

THE ARMIES NEED ALL THE WHEAT FLOUR

By J. C. Sturgill

Our army in France and the Allies need wheat and wheat flour and these must be furnished by the United States. Most of Oregon is now on a wheatless basis. The merchants of Gilliam have responded most nobly to the call and have agreed not to sell white flour until harvest. In extreme cases, on proper representation and a permit from the County Administrator, small quantities may be sold. The merchants are turning back their present stocks to the government. Arrangements have been made with A. B. Robertson of Condon to accept, store and arrange for shipment all flour returned by consumers. The government will pay at once what the flour actually cost the consumer.

All consumers who may have flour on hand are urged to return it to the Interior Warehouse before June 20th. This applies to people living adjacent to Condon. Those living in other parts of the county will turn their flour in to their nearest merchant. If you are a real patriot and love democracy, think of the boys in the trenches and turn in your flour. Do not make the boys both fight and starve. This call is urgent. Do not hesitate.

Big Time on June 15

By J. C. Hawkins

I am so well satisfied that Gilliam county people will appreciate the great things to be seen at the Moro Experiment Station June 15, Gilliam County Day, that I will pay for time and expenses of anyone not satisfied with what he sees there. It is really a wonderful sight and the development of grains carried out there cannot fail to be helpful. Over 1000 varieties of wheat are there and the breeding of hybrids is plain to all. Wheat sown on ground plowed in April, in May and in June is shown side by side to demonstrate what a difference there can be in plowing. Then the alfalfa and field peas and hundreds of other grains are very interesting. Wasco sent 40 auto loads to the Station on Wasco Day and they say we cannot bring so many from Gilliam. Let us show them that we can take at least 50 cars and don't forget to take your dinner along. We can get great good from the trip and enjoy it as a picnic.

A great deal of credit is due W. D. Hughes for the way he has fought the squirrel pest. He has bought more squirrel poison than any other man in the county and used it in a way to get the best results.

The eastern Oregon wage scale convention will be held at Pendleton next Monday, June 10. The delegates selected in this county are hereby notified to be there that day and all owners and operators of threshing machines are requested to attend.

"Can the Cockerels"

By J. C. Hawkins

As part of the government's campaign for increasing production and the conservation of foodstuffs, all poultry raisers are asked to co-operate in producing infertile eggs. To this end this week has been designated as "Can the Cockerel" week and all poultry raisers and farmers are asked to comply with the following recommendations:

1. All surplus cockerels, culled and undesirable adult males should be disposed of by sale or by use on the home table or by canning for future consumption. Young cockerels should be disposed of as soon as they reach marketable size, from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 pounds.

2. Males to be retained as breeders should be separated from females as soon as possible and kept in separate quarters until again needed as breeders.

It is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that it costs the egg producers of this country fully fifteen million dollars (practically Oregon's quota in the Third Liberty Loan) every year because of the neglect to produce infertile eggs. In addition, every male bird carried through the year costs three dollars to feed without return in any form. On farms having only ordinary stock it is highly desirable to dispose of adult males at once except those proved to be good breeders and these should be separated from the laying stock. Much better fertility will result next spring.

The Home Demonstration Agents are preparing instructions and recipes for home canning of poultry which will appear in this paper or may be secured from the O. A. College. It should be remembered that every male bird sold or disposed of conserves the grain supply and also results in better production of better eggs.

Section 9. Inasmuch as this ordinance is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace and safety of the city of Condon in this time of war, it is hereby declared that there is urgent need for every able-bodied man to perform some useful service during the present crisis, therefore, an emergency is hereby declared and this ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage by the Council.
