Wm. Owen made Cloverdale yesterday. He is traveling for a stationery and willow ware wholesale concern of Portland. He says so far the orders have been coming his way very good. While here he received the sad intelligence of the death of his mother at Portland.

A street fight on the street here last Saturday morning caused considerable excitement for a short time. Elbert Worthington thought he was privileged to beat up C. A. Smith and proceeded to do so. He was stopped by two of the citizens here just as the sheriff of the county came around the corner in a machine to the justice's office. Elbert was arraigned, plead guilty to assault and battery, and was fined $50 and costs which he paid.

It was with deepest regret that the people of Cloverdale recently read of the death of Rev. J. V. Milligan. He was a pioneer missionary of Sunday school work in Tillamook county and was instrumental in organizing and keeping interest alive in all the Presbyterian Sunday schools of the county. A man of pleasing personality, thoroughly devoted to his work, he made friends wherever he visited. Surely this district has suffered a serious loss in the death of Dr. Milligan.

Shoots Deer From Porch

Yank Lady, who lives in the hills back of Willamina, saw a deer from his front porch one day this week. Rushing back into a room he pulled down his old trusy rifle and in a jiffy he aimed at the antlered animal and brought it down.—Willamina Times.

Really Careful.

Natalie, aged five years, for the first time planted some pansy seeds in small boxes. One evening she rushed to water them, and on her return her mother said, "You know after a rain you don't have to water them."

Natalie's reply was startling: "Oh, I take them in when it rains!"—New York Times.

The Cooling of the Worlds.

All bodies in space are gradually approaching fridity. When a redhot cannon ball is taken out of a furnace and suspended in the air it parts with its heat and keeps on parting with it until it finally reaches the temperature surrounding it. And what happens to the cannon ball is happening to the sun. The sun is steadily losing its heat and contracting, and the same is true of the planets and of every other body in space. Just as the arctic circle is ever encroaching upon the temperate and equatorial regions, so the final chill is steadily advancing upon the warmth everywhere.—New York American.
