

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM CONDON AND GILLIAM COUNTY

J. O. Lewis of Mikkalo, was a business visitor in the Wheat City Monday evening.

S. J. Thompson of Fossil, was in the city on Saturday last.

C. E. Illage, a druggist, formerly of Huntington, Ore., later of Portland, was in Condon this week looking for a location.

Everybody should come and hear Senator Fulton at Condon the evening of Friday the 16th.

J. A. McMorris, ex-county surveyor, surveyed a road in the Ferry Canyon District last Monday. He also did some work for Farr Bros. at Rock Creek last Tuesday.

Remember Hunt, the Hard ware Man, has kraut cutters.

According to the best authority, construction work on the new electric line to be built out of Condon will be started as soon as the survey is completed to the John Day river and the company secures a franchise from this city. Several firms of contractors are ready to take the contract and with good luck the line will be under way before many days as the surveying party are now working on the other side of Fossil through which city the franchise has already been secured. The depot will probably be built due east of the O. R. & N. depot in this city and the line will run along East street for a few blocks before turning off.

Rev. T. F. Murphy of the Congregational church was given a four weeks' vacation by his congregation on last Sunday and left Tuesday for Southern Oregon where he will spend a short time for the benefit of his health. Mr. Murphy will make a visit in Portland, Forest Grove, and other valley towns before returning to Condon.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT CONDON'S CHURCHES

At a meeting of the members of the Congregational church held at the close of the morning service, Rev. T. F. Murphy, the pastor, was granted a month's vacation. During his absence the pulpit will be supplied. The evening service was in the nature of a song devotional lead by the DeMoss family and the church was filled to its seating capacity.

At the Catholic church, Rev. J. P. O'Reilly closed an eight-day mission which has proved more than commonly successful. The Rev. Father lectured on "The Bible and the Church." The lectures during the week were on the cardinal principles of Catholicism. Father O'Reilly left Tuesday for Brownsville and other points to conduct similar meetings.

The Episcopalians who since the visit of Bishop Paddock have taken new interest in the work of their church in this community, have been holding services Sunday afternoons in the Baptist church.

The Baptists are still considering the matter of calling a minister. It is possible that the local pulpit may be supplied by the new pastor of the Baptist church at Fossil.

School Notes.

By LESLIE HARLAN.

The enrollment continuously increases in the local schools and if it keeps on will soon reach the two hundred mark.

With the installation of the new physical laboratory, the Condon high school takes rank among the best high schools in the state. The laboratory is one of the best equipped in Eastern Oregon.

There are now 14 schools in session in Gilliam county. The country teachers' salaries average about $55 and the grade and high school teachers of the various towns about $60.

The annual apportionment of state and county schools has been made and each child receives $8.60 for school purposes, besides each district receives $50.

Queer Wedding Effigy.

There is a curious custom still prevalent in the Bellary district of India in connection with the wedding ceremonies among certain Brahman families. Just prior to the close of the feasting a hideous effigy of a male figure, fantastically robed in rags, supposed to represent the bridegroom's father, is carried along the streets in procession under the shade of a sieve adorned with tassels of onions and margosa leaves. Every few yards during the procession the feet of the effigy have to be reverently washed and its forehead decorated with a caste mark by its living spouse, the bridegroom's mother. The bridegroom's other female relations have several mock attentions paid to them by the women of the bride's party.—St. James' Gazette.

Restaurant Affiliation.

The waiter in the light lunch cafe looked expectantly at the first of five men who had just entered.
"Bring me a coffee cake and a cup of coffee," ordered the first man.
"I'll take some milk biscuit and a glass of milk," said the second.
"Tea buns and a cup of tea, please," remarked the third.
"A piece of coconut pie and a cup of cocoa," said the fourth.
The waiter passed on to the fifth man.
"Don't say it, don't say it!" he pleaded. "I know what you want. You want a slice of chocolate cake and a cup of chocolate."
"No; I do not," protested the fifth man. "I want a plate of ice cream and a glass of ice water."—Judge's Library.

Another Way Out of It.

Nobody had ever had reason to accuse Abel Pond of being dishonest, but he was as sharp a man in a bargain as could be found in the county. When the building committee applied to him for a site for the new library he was ready to sell them a desirable lot, but not at their price.
"I couldn't feel to let it go under $5000," he said, with the mild obstinacy that characterized all his dealings with his fellow men. "It wouldn't be right."
"You ought to be willing to contribute something for such an object," said the chairman of the committee. "If it's worth six hundred, why not let us have it for five hundred and call it you've given the other hundred?"
"M'm—no, I couldn't do that," said Mr. Pond, stroking his chin, "but I tell you what I will do. You give me seven hundred for it, and I'll make out a check for a hundred and hand it over to you, so you can head the list of subscriptions with a good round sum and kind of wake up folks to their duty."—Youth's Companion.

A Real Apology.

"When the late Joel Chandler Harris was an editor here among us," said an Atlantan, "I called on him one day and found him very willing to correct an error about me that crept into his columns.

"We talked about newspaper contradictions, public apologies and the like, and 'Uncle Remus' took down a scrap-book and read me an apology that was an apology indeed. It had happened, he said, in a Transvaal paper. I'll never forget it. I agreed with Mr. Harris that it was the finest specimen of the public apology and retraction extant. It said:

"I, the undersigned, A. C. du Plessis, retract hereby everything I have said against the innocent Mr. G. P. Bezuidenhout, calling myself an infamous liar and striking my mouth with the exclamation: 'You mendacious mouth! Why do you lie so?' I declare, further, that I know nothing against the character of Mr. G. P. Bezuidenhout. I call myself, besides, a genuine liar of the first class."
"A. C. DU PLESSIS."

His Cough Cure.

"In my boyhood there came to our town," said a clergyman, "a gentle minister who, the very first Sunday of his incumbency, stopped effectually his coughing congregation.

"It was a congregation, too, singularly addicted to coughing. Rattling volleys of coughs ran over it every few minutes. The minister, indeed, that first Sunday could hardly make himself heard. He had rather a weak voice.

"Well, after his sermon had proceeded for ten or twelve minutes, now audible enough, now drowned under great waves of coughs, he took a resolution, and when the next outbreak was at its height he ceased preaching.

"At once the coughing ceased. There was a profound silence. The minister smiled.

"My friends," said he, "it seems that when I stop you stop."

"From that day in that church they coughed no more."
