THE OFFICIAL PAPER FOR GILLIAM COUNTY

There is no more common thought among people than that foolish one, that by and by something will turn up by which they will suddenly achieve fame or fortune. Things do not turn up in this world unless somebody turns them up. — Garfield.

There is no dodging the fact that Congress is anxious to avoid the consideration of all legislation at this session except what it simply must take up. Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona, reapportionment, direct elections of senators, Panama Canal tolls, Panama Exposition matters, army legislation, conservation legislation, the control of corporations, these are some of the things which are clamoring for attention and which now seem destined to go over. An exception may be made of a resolution for the President to invite Latin-American countries to exhibit at the Panama-California Exposition in San Diego in 1915, which Col. D. C. Collier, Director General, is here to urge, as that is not looked on as legislation, strictly speaking. The Honduran and Nicaraguan treaties, involving loans, are not likely to go through at this session, and there is great disappointment because the countries to the southward are pretty hard up and need the money.

We are not hearing so much about "muck rakers" of late as we did some time ago. The fact is that at last the muck rakers are so busy trying to get rid of the piles which have been uncovered or so occupied in squaring up with the law that they have neither time nor inclination to stir up further controversy.

We are not surprised that some office seekers and some office holders kick at the recall feature of progressive legislation. It makes things a little dubious for the fellows who want the offices "for the sake of the pickings."

A Harvard professor says that women are but little removed from the savage state. We are waiting to hear just where the professor belongs, in the judgement of the "near savages."

Some are insinuating that the explosion of the Maine in Havana is fully accounted for. A copy of one of Marie Corelli's novels was found near the remains of one of the magazines.

Burbank is trying to develop an improved strawberry. Candidly we would prefer that he try his skill in evolving full measure boxes.

It has been told us that at last Mexico is settling down. Now the question is, can she settle up?

Champ Clarke is dead in love with all Missourians except one of the Folks.

Notice of Taking up Estrays.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an act of the Legislature to prevent any horse, ass, mule, cow, bull, steer, stag, sheep, or goat from running at large in Gilliam County, Oregon, which act was filed in the office of the Secretary of State February 23, 1909, I, J. C. Webb did on the 3rd day of July, 1911, take up the following described horses: One bay mare with colt, mare branded with a bar thus — on the right hip, weighing about 950 pounds. The colt being not branded. One grey gelding branded 66 on the left stifle, the left hind foot white and a star in the forehead, and weighing about 900 pounds. Said animals will be sold on Wednesday the 2nd day of August, 1911, unless redeemed prior to said date. Sale sale to be held on my ranch in the Buckhorn community, eleven miles west of Mayville, Oregon. First publication July 14, 1911. Last publication July 22, 1911.

If your house is in need of painting, staining, varnishing, papering or interior decorating it will pay you to see Claude Lawson. All work is guaranteed and a trial will convince you that his is the best.

Attention.

We have a customer for a 5000-acre sheep ranch. Must have enough farm land to raise feed for at least two fair-sized bands of sheep. Anyone having this kind of a ranch for sale address THE INVESTMENT SOCIETY OF OREGON Mayville, Oregon.

Notice to Users of City Water.

Notice is hereby given to each one using water from the city mains that they must pay their water rent before the eleventh of each month. Otherwise their water will be shut off immediately and will not be turned on again until a penalty of $1 is paid. Marshal Keeney will collect no more water rents.

Showcases for Sale.

Floor cases or counter cases in good condition. Call on W. H. Knapp.

All outstanding city warrants up to and including No. 1465 will be paid upon presentation at my office. Interest ceases after July 14th, 1911.

IS TRAINED FOR POLITICAL LIFE

Woodrow Wilson Tells How He Fitted Himself.

WAS HIS FIRST PREFERENCE.

Studied Law Because It Was the Shortest Path to Public Career, but Quit It, He Says, as He Found He Didn't Know How Then to Be an Honest Lawyer and a Politician.

In an interesting interview with Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in the May issue of the World's Work Mr. William Bayard Hale quotes the governor as follows:

"How did I happen to enter political life? Why, I suppose I was born a political animal. Always, from the first recollections of my youth up, I have aimed at political life. The reason I studied law was, I suppose, because in the south when I was a boy the law furnished the shortest path to public life. I gave it up because I found I couldn't be an honest lawyer and a politician; at least I didn't know how then to do it. So as the next best thing to living in public life I tried to satisfy my mind by studying it. I took a new start and went back to school, Johns Hopkins, where I tried to learn something about the facts—the facts, mind you, of government. From the start my interest has been in things as they are rather than in a theoretical analysis of them. In my thesis I studied the American congress as it is in fact, an organization of committees, somewhat as Bagehot had studied the English constitution as it was and as it actually worked rather than as its theory fictitiously made it. So, you see, I was always a practical politician."

"So that your occupancy of this comfortable swivel chair is really a fulfillment of your original youthful ambition?"

"Not of that so much as the fulfillment of my whole life, I suppose. When they came to me and said, 'You have been talking public questions and urging your young men to go out and take their part in politics; now it's time for you to take your own turn,' what could I say except: 'I'm glad of the chance. If the people want me to I will.'"

"Besides, to speak the truth, I was only asked to do in a bigger field what I had been doing at Princeton for ten years. I have been fighting privilege at Princeton, just as I am fighting it here now, only there I had to fight in the dark. My trusted friends told me I mustn't drag the fight out into the light before the big jury, and so I didn't. Here I can fight the same fight before the eyes of all men. It's fun to be out in the air and the sunlight."

