

ARLINGTON SUPPLEMENT TO THE CONDON GLOBE

YOUNG LADY KILLED IN A RUNAWAY

Miss May Ashworth of Rosevelt was killed in a runaway last Friday by jumping out of the buggy. In the fall Miss Ashworth broke her back. The funeral was held in Arlington on Saturday.

W. R. Baker of Blalock was visiting friends in Arlington the first of the week. Mr. Baker and wife have just returned from an extended visit in the Willamette Valley.

GLOVER BABY BURIED ON LAST MONDAY IN ARLINGTON

J. H. Glover and wife had the misfortune to lose their infant son Sunday morning and the funeral was held on Monday. Their many friends sympathize with them in their great bereavement.

Arlington News

Mrs. Mose McKinney of Rock Creek was in town the first of the week to do some shopping with our merchants.

Miss Lucina Vanander of Walla Walla is here visiting her sister, Mrs. T. B. Tubbs. She will remain in Arlington for some time.

The Honor of the Big Snows

He could make no sound, except a gasping like that which came from between the gaping jaws of the man whose life his body and soul were fighting to smother.

There was death in each of the two grips, but the man's was stronger, and his neck was larger and tougher, so that after a time he staggered to his knees and then to his feet, while Jan lay upon his back, his face and hair red with blood, his eyes wide open and with a lifeless glare to them. The missionary looked down upon his victim in horror. As the life that had nearly ebbed out of him poured back into his body he staggered among the dogs, fastened them to the sledge and urged them down the mountain into the plain. There was soon no sound of the sledge.

Half a mile down the ridge, where it sloped up gradually from the forests and swamps of the plain, a team of powerful malemutes were running at the head of a toboggan. On the sledge was a young half Cree woman. Now beside the sledge, now at the head of the dogs, cracking his whip and shouting joyously, ran Jean de Gravois.

He was bringing back with him a splendid young woman with big lustrous eyes and hair that shone with the gloss of a raven's wing in the sun. She laughed at him proudly as he danced and leaped beside her, replying softly in Cree, which is the most beautiful language in the world, to everything that he said.

Jean leaped and ran, cracked his caribou whip and shouted and sang until he was panting and red in the face. Just as Iowaka had called upon him to stop and get a second wind the malemutes dropped back upon their haunches where Jan Thoreau lay, twisted and bleeding, in the snow.

"What is this?" cried Jean.

"He caught Jan's limp hand and shoulders up in his arms and called shrilly to Iowaka, who was disentangling herself from the thick furs in which he had wrapped her.

"It is the siddler I told you about, who lives with Williams at Post Lac Pain," he shouted excitedly in Cree. "He has been murdered. He has been choked to death and torn to pieces in the face as if by an animal." Jean's eyes roved about as Iowaka kneeled beside him. "What a fight!" he gasped. "See the footprints—a big man and a small boy, and the murderer has gone on a sledge!"

"He is warm," said Iowaka. "It may be that he is not dead."

Jean de Gravois sprang to his feet, his little black eyes flashing with a dangerous fire. In a single leap he was at the side of the sledge throwing off the furs and bundles and all other objects except his rifle.

"He is dead, Iowaka. Look at the purple and black in his face. It is Jean de Gravois who will catch the murderer, and you will stay here and make yourself a camp. Hi-o-o-o-o!" he shouted to the malemutes.

The team twisted sinuously and swiftly in the trail as he sped over the edge of the mountain. Upon the plain below he knelt upon the toboggan, with his rifle in front of him, and at his low, hissing commands, which reached no farther than the dogs' ears, the team stretched their long bodies in pursuit of the missionary and his huskies.

Jean knew that whoever was ahead of him was not far away, and he laughed and hunched his shoulders when he saw that his magnificent malemutes were making three times the speed of the huskies. It was a short chase. It led across the narrow plain and into a dense tangle of swamp, where the huskies had picked their way in aimless wandering until they came out in thick balsam and Banksian pine. Half a mile farther on, and the trail broke into an open which led down to the smooth surface of a lake, and two-thirds across the lake was the fleeing missionary.

News was received here on Tuesday of the birth of a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burdett in McMinnville.

The ice has moved out of the Columbia river so that people are able to cross now with more safety.

SHANKS CHOSEN TO LEAD SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE

The session was called to order on Wednesday afternoon by President C. W. Harris of Condon who led the devotional service. C. C. Clark of this city welcomed the visitors to Arlington and Rev. C. A. Phipps gave interesting talks during the afternoon session. H. F. Shanks and Mrs. M. O. Clarke were appointed on the committee on resolutions. It was decided at the Congregational Sunday School of Condon the Methodist Sunday School of Arlington make up the deficiency in the county pledge.

Thursday morning's session was also a very interesting one. Rev. Moorhead, Mrs. Colby Clarke and Mrs. C. C. Clark, of the nominating committee, made their report which was unanimously passed.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following report which was adopted:

"We, your committee on resolutions submit: First, that the interest of the Sunday Schools of Gilliam county is increasing and that we believe there is more efficient and systematic work being done than in the past.

Second, Be it resolved by all in attendance at this convention that we, each and every one, pledge ourselves to make each Sunday School in which we work a Bigger and Better one and that we urgently request that this county send a large delegation to the state conventions at Baker and Oregon City.

Be it further resolved that the visiting delegates extend to the people of Arlington their thanks for the kind hospitality extended while attending this convention."

ARLINGTON LOCALS OF THE PAST WEEK

Frank Baker of Blalock was attending to business here the fore part of the week.

W. W. Weatherford of Olex was in Arlington the first of the week transacting business and he says the wheat does not seem to be damaged.

T. C. Mobley, who has been in Arlington for some time since he got injured, left for Olex on Tuesday to look after his work on the ranch.

The Riverside Tennis club had a supper and party on St. Valentine's evening when 33 people were present. It looks like tennis weather had come again and there will be some games on Saturday the 22nd.

MASONS WIN FAST BASKETBALL GAME

The basketball game Tuesday evening between the Masons and the Knights was won by the Masons, the score being 10 to 7. This was a good game all the way through although a little bit rough.

F. W. White and B. R. Settlement of Willows made a trip to The Dalles the fore part of the week.

Gus Birns of Dot, Wash., was in town the first of the week doing some trading with our store keepers.

District Superintendent H. O. Perry held services in Arlington Monday and Tuesday evening helped Mr. Moorhead with his services.

The Hard Time ball given at Louy's hall Friday night, the 14th was well attended. This seems to be a very popular kind of a dance for the reason that it doesn't take much time to get ready for it.
