CONTRACTING of farm products is one of the great evils that country interests have to contend with says Hyman H. Cohen in the Rural Spirit. It is costing the Pacific Northwest hundreds of thousands of dollars every year. Every producer who contracts his products ahead of their time of delivery or production is actually taking money out of his own pocket.

WAIT FOR CONDON'S BIG WOOL SALES

Of course there are times when contracting of products is absolutely necessary for growers who have little capital but they are paying mighty good interest on the money advances they get.

Contract talk at this time is a timely subject for Pacific Northwest woolgrowers have been the "goats" for dealers for many years. They have contracted their wool at prices that averaged fully two cents apound less during recent years than they would have received had they bid the contracting agent wait until the fleece was ready for delivery. This has made a farce of the regular wool sales dates—just what the mill owners have been trying to accomplish. The regular sales dates that have been established by woolgrowers have done more to elevate the industry and the price than anything that producers have attempted.

Condon's wool sales date is set for June 19. Make this sale a hummer.

ONE of the noticeable things in reading newspapers is the large amount of space given up to the advertising of medicines and household preparations. Why do these concerns spend large sums of money in advertising, in employing clever ad-writers and in sending out free samples? Because they know it pays to do those very things. They realize that newspapers are read and that through them they will thus reach buyers for their remedies and preparations.

LEARN TO CREATE A DEMAND

When you come to think about it sick or ailing people are in the minority among readers of newspapers. You might say that the ad-writers cause you to want these goods. If they do, they have solved the secret of advertising. The dealer who cannot create a demand for his goods hasn't touched the key to advertising. The country merchant may do that as well as the big concern.

People read the newspapers. They are interested in the information they glean and are eager to save money. More and more people are getting the savings habit. A dollar saved is a dollar earned. When a grocer gives you a bargain on certain articles be right there and buy those articles; when a clothing store makes a reduction on suits, if you need one, go there and buy it.

WHATEVER else the people of Oregon and their representatives may scrimp, wherever else they may find it necessary to economize, the work that the Agricultural College is doing is so great, the boys and girls are going there in such ever increasing numbers and carrying away so much much culture and enthusiasm for the practical work of life, that we ought to make the amplest possible provision for keeping the college abreast of the times. It is a vital and inspiring force in the state, and as the years go by the people will understand better what it is doing and what it can do for them.

STATIONERY and a liberal payment will be given to persons who will send in the news weekly to the Globe from their section of the county. Many present day writers who are earning good salaries were in their less favored days correspondents from their neighborhoods to the county seat paper. Their letters were carefully edited and they learned the art of writing well. Write to the editor at once for further information.

THE REAL SPICE and seasoning of a newspaper is found in its advertising columns. It is there that the builders of your home town tell you "what's what." You'll enjoy reading the advertisements of the live wires.

GLOBULES

The most fruity limbs of some family trees are grafts.

Real cultered people do not go about reeking culture.

Burning a candle at both ends is a poor way to make both ends meet.

There are still some places in town where crosswalks would not stop the traffic.

"Mexican" would be a good name for motor tires that will stand the largest number of revolutions.

The farmers are much interested in the paving question and their slogan might be "less jangling and more paving."

Maxim, who invented the silencer for firearms, is out with a plan for stopping all noises. He will be up against a hard proposition when he tackles politicians and sewing bees.

Home Folks Chronology of Their Doings The Past Week.

W. C. Eddon went to Arlington Monday.

H. A. Thiessen made a business trip to Mikkalo Monday.

M. D. Shanks made a business trip to Mikkalo on Saturday.

Silas Brown left on Monday for Idaho.

F. T. Hurlburt returned on Monday from Portland.

F. M. Crawford made a business trip to Portland the first of the week.

Mrs. M. E. Summers went to Portland on Monday to get her stock of spring and summer millinery.

R. Jones, who has been working in Portland for the past two months, returned to this city on Monday.

Miss Mabel Pittman went to Portland on Monday to select spring and summer millinery and to study the new styles.

C. W. Cavender went to Arlington Monday to meet his daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Rogers, of Creed, Colorado, who is visiting relatives here.

D. S. Brown went to Arlington Tuesday to meet his daughter, Frances, who returned home almost entirely recovered from her illness.

O. B. Robertson returned on Monday from Portland. Mrs. Robertson is improving daily and will be able to return to this city in the near future.

SPRINGS ARE POPULAR

C. O. Portwood returned Saturday evening from Shipherd's Springs where he had been for the past month or six weeks trying the effect of the mineral waters on his rheumatism. He is much improved but returned to the Springs on Tuesday to remain several more weeks.

John Dysart was an outgoing passenger on Tuesday morning. To a Globe representative John stated that he was going to Mexico but considering conditions prevailing in that country at the present time it might be safer to say that he went to Shipherd's Springs.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.
