Wm. А. П DRUGGIST AND STATIONER

OREGON CLOVERDALE,

To the Boy of the Twentieth Century

So live that your afterself-the man you ought to be-may in his time be possible and actual. For away in the twenties, tho thirties, of the twentieth century he is awaiting his turn. His body, his brain, his soul, are in your boyish hands He cannot help himself.

What will you leave for him? Will it be a brain unspoiled by wrong living or dissipation, a mind trained to think and act, a nervous system true as a dial in its response to the truth about you?

Will you, boy of the twentieth century, let him come as a man among men in his time, or will you throw away his inheritance before he has had the chance to touch it?

Will you let him come, taking your place, gaining through your experience. hallowed through your joys, building on them his own, or will you fling his hope away, decreeing wantonlike that the man you might have been shall never be?-David Starr Jordan.
