FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1915

Business is good with the Courier.

Billy Sunday is throwing the harpoon into Philadelphia.

Provisional presidents seem to have as hard a time getting along with Villa as do real presidents.

Notwithstanding all those Billy Sunday revivals, Indiana remains one of the biggest sinners in the galaxy of states.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW LAND LAW.

Having actually put more "constructive and humanitarian" legislation on the statute books of the state than any other legislature in the country during the past two years, the California progressives of both or all parties are now preparing, with the aid and assistance of Governor Hiram Johnson, to bring together "the manless land and the landless man."

To this end, an initial appropriation of $100,000 will be made this month for the purpose of employing the unemployed in the task of clearing several acres of state lands, which are then to be subdivided and thrown upon the market at a very low price to actual settlers only upon the following terms.

No principal or interest for the first five years, after that 5 per cent on principal and 6 per cent on deferred payments for 20 years until the whole is paid for.

It is estimated that California has homes for 50,000 more families upon her vacant lands. Much of the land is worth very little, but as soon as the valuable state lands have been platted some of the great private estates are to be purchased by the state and sold to actual settlers upon the same terms.

This much has been agreed upon. It would seem that California is to be, indeed, "a land of opportunity" for the man who wants to get back to the land.
