricken.—Lippincott's.

A Model Hotel "Boots."
It was in a Dublin hotel, and as I closed the bedroom door, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian, I noticed that the end of one of my boot laces was inside the room, the boot to which it was attached having been placed as usual outside. When I awoke next morning the boot lace end was still there, and I opened the door expecting to find that the boots had not been cleaned, but I was wrong. A very careful hotel servant, a very model among "boots," had found the lace tightly gripped by the door and rather than disturb me had carefully removed it from the lace holes and carried away the boot. Presently I heard a quiet noise outside the door. The model boots had brought my boots back again and was industriously relacing that one which he had unlaced.

Cheese in the Middle Ages.
Cheese must have been a rather dear or scarce article of food in 1502, for it is recorded in the "Black Books" of the Honorable Society of Lincoln's Inn that at Easter term, 1502, it was "agreed by the governors and benchers this term that if any one of the society shall hereafter eat cheese immoderately at the time of dinner or supper or shall give cheese to any servant or to any other or shall carry it away from the table at any time he shall pay 4 pence for each offense. The butlers of the society shall present such defaulters weekly under pain of expulsion from office."—Law Times.

Her Test.
"When a young man proposes you should always be careful and test his love," cautioned the conservative chaperon.
"But I go one better, auntie," twittered the pretty girl. "Do you see this tiny bottle?"
"Yes. Does it contain perfume?"
"No; it contains acid. I test the engagement ring."

Not Very Funny.
"I did my best to be entertaining," said the young man in a voice of sorrow.
"Did you succeed?"
"I'm afraid not. I recited Hamlet's soliloquy. She looked at me reproachfully for several seconds and then exclaimed, "I don't think that's very funny!"—London Telegraph.

His Conscience.
"He's forever prating about what his conscience tells him. What does his conscience tell him, anyway?"
"Apparently it usually tells him what awful sinners his neighbors are."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Where She Gets Her Ideal.
She—I wonder if you are just the kind of man I want. He—What kind of man do you want? She—I can hardly describe him to you. He—Don't try. What's the name of the book?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

To Hold Him.
Nan—That's a beautiful solitaire Dick gave you. I wonder if you know what a fickle young man he is? Fan—Indeed I do! That's why I made him give me such an expensive one.—Chicago Tribune.

A Sad Break.
"Our credit man made a bad break yesterday."
"What was it?"
"He told a dumb man that his word was as good as his bond."—Detroit Free Press.
