Found Dead in His Cabin.

Paul Kingston, who has been a resident living alone on his ranch in Slab Creek, for the past 15 years, was found dead by his neighbors in his cabin last Saturday morning. His age was 67 years. His two sons and two daughters with a nephew arrived in Cloverdale Monday to take charge of the remains. But very little is known of Mr. Kingston here aside from his near neighbors, who speak in highest terms of the deceased gentleman.

Mr. Kingston came to the Nestucca Valley from Anity, at which place he held his membership in the Masonic Lodge, and was also a Chapter member of the McMinnville Lodge, R. A. M.

He was buried today (Thursday) in Orestown cemetery, Rev. Montgomery preaching the funeral sermon, and Cloverdale lodge, A. F. & A. M., conferring the ritualistic funeral services.

Good for Cloverdale.

The Miama herd of Holstein cattle belonging to F. R. Beals is now located across the river from our city, of which we should all feel proud. If you remember this is the herd that captured the blue ribbon at our county fair last August. W. B. Honey is in charge of the herd and he, too, sure feels proud to be located here. He is a long experienced man and probably draws as large a salary as anyone in the county in that business.

The herd above mentioned is the largest herd of registered cattle in the county.

There will be some improvements made on the farm this spring.

Bids Wanted.

Bids will be received up to and including February 16, 1918, by the Central Creamery for hauling cheese to Tillamook and supplies back. Address M. N. Bays, Cloverdale, Oregon.

And He Got It.

Suitor (courting sister)—I'll give you a dime if you'll run away and play. Jimmy—Certainly not! If it's worth a dime to get rid of me it's worth a quarter to see what you're going to do.

THE UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION SAYS:

Food saving is in its essence the daily individual service of all the people. Every group can substitute, and even the great majority of thrifty people can save a little—and the more luxurious elements of the population can, by reduction to simple living, save much. This means no more than that we should eat plenty, but wisely and without waste.

Food Will Win the War

A LARGE part of the world is coming to the position that Belgium is in; coming to the stage where the primary and important thing in life is enough food to keep alive. Food has now taken a dominant position in the war. The American people must prepare themselves to sacrifice far more than was at first thought necessary.

The cold facts are: France, Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going ten or twelve weeks. When America's food shipments stop—the allied nations begin consuming into this slender store and begin a swift march into actual famine conditions—which would mean defeat in short order. Europe then must live on America's surplus. Your saving increases our available stocks just that much and actually feeds some person in the countries with which we are associated in our war against the Central Powers. Our surplus wheat has already been shipped to the allies.
