CLOVERDALE,

OREGON

Con Newbill has sold his ranch near here to Ed Earl, of near Tillamook. Consideration $5000. Mr. Newbill advises us that he will move to Grizzle, Oregon. We regret to lose Con, but welcome the new comers.

Webb McGinnis, who was injured three months ago in a motorcycle accident, and having been confined ever since in a hospital, has so far recovered as to be able to return home last Saturday. With the aid of crutches he is able to get around the house.

Some of the taxpayers of Douglas county are going to fight an appropriation of $2000 to enforce the prohibition law. It takes money to catch bootleggers and if justices of the peace and circuit judges would impose a good heavy fine on this class of law breakers this should be a source of revenue and not an additional burden upon the taxpayers.—Tillamook Headlight. It takes money to catch bootleggers, nothing truer was ever uttered, and the advice to make the fines heavy is excellent, but as to the source of revenue it might be well to explain that all fines must be turned over to the county treasurer and credited to the school fund. It might be a source of revenue to the school fund if the district attorney was provided with money to make convictions.

Vocal and Instrumental Concert.

Programs are out announcing a vocal and instrumental concert to be given at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening, December 1. The proceeds will be used to buy music, etc., for the church orchestra. It will be entertaining and interesting and should have the support of all. The price of admission is 15 cents and 10 cents for children.

Barn Tumbles Into River.

During the high wind last Sunday the barn of George Kellow's on the bank of the river near the Farmer grade, was blown into the river. The barn contained a horse, buggy and an automobile. Mr. Kellow saw the barn roll into the river and hastened to the place. The barn lodged against some brush and remained until the horse and auto were taken out when it drifted down stream with the buggy. Mr. Kellow followed the wreck with a boat and at Butt's landing succeeded in getting the buggy away from the debris, but not until quite badly damaged. We understand the auto was damaged to some extent but that the horse came out uninjured. The barn was a total loss.

Communicated.

Corvallis, Ore., Nov. 24.—Farmers and home makers of the Cloverdale district are doing a good deal of thinking these days on how to make the farm and home more prosperous and satisfactory. All such will undoubtedly be glad of an opportunity to have the help of a half-dozen specialists in the most important phases of farm and home life and industries, who will conduct a two-day session of the Oregon Agricultural College movable school at Cloverdale Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. These schools in Tillamook county are under the auspices of Roy C. Jones, county agriculturist, who will have charge of the arrangements essential to the success of the schools.

Among the subjects to be handled are soils and crops, farm livestock, dairying, fruit and vegetable production, poultry and eggs and home making. Forenoon, afternoon and evening sessions will be held, all of which are entirely free. The value of the work will depend upon the number of persons taking it, and in order to get the full benefit a large attendance must be had. The instructors will give lectures, some of them illustrated, conference on personal problems and answer questions on subjects of local interest.

The home economics work will be conducted at the same time as the work of farm problems, since the interests are separate.

Following is the program:

Tuesday, Nov. 30—Morning, 10 to 12—Supplementing whey for hog feeding, R. E. Reynolds. Care and management of herd, E. B. Fitts

Afternoon—1 to 4—Co-operative organization of dairymen, testing milk for caesin and butterfat, breeding and feeding for milk production, E. B. Fitts.

Evening—8 to 10—Hog breeds and management, R. E. Reynolds. Types and breeds, E. B. Fitts.

Wednesday, Dec. 1—Morning, 10 to 12—Silage crops and silage making, J. E. Larson. The home orchard, W. S. Brown.

Afternoon—1 to 4—Co-operative marketing of poultry products, W. S. Brown. Kale and root crops, J. E. Larson. Small fruits (the brambles), W. S. Brown.

Evening—8 to 10—Breeds of poultry and management, C. C. Lamb. Farm yard manures and their conservation (illustrated), J. E. Larson.

DOING THINGS.

I am only one,
But still I am one.
I cannot do everything,
But still I can do something.
And because I cannot do everything
I will not refuse to do the something which I can do.
—Edward Everett Hale.

Road Survey Completed

County Surveyor Shreive, accompanied by his corps of helpers, and James Baker and Herman Farmer, of Beaver, have been in Cloverdale this week surveying and viewing the new road from the Daniels' ranch to the Werschkul ranch. The line as surveyed is almost an air line and though the distance on the old road is less than two miles the distance saved is nearly half a mile. To put it in exact figures the distance between the stake points on the new survey is 6,100 feet and on the old road 8,100 feet. As the grade field notes have not been committed no definite figures for excavation and fills can be given.

The surveyors left this morning for Tillamook.

Wants $2,000 to Prosecute With.

District Attorney Goyne wants $2,000 to be expended through his office to enforce the prohibition law. It should be granted him. Might as well hire a mechanic, pay him a good salary and then refuse to give him tools or material to work with, as to provide no means for the prosecutor to work with. Two thousand dollars in the treasury for the purpose of hiring detectives and paying rewards will have a wholesome effect to prevent bootlegging. If you take a logical view of this request you can plainly see that the request should be granted.
