

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM CONDON AND GILLIAM COUNTY

County edge and Mrs. Edw. Dunn left Monday for a week's visit in Poland.

Wm. Coe returned Tuesday evening from his trip to Spokane, Walla Walla and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Thomas are in Portland this week, having left on the flyer last Monday.

Arthur Baler returned to Portland last Saturday after a two weeks' stay in the Wheat City.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Parman are visiting relatives and friends in Portland this week.

Mrs. G. W. Hunsaker, of Turner, Marion county, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. H. Horner.

Mrs. A. Schaffer accompanied her daughter Miss Gertrude and sons Frank and Adolph, left Monday for several days' visit at the big fair at Walla Walla.

The Condon Gun Club held its weekly shoot at the race track last Sunday and the honors of the day went to Otis Campbell who made a perfect score, breaking twenty-five birds with twenty-five shots. The club expects to hold a tame pigeon shoot in the near future.

Contractor J. N. Bayliss who is erecting the new academy building, has been searching nearly every town in this state and in Washington during the past week for bricklayers, in order to rush the building to completion. Building activities in the northwest are so numerous at present that builders find it difficult to secure workmen.

A special train of thirteen stock cars came up from Arlington Sunday evening and pulled out the first of the week with a big bunch of beef cattle which had been rounded up in the country south of this city, by J. E. Reynolds, of Arlington. The cattle were taken to The Dalles where they will be fattened before being taken to Portland.

Measuring a Spirit.
A man of St. Joseph, Mo., relates a story in connection with a spiritualistic meeting once held in that town. A man named Daniel Miller, who was some six feet seven inches in height, had died recently.
The spirit of Daniel was called for by some one at the seance mentioned. When it had appeared and announced its readiness to reply to any question, some one asked:
"Are you in heaven?"
"Yes," came from the shade of Daniel.
"Are you an angel, Dan?"
"Yes."
At this juncture the questioner paused, having apparently exhausted his fund of questions. But, to the amusement of all, he suddenly added, "And what do you measure from tip to tip, Dan?"—St. Louis Republic.

Ira Phillips, the Clem merchant, came to Condon Tuesday evening to look after business matters.

Miss Douglas, a professional nurse, came up from Portland Tuesday to assist Dr. Donnelly in the case of W. B. Lantis.

Arthur Ames, of Bay Center, Wash., has been a visitor in the Wheat City the past week. Mr. Ames has a ranch in Ferry Canyon which he is trying to dispose of.

S. B. Barker sold this week to F. M. Shannon a quarter section of land east of Condon for $6000. Mr. Barker, so it is reported, bought this land about seven years ago for $400. This will give one an idea of the advance in value of Gilliam county lands.

E. H. Green, the general manager of the National Livestock Insurance Association, came up from the Rose City Monday evening to look after the interests of his company in this section.

The Chief of the Weather Bureau has appointed Chas. H. Williams as local observer to take the place of S. C. Dodson. Every one may keep in touch with the weather through the columns of The Globe as Mr. Williams' official observations will appear each week.

O. A. Tschauer called at The Globe office the first of the week to take advantage of the Globe's big combination offer consisting of the Oregon Journal, Pacific Monthly, and Gilliam county's best newspaper. It is a big offer—the greatest $3.00 worth of reading on the market.

Miss Rena Horner, of Salem, who has been the guest of her brother, County Clerk Chas. H. Horner, for a week, began her duties as teacher in school District No. 40 last Monday. The district is better known as the Lovegren district in the eastern part of the county.

Mexican Rapid Transit.
The queerest mode of travel I saw in all Mexico was that adopted by a woman who was on her way to the doctor, seated complacently in a chair borne on the back of a man. Some Mexican women are afraid even of the mule cars, while they look upon the rapidly spinning trolley with such trembling of knees they cannot be persuaded to put foot upon it. Unable to pay coach hire, they employ the human carrier at a few cents for each trip.—Travel Magazine.

Miss Belle Wilson and mother returned to Condon Monday from a visit in Portland.

Colby Clarke returned Monday evening from a business trip to Portland.

Jas. C. Cooper, the regular mail clerk on the local branch, left Wednesday for a few weeks' vacation. He will visit in Silverton, Ore., and probably in California. Chas. Slyter came from Portland Tuesday to handle the mail during his absence.

