The Cannon Beach History Center & Museum celebrates its 13th year of opening the doors to grand beach homes, historic cottages, and architectural wonders of Cannon Beach from Sept. 9-11. The tour opens with a concert and reception Friday, Sept. 9, featuring vocalist Kelsey Mousley and "The Next Right Thing." Food will be provided by Sea Level Bakery and Newman's at 988.

This year's lecture will focus on vintage and traditional design and the reawakening of these styles in home design. The speaker, Libby Holah, received her master of architecture from Washington University and has had her vintage and historic designs featured in 1859 Magazine.

Home tours take place from 1 to 5 p.m. in the Tolovana area of Cannon Beach. Attendees will have the opportunity to tour historic cottages (the original "tiny house"), grand beach homes, lodges, and inviting gardens. One of the highlights of the 2016 tour will be the former summer cottage of Frank and Irta Woodfield.
