

Blossom Time in the Golden State

A friend just back from Southern California says: "The weather was fine, in fact too warm for heavy clothes. Many were bathing at the beaches. Oranges were ripe in the valleys, while the mountains nearby were covered with snow."

With warm sunny weather it will not be long before the blossoms on the trees will be everywhere announcing that spring time is here.

Take a vacation trip now where life is different; where climate surroundings and amusements are out of the ordinary. Spend a different February.

AN ARBITRATION BILL IS NEEDED.

Congress should not adjourn without passing an arbitration bill to safeguard our country against industrial troubles following the war. Such a measure may not be popular with two classes—employers who oppress labor, and organizations who want high pay and little work. Fortunately there are not many of either class, and to the mass of honest employers and employes, arbitration means higher social justice. Compulsory arbitration means settlement of strikes, lockouts and general suffering by the innocent and the public in general. Congress should have no difficulty in reaching a conclusion that has been fraught with blessings to Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Our country is entitled to industrial peace and permanent prosperity under a wise law guaranteeing protection to both employer and employe.

No, Cordelia, gastronomy has nothing to do with the price of gas.

The more a man talks the more trouble he piles up for himself.

A man is forced to play the game of life even if he doesn't hold a trump.

It is human nature for one man to ask another how he feels—also not to care.

You may tip the soda clerk a wink, but you can't tip a Pullman porter that way.

The girl who is willing to take in washing to support a family can afford to marry a man who wears a lot of finger rings.

A woman should never propose because one rejection would crush her pride, while a dozen rejections would only egg a man on.

One seldom realizes how much worse the world is growing until he hears two old settlers exchanging reminiscences.

Lots of bright hopes are exchanged for gloomy experience.

The question of precedence in this country is merely a question of hustle.

Although the gas meter never fails to register it isn't allowed to vote.

Method of Cleaning

Silver Without Rubbing

An easy and effective method of cleaning tarnished silverware by boiling in a soda and salt solution in contact with a clean piece of aluminum or zinc is recommended to housewives by the United States department of agriculture as a result of studies made by its specialists in home economics.

The electrolytic cleaning method depends on the facts that this tarnish of silver sulphid is lightly soluble in the hot solution employed and that it is broken down chemically and its silver content redeposited on the ware when the proper electrical conditions prevail. The presence of both the silver and the aluminum or zinc in the hot solution provides the necessary electrical conditions. Under this method, therefore, practically all the silver in the tarnish is returned to the object being cleaned. When silver polishes are used, on the other hand, all the silver in combination in the tarnish is removed.

In the cleaning method recommended by the department the necessary materials are a graniteware cooking utensil deep enough to allow the silverware to be covered by the solution. A clean piece of aluminum or zinc, preferably the former, and baking or washing soda. The solution, consisting of a teaspoonful of baking or washing soda and a like amount of table salt to each quart of water, is brought to a boil in a graniteware or enameled utensil. A sheet of aluminum or clean zinc is dropped in. The tarnished silverware is then immersed in the solution so that it is in contact with the sheet of aluminum or zinc. The tarnish should disappear in a few seconds. The silver object should then be removed from the solution, rinsed and dried with a soft cloth. Aluminum is much more satisfactory than zinc for use in this cleaning process.
