Communication.

To the reader:

The writer has been wondering if the farmers and those who know the value of an up-to-date rural community realize the possibilities before us. Do we realize the importance of our duties to ourselves, our families, our neighbors, our community, our country, our state, our government, and our maker?

Do we realize that if we do our duty to ourselves and our brother farmers we are taking a long stride toward the upbuilding of a broader, nobler field of usefulness.

Do we take advantage of all the opportunities offered us to get into this field?

Do we realize our value to the commercial world as the commercial world realizes our value to them? No! Why? Because we do not organize enough and boost for our own best interests.

Do you recognize, brother farmer, the value of a good institution when you see it, or do you pass by on the other side?

The reputation of this community as a live, up-to-date community is at stake. Rally to your colors and boost for Cloverdale No. 355. Farmers! Farmers! Hear the call! Patrons of Husbandry beats them all!

Because it stands for business, for the social and educational uplift of manhood and womanhood.

Oregon State Grange meets in Tillamook this year in May. The people of the state are "taking notice" that Tillamook is the county. Now, lets show 'em that we are the people, too.

Five hundred people are expected to visit state grange. Do you know what that means?

They are going away and tell others what a fine country this is and what up-to-date people we have, if we make them believe it.

How can we do it? By organizing. We are all grangers anyway, because anyone promoting agriculture is a granger but we are not all organized grangers.

This community is one of the richest and best, and why should it not be one of the best represented by numbers at the state grange? Instead of that it has one of the smallest granges out of five in the county. Those at the state grange will naturally think that we haven't a very large or prosperous part of the county, which we have, and should prove by a big grange membership.

It pays to advertise! And the state grange has a far reaching influence.

Join the grange! Boost the grange! Work in the grange and you will feel that you are doing your little mite in advancing the interests of business, moral, social and educational and spiritual uplift.

The grange does not conflict in any way with one's moral, social, religious or political views.

These people from all over the state know that a live wide awake grange, will be heard from.

Cloverdale grange has been taking new members nearly every meeting for the last two or three months.

Now is the time to come and show your colors, because it pays to advertise.

Yours for improvement,
A Staunch Granger.
