

Additional Local News

A. W. Fletcher and wife and daughter Mrs. Lady of Oretown were Cloverdale shoppers last Saturday. They presented the COURIER office with two mammoth bunches of lettuce; fine specimens of what the gardens of this country will produce.

On August 8, the launch Queen, owned by Virgil Magarrell of Ocean Park, will begin its regular daily run between Cloverdale and Ocean Park and the bay. Passengers will pay at present 35c for one way trips; however, should the business justify it, Mr. Virgil will reduce the rate to 25c, later on. Freight will be carried for $1.00 per ton. The boat is fitted out as required by the government; having a license, necessary power, speed, safety, comfortable cabin, etc. The Queen is the first boat to attempt a daily run on the Nestucca River. As soon as other arrangements are completed a regular time schedule will be published.

Forest Ranger C. H. Young and Forest Assistant D. B. Reynolds who spent four days looking over the range in this locality, left on Tuesday for Slab Creek, Salmon River and the Siletz country. In company with Ranger Russel, they took observations from Round Top last Saturday, and from Hebo on Monday. Mr. Young's work is to gather evidence in regard to all boundry disputes and to learn of the wants and needs of those who may be located in or about the reserve, and to endeavor to settle all disputes. Mr. Reynolds' work is to secure data in regard to the forest cover, i. e., age, condition and localities of different species of timber, etc.

C. P. Nelson and Lester Ray returned from their trip to Spokane and Seattle, on Wednesday, and Dr. Brown returned on the following day. The boys took the trip together and report a pleasant time. Charley and Lester report that they had a hard time to dissuade the doctor from applying for a position as "medicine man" for one of the Indian tribes, and that he persistently persisted in practicing the "war whoop" on most inopportune occasions. On the other hand the doctor says that Chas. and Lester were lost from the time they crossed the Columbia river until they again arrived on this side, and that had it not been for him they would now be hopelessly stranded, either up one of Washington's tall trees or on top of one of Seattle's sky scrapers.

From Headlight:

Lee M. Traverse and wife with their daughter and son, Mrs. Leon Edmunson and daughter and miss Vera Cecil, left Eugene early on Saturday morning in an automobile to visit the editor's family, while coming down a grade south of Hebo, the driver, not being familiar with a curve, ran into the bank and struck a log, turning the machine over and throwing all the occupants out. At first it was thought that Mr. Travis' baby was badly hurt, but with the exception of a few bruises the party escaped without any injuries. The machine was injured some, but when pulled onto the road it was found that the machinery was intact, and fixing a few small injuries, the driver brought them to the city the next morning.