Corporations as Joy Riders.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey is not only a forceful and convincing public speaker, but he frequently uses comparisons and anecdotes of a decidedly original and often distinctly humorous nature. In a recent address the governor aptly illustrated the difference between "good" corporations and "bad" corporations, as follows:

"I have no objection to the ordinary automobile properly handled by a man of conscience who is also a gentleman. Many of the people I see handling automobiles handle them as if they had neither conscience nor manners. I have no objections to the size and beauty and power of the automobile. I am interested, however, in the size and conscience of the men who handle them, and what I object to is that some of these corporation men are taking joy rides in their corporations.

"You know what men do when they take a joy ride. They sometimes have the time of their lives and sometimes, fortunately, the last time of their lives. Now these wretched things are taking joy rides in which they don't kill the people that are riding in them, but they kill the people they run over."

Our Great National Change.

Every thinking man recognizes the fact that conditions of life in the United States have altered materially within the memory of men still young. But not every statesman has been able to express his appreciation of these great changes as clearly and conclusively as did Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in a recent address. Governor Wilson said:

"Now, I take leave to believe there is one singular question that underlies all the other questions that are discussed on the political platform at the present moment. That singular circumstance is that nothing is done in this country as it was done twenty years ago. The old party platforms of twenty years ago read now like documents taken out of a forgotten age. We are in the presence of a new organization of society. We are eagerly bent on fitting that new organization, as we did once fit the old organization, to the happiness and prosperity of the great body of citizens, for we are conscious that that order of society does not fit and provide the convenience or happiness or prosperity of the average man."

What's in a Name?

The late king of Siam had for a full name Phra Bat Sombeth Phra Paratinnor Maha Chulalongkorn Phra Chula Chum Kio Chow Yu Hua, and this does not include his titles. A wag in Bombay saw it in the paper when the ruler was visiting that city and was being received by the British officials and passed it over to a young Irish subaltern with the challenge that he pronounce it. The young fellow looked at it a moment and then handed it back. He said he was not long enough winded, but he was sure he could play it on the garrison club piano if the instrument were a couple of octaves longer. The king's uncle, however, who was also a prince high priest, had for one name alone the following collection of letters: Pavaratsawariyalongkaun. Any one who can get through this and not flat one of the notes has lived a long time where he can look out of the window and see the gilded peak of a temple shimmering in the equatorial sun.—Christian Herald.

Starve a Cold.

Nature, as a rule, takes the appetite away when one is coming down with a cold or other infectious disease, and nature is wise. Don't coax Mary to eat when she has a cold. Don't allow the neighbors to tempt Johnny with calf's foot jelly or other dainties. When suffering from a cold the digestive organs are in no condition to care for food. The digestive juices are altered or entirely absent. One or two days' comparative fast will often assist in averting a severe siege of cold. A more convenient and enjoyable form of fasting would be to subsist for one or two days upon fruit or fruit juices perhaps, with the addition of a little toast. An exclusive fruit diet has all the practical advantages of complete fasting, while it satisfies the appetite and supplies sugar from which the liver can manufacture glycogen to sustain the white blood corpuscles in their continuous warfare against microbes.—William S. Sadler in Designer.

Giving Him Carte Blanche.

A few years ago John Kendrick Bangs, the humorist, told a number of his Broadway literary confreres that he felt particularly elated over an order he had just received from Henry W. Savage, the theatrical producer, for the libretto of a musical comedy. The play was produced a few months later. During the long period of rehearsals so much of Bangs' material was eliminated and so much other material inserted in its stead that when the curtain went up on the first night not more than half a dozen of the original lines remained.

About a week later a friend, meeting Bangs, asked him if he was writing any more plays for Savage.

"Yes," replied Bangs. "Only an hour ago I sent him 500 blank sheets of paper and told him to go as far as he liked."—Irvin Cobb in New York Tribune.

Anthony Trollope's First Earnings.

A literary man recalls Anthony Trollope's little gloat over the first fruits of his pen. "I send you a copy of 'The Warden,'" he wrote to Lord Houghton in 1866, "which Mr. Longman assures me is the last of the first edition. There were, I think, only 750 printed, and they have been over ten years in hand. But I regard the book with affection, as I made 49 2s. 6d. by the first year's sales, having previously written and published for ten years without any such golden result. Since then I have improved even upon that." Trollope, of course, "improved upon that" in no uncertain fashion.—Westminster Gazette.

It Was Real.

"My, this must have been exciting!" says Mrs. Bilmers, who is reading the paper. "A twenty foot box constructor escaped from the zoo yesterday and was captured after it had climbed halfway up a telegraph pole."

"And I swore off when I saw it as I went downtown!" growled Mr. Bilmers disgustedly.

"What are you muttering?" she asked.

"Nothing. I just said it must have been a ticklish job."—Chicago Post.

As Good as Lost.

"You're sure you can spare this five, are you, Shadbolt?"

"Dinguss, if I had not been perfectly sure that I can get along without it I never would have lent it to you."—Chicago Tribune.

Skeptical.

Teacher—Now, Johnny, what is the shape of the earth? Small Johnny—I dunno. Teacher—Why, I told you yesterday it was round. Small Johnny—Yes, I know, but I don't believe everything I hear.—Chicago News.

Not So Brave.

"He was certainly brave to crawl under the bed and engage in a life and death struggle with that burglar."

"When he crawled under the bed he thought the burglar was in the basement."—Houston Post.

For Good of the Community.

"Have you ever done anything for the good of the community?" asked the solid citizen of the weary wayfarer.

"Yes," replied the weary wayfarer. "I've just done a month."

Sensible Man.

Crawford—Do you really like to please your wife? Crabshaw—I can't say that I do, but I've found out it's the best plan.—Smart Set.

There are some who bear a grudge even to those that do them good.—Pill-pay.
