GILLIAM COUNTY News Notes

Items of Interest Gathered by Our Country Correspondents.

Arlington News.

Mr. and Mrs. William Langhausen of Condon were in town several days the fore part of the week. Mrs. Langhausen visited with friends while her husband hunted geese.

Miss Bessie McCarty of Condon visited with friends here several days this week.

Fred Weiman, formerly of the O. K. Barber shop of Condon, is in town for several weeks during the hunting season. He has fully recovered from his recent illness.

Miss Ella Wallace of Condon visited with relatives here this week.

A large crowd gathered at the opera house last Saturday evening to listen to the discussion of the political issues of the day by J. D. Lee, Republican presidential elector from Portland and J. O. Lewis, a socialist. Both sides were ably presented and the voters handed food for digestion to last until election day. The local band furnished the music for the occasion.

The large number of hunters of the festive goose who Sundayed in this city from various parts of the country returned to their respective homes Monday with poor luck. The clear weather has caused the big birds to rise from the river on their way to feeding grounds far out of the reach of the best guns.

A local hunter was fined the sum of $29.50 on Monday for hunting without the required $1 license.

A Tart Retort.
A good story is told of a prominent society woman at Newport whose name cannot for obvious reasons be given here.

It appears that an extremely wealthy matron who has not always enjoyed her present social pre-eminence was making certain supercilious references as to a young girl who had been presented by the lady first mentioned. "By the way," languidly asked the wealthy matron, "who is your friend Miss Blank?"

"Miss Blank is a charming girl," was the smiling response, "well bred, as you see, accomplished, entertaining."
"Oh, yes, of course," continued the other, "but, my dear Mrs. So-and-so, you know what I mean—who is she?"
"My dear woman," retorted the first lady, "I can no more tell you who Miss Blank is than I could have informed those who asked me who you were when you first came to Newport."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

LIES ABOUT THE FEET.

A Shoe Clerk's Comments on His Customers' Peculiarities.

"I don't see why people always lie about their feet," said the shoe clerk as his customer departed after giving him a bad half hour. "I don't mean on the size of their foot, for it's only natural to wish to have, or, rather, to make other people think you have, small feet. But why a great, burly man with his feet nubby with bunions should insist that his shoes never trouble him and that he never has any trouble in getting a fit is beyond me. Why, if I put an ordinary shoe on such a man he would cuss with pain, and he knows it. He knows also that I have to hunt around until I find some freak shoe that will fit his misshapen old foot, but all the time he declares that he never has bunions or corns like most people. Women who seem to be sensible enough in all other ways come in here and declare that they do not know what a corn is, when they wince with pain every time I touch their little toe. When they are forced to declare that the shoe hurts in one spot or another they insist it is because their feet have a shape peculiarly their own. Sometimes they will admit they have a 'little calloused place,' but a corn, oh, dear, no! Sometimes in a thin, lightweight shoe I can fairly see the corns bunching out under the leather, but I have to say diplomatically that the fit is 'not good,' or that the customer has a 'peculiarly sensitive foot,' or some other nonsense, if I want to keep their trade."—New York Press.

PUMPKIN PIE.

Praise For This Culinary Triumph and Gastronomic Delight.

American literature is replete with the praise of pie, and Harriet Beecher Stowe says, "The pie is an English institution, which, planted in American soil, forthwith ran rampant and burst forth into an untold variety of genera and species." The average American echoes, "Let it run." He has the same desire that possessed Simple Simon of Mother Goose fame when he met the pie man. But Mother Goose flourished before the pie reached the scene of its glory. The most famous pie of which she wrote was a meat pie, for she said:

Sing a song of sixpence, pocket full of rye;
Four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie.
When the pie was opened the birds began to sing.
Wasn't that a dainty dish to set before a king?

A pie containing live blackbirds sounds like a fairy tale, but it is not, as a Venetian publisher of a cookbook printed in 1599 gave a recipe for making pies "that the birds may be alive in them and fly out when it is cut up." The gay revelers who sat down before such a dish may have thought that the very pinnacle of culinary art had been obtained, but the pumpkin affords gastronomic delights to every American citizen beside which blackbird pies, ortolan pies, lombard pies or battalia pies are and of right ought to be back numbers.—Washington Star.
