Since going to the Hay Creek pumping plant less than a month ago, W. L. McCaleb has demonstrated the fact that when the City of Condon secured his services it secured an engineer who thoroughly understands his business. After being sent to the Hay Creek plant he caused to be ordered $29 worth of tools and after securing these he at once put the plant in first-class running order and at the present time has the reservoirs, which had been entirely empty for four months, again filled with water, thus giving the residents of the city the necessary protection. It is this kind of help for the city that makes every resident feel that they are securing a dollar's worth of service for a dollar in money.

The Young Men's Christian Association is taking a leading place in the educational progress of the state, and because of its expert instructors, well equipped laboratories, favorable location, and the high standard of its work it is destined to exert no small influence on the history of achievement in Oregon.

There are 18 million acres of unoccupied land in Central and Southern Oregon, according to estimates made in Portland. The race into the central part of the state by the Great Northern and Union Pacific Railways is going to throw open a land full of opportunities for several hundred thousand settlers. Part of this land may be successfully farmed by ordinary methods part of it by dry farming methods, and part of it by irrigation. It is a vast new empire that will be opened, and every part of the Northwest will be benefited.

Did you ever notice that one important difference between the man who succeeds in business and the man who fails lies in the fact that one man improves every opportunity of letting people know that he has to sell. While the other lets people find out for themselves—if they can?

Popular government has an earnest and convincing champion in Hon. Jonathan Bourne, jr., senior Senator from the most popular governed and progressive State, politically, in the Union—Oregon.

His address, delivered yesterday, presents the issue in a manner that will command wide attention. A political evolution, not a revolution, is impending, and Oregon, first to evolve a system of honest politics and honest popular elections, leads in a movement that is destined, no doubt, to reach every commonwealth of the republic. She occupies a proud, exalted position to-day in the sisterhood of States.

Senator Bourne, in speaking for his State, speaks for a just and righteous system that has passed the experimental stage and is bound to commend itself to people throughout the land who demand popular government as an inherent, inalienable right.—Washington (D.C.) Herald.

The farmers and fruit growers are rejoicing and they certainly have cause to be jubilant for the rain of the past two weeks assures beyond the question and vegetable crops this year. The prospects for record breaking crops along all lines were never so bright as at the present. Wheat acreage, the country over shows, a slight increase over that of last year especially the number sown to spring wheat. There are also less weeds to be seen this year than last.

Fine crops were assured before but the recent rains promise to bring to Gilliam County the banner year of her history.
