Great are those 25c dinners at the Ramsey Hotel dining room, Tillamook, Ore.

Archie Gist is carrying his arm in a sling, the result of falling from a raft of logs into the water last Saturday. He struck one of the logs as he fell dislocating his shoulder. In this injured condition he had to swim quite a distance to reach shore.

Drowned in Mill Pond.

About 10 o'clock this morning Arthur Burke, who is employed at the Krebs' mill at this place, while placing logs ready to have them hauled into the mill, slipped from the log on which he was standing and was drowned before he could be rescued. Workmen in the mill saw him fall into the water and immediately went to his rescue. He came to the surface twice, trying his best to swim. Walter Aune, one of the employes of the mill reached the spot where the unfortunate man went down and with the first dive brought him up. Every effort possible at resuscitation was made, men being there that understood just what to do. He had been in the water but a few minutes but could not be revived.

Mr. Burke came here from Idaho about a year ago, since which time he has made his home with his uncle, James Burke. He was an exemplary young man and has many friends here. His mother and father live in Salmon, Idaho.

Coroner Wendt was called and arrived here at 12 o'clock.

The parents of the deceased have been notified by wire and the disposition of the remains cannot be determined until an answer is received.
