These gentlemen, with their wives, are visiting the various Oddfellow lodges of Tillamook County this week. A banquet will be given in their honor by the lodge here this evening and a splendid time is expected.

Hotel Changes Hands.

(Willamina Times)

Hotel Commercial has again changed hands, Jenner & Jenner transferring title the first of the week to J. N. Hulett. Mr. Jenner gets a dairy ranch at Meda and will move out immediately. Mr. Hulett has leased hostelry to G. K. Walker, who took possession on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Walker has had previous experience in this line of work and there is no doubt he will make good.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenner have done very well for the time they were here but he prefers the ranch to the close confinement of the hotel business. The Times wishes them success in their new home, and bespeaks for the new management here a prosperous career.

In Doubt.

"Will you love me forever and a day?" sighed the newly betrothed heiress.
"It all depends," replied the scion of an ancient but impoverished family. "Do you think your money will last that long?"—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Germany's Crown.

The most militant in form of European crowns is that of Germany, which shows eight shields bearing alternate black eagles and jeweled crosses, while poised on four swords blazing with diamonds is a globe crowned with a cross of gold.

Lip Reading Detectives.

In a Vienna school for the deaf and dumb, where lip reading is taught, a course has been established for the special purpose of teaching the art to detectives. The possibilities of lip reading, says the author of the account in the Volta Review, have been exaggerated. But they are sufficient to cause authorities to think the instruction of detectives worth while. When a detective becomes proficient, he is able to learn something of the conversation between people who are visible, but out of earshot. The article says that at from 50 to 100 feet it is possible for an expert to get the general run of a conversation. Some reading has been done with glasses at a distance of 125 feet. Instruction and practice in the art must be very thorough if the detective is to use it to real advantage in his work.

Transforming Clothesline Posts.

A suburban resident grew tired of the wooden clothesline posts in his back yard. He incased them in chicken wire netting and planted sprouts of honeysuckle around the posts. He then nailed a little bird house to the top of each. In a short time the honeysuckle had completely covered the unsightly posts and a pair of bluebirds built a nest in one of the houses. Many of this man's neighbors took up the idea, and honeysuckle vines and bird houses now make the clothesline posts of his locality a pride to their owners.—House and Garden.

The Military Attache.

The duties of a military attache are to make himself thoroughly acquainted with every change that takes place in military affairs and to report from time to time on the mobilization, armament and equipment of the power to which he is to be accredited.

Same Way.

"How did you find dear old Broadway?"
"That way yet."
"What way?"
"Old and dear."—Cleveland Leader.
