

Things to do on INDEPENDENCE DAY WEEKEND

Celebrate July 4 in Cannon Beach

Cannon Beach Gazette

Ready, set ... summer! Independence Day weekend is the start of peak summer season in Cannon Beach. Fireworks are prohibited on the Cannon Beach ocean shore at all times, allowing for a quieter, pet-friendly holiday that also prevents marine life and shore birds from being harmed. After firework displays were banned on July 4 years ago, some locals remember fire dancers being a part of festivities. This Fourth of July weekend has activities for both locals and visitors alike.

Spot the puffins

The Friends of Haystack Rock organizes a puffin watch with help from the Haystack Rock Awareness program. During normal scheduled Haystack Rock Awareness Project shifts, the public can take a closer look at puffins nesting on Haystack Rock using scopes and binoculars that are provided. Scopes and binoculars will be set up Saturday, July 2, from 6 to 9 a.m.; Sunday, July 3, from 6 to 10 a.m., and Monday, July 4, from 6 to 11 a.m. Friends of Haystack Rock members and staff will be available to answer questions.

Classic parade

Join the police department, fire and rescue, veterans, local businesses and residents in cars or on bikes at the annual July 4 parade starting at 11 a.m. David Berliner, the U.S. Coast Guard Sector Columbia River Deputy Commander, will be the grand marshal. The parade begins northbound on Spruce Street and loops back onto Hemlock Street headed south through downtown. Sign-up for the parade is from 9 to 10:45 a.m. at the American Legion. After, there will be face painting and hot dogs at the American Legion and strawberry shortcake served at U.S. Bank.

Books and art

Choose from thousands of used books at the Cannon Beach Library Fourth of July sale from July 2 to 4, the library's biggest fundraiser of the year. After spending time by the beach or at the parade, head to the Cannon Beach Gallery for the "Landscape as Perception" exhibit, the gallery's contribution to the Plein Air and More festival.

Seaside celebrations

If your Fourth of July is incomplete without colorful aerial explosions, head to Seaside for the fireworks display on the beach at 10 p.m. Daytime Seaside activities include an 11 a.m. parade starting at the Seaside Museum, a Seaside Museum old-fashioned social from noon to 4 p.m., and a 1:30 p.m. drum and bugle corps performance at Broadway Field.
