Wilde, Flyweight Champion

Jimmy Wilde, flyweight champion, is England's most successful fighter. He is a native of Wales, twenty-four years old and weighs but ninety-eight pounds in fighting trim. He gives away ten to twelve pounds to his opponents and usually puts them to sleep. Wilde has engaged in 187 battles in the six years he has been in the ring and won all except one. This defeat was handed to him by one Tancy Lee, a Scotch flyweight, and the title changed hands on the result. Some time later he met Lee and knocked him out in eleven rounds, recapturing the championship.

King of Sweden Sends Cup.

An act of international courtesy that deserves appreciation by the athletic authorities in America is the sending of a cup by King Gustav of Sweden to the Amateur Athletic union in recognition of the visit of the American team to the Scandinavian countries. The trophy is a very handsome one fifteen inches high and made of gold. It is now in the possession of the secretary-treasurer of the union and if a suggestion already made is carried out may be offered as a perpetual challenge trophy for one of the championship events of the A. A. U.

Fulton May Box Willard.

Fred Fulton, the Rochester (Minn.) giant, has accepted an offer of $10,000, with the privilege of 20 per cent of the gate, to fight Jess Willard in Milwaukee shortly after the first of the year. Now the Cream City Athletic club, owned by Tom Andrews and Joe Ermatinger, is dickering with Willard and, it is said, is offering the champion an even $40,000.

Heads Basketball League.

Ewald O. Stiehm, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin with the class of 1909, the new president of the Western Conference Basketball association, has been head coach at the University of Nebraska since his graduation from Wisconsin and is now director of athletics at the University of Indiana.

Home Cookery.

Curried Rice With Chicken.

Cook the chicken as for an ordinary stew. Boil the rice in salted water; then proceed as follows to make the curry powder sauce: A cupful of chicken stock (broth), a tablespoonful of flour, a teaspoonful of curry powder. (If the family be large the stock and ingredients must be used in accordance.) Rub smooth the butter and flour. Bring the stock to the boiling point, add the flour paste and cook until the gravy thickens, stirring constantly. Stir the curry powder into a little of the cold stock, then add to the gravy, stirring well. Arrange the chicken in a heap in the center of a deep platter, surround it with the hot rice and pour the gravy over all. Serve very hot.

Savory Calf's Tongue.

Skin a medium sized calf's tongue carefully and cut it into slices about a third of an inch thick and boil for seven minutes in slightly salted water, says the Country Gentleman. Put four slices of rather fat bacon into a stewpan and fry with it a sliced onion. When the onion has slightly browned put in the slices of tongue, season with herbs, chopped capers, lemon juice, chopped parsley and salt and pepper to taste. Pour in a cupful and a half of brown stock, cover and cook gently for thirty minutes. Serve hot in a border of mashed potatoes.

Macaroni With Bacon.

Cut three or four slices of bacon in dice and fry, cooking with it a small onion, sliced. When well browned stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook till frothy. Add to this a cupful and a half of tomato, stewed, seasoned and passed through a sieve. Let simmer until onion and bacon are tender. Cook three-fourths of a cupful of macaroni till tender, rinse in cold water, drain and add to the tomato. Let all heat together; then stir in with a fork two or three tablespoonfuls of grated cheese and serve hot.

Baked Sliced Ham.

Two pounds of sliced ham, two teaspoonfuls of minced onion, two teaspoonfuls of minced parsley, the juice of half a lemon to each slice of ham. Slice the ham half an inch thick, remove fat nearly to the lean and chop it fine. Mince the onion and parsley, mix with the fat and spread over the ham, which should be put into a dripping pan. Squeeze over the ham the lemon juice and bake till tender in a moderate oven from thirty to forty minutes. Make a gravy from the drippings in the pan.

Rice Pudding With Ginger.

Cook the rice until well done; add sugar to taste, one large tablespoonful of butter, a dash of nutmeg and two tablespoonfuls of preserved ginger cut into small pieces. Each cupful of rice will require one quart of sweet milk. Mix all together thoroughly and bake in a moderate oven until thick and creamy. Serve either hot or cold.

A Well Spent Day

If you sit down at set of sun
And count the acts that you have done
And, counting, find
One self-denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard,
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then you may count that day well spent.

But, if through all the livelong day
You've cheered no heart by yea or nay,
If through it all
You've nothing done that you can trace
That brought the sunshine to one face,
No act most small
That helped some soul and nothing cost
Then count that day as worse than lost.

General von Kneussl, German Commander

According to dispatches from the front, the fighting between the German troops under General von Falkenhayn and the Roumanian forces in the Transylvania Alps has been greatly hampered by snow and cold weather. The snow filled defiles of the mountains have rendered military operations alike difficult for both armies. Among the officers under General von Falkenhayn is Lieutenant General von Kneussl, who heads the Bavarian divisions. Von Kneussl distinguished himself in the siege and capture of Przemyśl in June, 1915, when that Austrian city was recaptured from the Russians, who had won it only twenty days before.

The Author of Evil

Inquire no longer who is the author of evil. Behold him in yourself. There exists no other evil in nature than what you either do or suffer, and you are equally the author of both. A general evil could exist only in disorder, but in the system of nature I see an established order which is never disturbed. Particular evil exists only in the sentiment of the suffering being, and this sentiment is not given to man by nature, but is his own acquisition. Pain and sorrow have but little hold on those who, unaccustomed to reflection, have neither memory nor foresight. Take away our fatal improvements, take away our errors and our vices, take away, in short, everything that is the work of man, and all that remains is good.—Jean Jacques Rousseau.

Little Pine Trees.
Little pine trees in a wood,
Waiting patiently they stood,
In the open grate to burn,
Soon they knew 'twould be their turn.
In the summertime they made
Such a cool and spicy shade.
Now they toast our toes and face
In the open fireplace.
You are generous and good,
Little pine trees of the wood.
