COURT CONDON, NO. 5, F. OF A. MEETS Mondays evening of each month in Army Hall lodge room. Visiting brothers are requested to meet with us. A warm welcome awaits you.

State guaranty of bank deposits will be one of the big questions to come before the next session of the legislature. Already a bill has been thoroughly drafted by A. W. Orton of Multnomah, and has been submitted to the banking committee of the Oregon State Grange. The measure has been gone over carefully and a second draft of the measure has been prepared and this is now being sent to the different local granges throughout the state for their suggestion and approval. The bill will be prepared in time for the opening of the legislature and will be backed by the state grange, which will make the enactment of the law one of the chief objects during the coming session. It has been decided to confine the provisions to the question of bank guaranty alone, leaving other amendments of the existing banking law to other bills. This will be done in order that the guaranty plan may not be embarrassed or hampered by some objectionable clause or provision relating to other bank legislation. The main purpose and intent of the law is set out in the first two sections of the proposed bill, which set the time for the law to become operative and prescribe the manner of the operation of the law.

Ugly names in Oregon must go and at the first meeting of the Oregon Geographical board held in Portland a few days ago, objections were raised to absurd and ridiculous appellations of places throughout the state and an attempt will be made to change them. It was decided to ask the legislature for an appropriation to defray the expenses of the committee. One of the important duties of the committee will be the settling of disputes as to what the real name of some valley, brook or mound is and another will be the selection of appropriate names for all sorts of towns, rivers, mountains and other places. John B. Horner of Corvallis will have charge of the work in Gilliam, Sherman, Wheeler, Crook, Union, Polk and Benton counties. The work in other counties will be done by other members of the board, and all will be watched with interest. Echo, according to the plan discussed at the board meeting, may be known as Henrietta. The name will carry a reminiscence of the stirring Indian wars of '56, at which time Ft. Henrietta was established in that vicinity by soldiers from Ft. Dalles. The name was originally given in honor of Henrietta Haller, wife of Major Haller, in command at The Dalles, who when the soldiers were ordered into this section to fight Indians, furnished them with a wagon to haul their supplies. Places in this section oddly named: Bakeoven, Coyote, Gooseberry, Strawberry,

Lost Valley, Paper Sack, Scatter Wagon, Ajax, Trailfork, Devil's Butte, Antelope, Haystack, and numerous others would give work for this board.

A PERILOUS FEAT.

Caging a Savage Hippopotamus in the London Zoo.

Many more little dramas are enacted at the zoo than the outside public wots of, says the London Standard. Behind the lion house there is a black leopardess which is implacably savage and tries to eat her keeper. Her neighbor is a great romping leopard which a lady reared in India. He comes out to play when the British public is represented by only a liveried zoo man. Sometimes the animals get out without the consent of their keepers. One which did so was Obash, the hippopotamus. He proved a savage indeed when the attempt was made to deprive him of his liberty. Happily the gardens were closed at the time. Try as they would, the keepers could not entice or coerce the monster in the direction of his den. At last the superintendent called up an assistant whom the hippopotamus hated. The chief put a bank note into the man's hand. "Scott," he said, "throw open the paddock gate, show yourself to Obash, then run for it." Scott did. The animal went for him, raging along the path and after him into the paddock. Scott climbed the railings just in time, and the hippopotamus on turning found the gate secured behind it. Presently a press representative arrived to investigate the story, which had somehow become known. "Hippopotamus escaped? Oh, dear no! Come and see him in his den," he was answered as they led him to where the monster was caged.

A CHILD'S HEROISM.

The Story of a Visit to the Beautiful Glasnevin Cemetery.

A pathetic story of a child's heroism is told by a Dublin gentleman. Recently he proposed to drive with his wife to the beautiful Glasnevin cemetery. Calling his son, a bright little boy, some four years old, he told him to get ready to accompany them. The child's countenance fell, and the father said:

"Don't you want to go, Willie?" The little lip quivered, but the child answered, "Yes, papa, if you wish." The child was strangely silent during the drive, and when the carriage drove up to the entrance he clung to his mother's side and looked up in her face with pathetic wistfulness. The party alighted and walked among the graves and along the tree shadowed avenues, looking at the inscriptions on the last resting places of the dead. After an hour or so they returned to the carriage, and the father lifted his little son to his seat. The child looked surprised, drew a breath of relief and asked: "Why, am I going back with you?" "Of course you are. Why not?" "I thought when they took little boys to the cemetery they left them there," said the child. Many a man does not show the heroism in the face of death that this child evinced in what to him had evidently been a summons to leave the world.—London Telegraph.

His Mean Trick. "There certainly are differences in feelings," said the woman who sometimes philosophizes, "or at least different ways of expressing them." "A few days ago a shocking incident occurred in the apartment house where I live. The janitor, who was an unusually good looking man, about thirty-five years old, killed himself for some wholly inadequate reason, some difference with his employer. Of course everybody in the house was much upset by the tragedy, and I, with other tenants, went down to the basement to see his wife and offer aid. "The wife, however, seemed more resentful than grief stricken. "Would you ever think such a fine man would do such a mean trick!" she exclaimed."—New York Press.

Contest Notice

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR U.S. Land Office at The Dalles, Oregon. December 17th, 1908.

A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by James McGee, contestant, against homestead, (Serial No. 01420) entry No. 14933, made Feb. 27, 1906, for E 1/4 E 1/4 Sec. 23, W 1/2 NW 1/4 Sec. 24, T. 2 S., Range 19, E. W. M., by Edward M. Lambert, Contestee, in which it is alleged that said Edward M. Lambert has wholly abandoned said place and has failed to reside upon, cultivate or improve said premises during the six months last past or at all from the time of the initiation of the claim (that said alleged absence was not due to his employment in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States in time of war). Said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond, and offer evidence touching said allegation at ten o'clock a. m. on February 12, 1909, before George W. Parman, U. S. Commissioner at his office in Condon, Oregon, and that final hearing will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. on February 18th, 1909, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in The Dalles, Oregon. The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed December 17th, 1908, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication.