Miss Lillian Ranney has returned from her vacation and will receive pupils in music. Any one interested may call. Residence studio, corner Summit and Church Streets.

Frederick A. Graham, of the Compiling Department of the Scientific American, was in Condon Tuesday introducing their new work, the Americana, to several of the business men. The Americana is a reference work so indexed that anyone can with no trouble find an answer to any problem which may confront him. Each subject in the work is prepared by an expert on that subject and, in fact, the work needs no further recommendation than to say it is favored by the Scientific American.

COPIOUS RAIN SHOWERS BRING GLADNESS TO MANY
Will Prove of Immense Benefit to Winter Wheat—Farmers Are Rejoicing.

It has been many months, in fact some say a year, since the soil in this vicinity has been as well soaked by rain, as at the present time. It is scarcely possible to estimate the value of this moisture to the farmers the county over. The majority of the farmers have sown almost all of their winter wheat, not a little of which has been above the ground for some time but has been held back from the lack of moisture. The rains of the past week will give the tender plants new life and will contribute to their growth.
While the rain was not general throughout the county, in the vicinity of Condon, the rain fall was heavy for this season of the year.

Took Kindly to the Water.
They tell this story of the experience of two Maine boys in trying to catch a woodchuck:
They had tried quite a number of times to capture the animal, but unsuccessfully. At last they decided to drown him out; so, procuring four pails, each took two, and they carried water for two solid hours and poured it into the hole in the ground in which the said chuck had taken up his abode. Getting tired, they sat down. After about half an hour the woodchuck cautiously left the hole and deliberately walked down to the brook and took a long drink of water and then scooted, much to the disgust of the two boys.

A STRANGE PAGEANT.

Annual March of Mohammedans to the Tomb of Moses.
One of the strangest of all the pageants which are to be seen in Jerusalem is the annual march of the Mohammedans to the tomb of Moses. To them, as well as to Christians and Jews, Moses is a prophet of the highest honor. But, rejecting the traditions of the Hebrews, they refuse to believe that he was buried in a valley in the land of Moab, as is described in the last chapter of Deuteronomy. Instead they assert that he was buried where he breathed his last, upon the summit of Mount Nebo.
Therefore each year at the time of the Greek Easter the faithful gather by thousands in the early morning before the site of the temple of Solomon in perfect silence waiting for day-break. Later the strange scene of quiet is entirely transformed, fanatics dancing and preaching, hordes of dervishes whirling about in mysterious "sacred" dances and hundreds of exhorters rousing the enthusiasm of their fellows. The scene is gaudy with hundreds of red and green banners, and the only semblance of order is in the semiregular organizations of marchers.
At last the procession forms, with the banners borne ahead, an imam bearing the yataghan of the prophet—a short, straight edged sword used by the armies of Mohammed—and after them more dancers and marchers.
A large part of the population of Jerusalem gathers about the gate, out of which the procession moves toward the Mount of Olives, but few besides the faithful endeavor to obtain a place in the ranks of marchers, since death has often been the penalty of an attempt by a non-Mohammedan to make this march to "Nebi-Moussa," the "tomb of Moses."
Traders of many kinds invade the camp, for the marchers remain at the mosque five days, and all their supplies must be bought from the wandering merchants, who make a business of looking after their needs. After the first excitement fanaticism yields to good humor, and games and banter fill the time for those who have paid their duties at the tomb.
The mosque on Nebo is one of the most sacred of Mohammedan shrines and one of the most difficult for a Christian to approach.
An English traveler who brought an order from the porte was denied admittance, and, although in recent years it has become possible to enter, it is too early yet to forget the experience of one traveler who came bearing an order of admittance from the sultan himself.
"This firman," the guardian priest said, "commands me to let you enter the mosque. Very well; you can enter. But think well before you do so, for I find nothing written here about letting you out again!"
Your money not ours until you are satisfied with the goods you purchase. The S. B. Barker Co.

Unchanged.
"I met Dunlop today for the first time in years. He hasn't changed much."
"Oh, he hasn't changed at all, but he doesn't seem to realize it."
"How do you mean?"
"Oh, he's forever talking about 'what a fool he used to be.'—Philadelphia Press.

At the Play.
"Talk about realism!" exclaimed Mr. Housekeep.
"Well?"
"That husband making dabs at the furniture and never hitting it looks awful natural to me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
