PLANS FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

Will Use Giant Machine Carrying Ton of Gasoline.

Will 1916—the most notable year in the history of the world—record among its tremendous achievements, a trans-Atlantic aeroplane flight?

Lieut. Polner, a Danish military aviator, is fired with ambition to become the Columbus of the clouds, and is preparing to fly from Faroe island to New York in a 350-horsepower air craft. He says he expects to make the 3,550-mile journey in 48 hours.

Expert airmen believe Polner will succeed. With a high-powered motor Polner hopes to average 74 miles an hour.

Polner plans to make the trip from Faroe island to St. Johns, N. F., in 30 hours. His machine is being built to carry sufficient fuel to make the flight without a stop. Expert aviators estimate more than a ton of gasoline will be needed.

Since the opening of the European war many machines have been made and successfully operated with carrying capacity for even greater loads.

Polner's machine will be equipped with wireless apparatus and the average height at which he plans to fly will be between 8,000 and 10,000 feet.

The Evening Telegram, Portland's best daily paper, and the Cloverdale Courier, both papers one year for only $3.50.

Seriously Injured.

Word was received in Cloverdale Monday morning that Mrs. Emma Fogg was seriously injured Sunday in an automobile accident. The report says Mrs. Fogg was in company with other ladies in an automobile driven by Garrett Ward and in making a turn the automobile came to a sudden stop throwing the occupants out of the car over the windshield. Mrs. Fogg was picked up unconscious and rushed to a hospital. It was first thought that her skull was fractured and up to this writing she is reported in a critical condition.

Cloe Halbert No Nimrod.

Miss Cloe Halbert enjoyed a week's vacation from the telephone switchboard last week and tried her luck fishing the Little Nestucca river. Every afternoon of the week she angled for the finny tribe and late the last afternoon she succeeded in landing a trout less than seven inches long. The hello girl says she wasn't entirely unsuccessful at any rate.

Falls From Barn Loft and Breaks Arm.

Monday afternoon while playing in the hay loft at Mark Bays' ranch little Miss Leighton, sister of Mrs. Bays, fell and broke her arm at the wrist. She was taken to the hospital at Tillamook Monday evening where the arm was set and the child made as comfortable as possible.

Was Operated Upon Monday.

Miss Mamie Call, of this place, was operated upon Monday at the Jones hospital, Tillamook, by Dr. Shearer for appendicitis. It is reported the young lady withstood the operation nicely and is on the high road to recovery.

Jury Says Launch is Exempt.

In the trial of E. E. Colestock vs. H. Crenshaw Saturday over the attachment of a launch, the jury rendered a verdict that the launch was operated to earn a living for the owner and decided it came under the law of exempted property.

Crazy, but Rich.

Some years ago a man was arrested on the ground of insanity. His filthy dwelling was searched. Even the wall paper was lined inside with bank notes. A kitchen copper was the store place of thousands of old bank bills. The grate was filled with silver and copper coins. Jars and bottles were crammed with pennies he had collected on the streets. When the treasure was counted it totaled £25,000, and another £5,000 was in a bank!—London Tit-Bits.

When in Tillamook and you want a good meal at a most reasonable price call at M. Oleson's in the Ramsey Hotel dining room.

Strategy.

"What was all the argument between you and the judge yesterday?"

"Oh, we were discussing the merits of our respective cars."

"That's a foolish thing to do. You can never convince a man that your car is better than his."

"I know that, but I got him so mad that he committed himself to the statement that my car can't make over ten miles an hour. The next time I'm brought up before him for speeding I'll remind him of that."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Is Grammar Essential?

Sometimes it is urged that formal grammar teaches children to write and speak correctly, but as all Americans have studied formal grammar, including newspaper reporters and saleswomen, there would appear to be no guarantee that formal grammar study leads to correct habits of speech. On the other hand, I once knew a school where for fourteen years not a minute was spent on formal grammar, and, like the worm that does not miss a slice or two, no one ever knew the difference.—Atlantic Monthly.
