Throughout the weekend, local galleries showed those umbrellas, along with other art mediums, and presented artist demonstrations. On Friday, Art in Action spotlighted artists and offered original pieces for sale. The shops featured in the fashion show also welcomed Stormy Weather attendees.

"Dancing in the Rain" filled the 200-seat theater for its first showing.

"I was very impressed with attendance," Kleczek said. "I thought it was a great showing of what could be considered a Cannon Beach early showing."

There weren't just visual aesthetics to partake in, either. Blues musician Lloyd Jones performed with The Atlas Horns at Coaster Theatre on Saturday night.

Appropriate considering the festival's name, a dark, rainy and windy weekend did not stop the Stormy Weather Arts Festival from once again drawing a large crowd to the small coastal town.

Kleczek said rain doesn't stop Pacific Northwest residents from getting out and enjoying a weekend.

Ring in the holidays at Festival of Trees

Providence Seaside Foundation Festival of Trees rings in the holiday season with a free public open house at the Seaside Convention Center Saturday, Dec. 6, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Visit Santa, enjoy kids crafts and decorated trees on display. This year the festival celebrates 18 years of holiday magic and will continue its long tradition of raising funds for community and hospital programs.

the North Coast. Proceeds from this year's gala event will support new surgical equipment, including enhanced video camera internal scopes and digital printers. This new equipment will provide accessibility to more complex surgeries here on the north coast that are not currently being performed. The gala dinner auction takes place at 5:30 p.m. with a champagne reception and silent auction. Dinner and live auction begin at 6:30 p.m. Music by Acústica World Music and the event signature artist is William Steidel.
