There are altogether too many letters received at every postoffice in the county towns. They are of no importance at all to the recipients. These letters come from the larger cities and a great many from the governmental departments. Conservation on postage should be the next wave of economy that strikes the city dweller.

It isn't just the ladies who attend the Red Cross meetings that are doing all of the work. There are a number of loyal workers who cannot attend that are doing splendid work. One worthy of special mention is Mrs. Beach, wife of the Forest Ranger, on Mount Hebo, who has knitted 30 pairs of socks and has just taken yarn for four more pairs. This is a splendid record and ought to spur some of the ladies of our town to more active service. The Red Cross rooms are open every day and there is great need of more moss pickers. Don't be slackers. Every hour's work counts.

Utilizing Rice Hulls.

Experiments have been made with rice hulls in combination with different binding agents, but while the resulting briquets gave every satisfaction from the standpoint of heating, yet the initial cost of the various binding agents made their cost too high for practical purposes. The experiments, however, are being continued, and it is hoped that in the future a briquet can be manufactured that will be satisfactory from an economic standpoint.

2,500 Student Nurses Wanted.

So many trained nurses are needed in the army that the U. S. Government is asking for 2,500 student nurses now, to take the places of the trained nurses in the hospitals that they may be released for the work in France.

RANK WITH EAST'S WONDERS

Famous Temples at Mandalay, in Upper Burma, a Spectacle That Few Tourists Care to Miss.

Of the many strange buildings and temples in the far East, says a writer in Wide World Magazine, there are none more wonderful than the 450 Temples of the Law at Mandalay, in Upper Burma, known as the Rutholdaw, or "Royal Merit." The group consists of a large central pagoda surrounded by hundreds of smaller white temples, or shrines. They were erected by Ainsay-min, who ascended the throne on the death of his brother in 1867. The latter was cruelly murdered by his two nephews, and it appears that this very much affected the new king. Not only did he devote his energies to peace, but erected this strange group of temples, each one of which contains a slab on which is engraved a portion of the Buddhist bible. These holy tablets are made of soft marble or alabaster, each slab being about the size of a large old-fashioned tombstone. On both sides are engraved chapters from the Buddhist scriptures. Over every slab is erected a canopy surmounted by a gilded framework of metal with small tinkling bells. The temples are situated in a beautiful wooded valley, and seen from the surrounding hills they present a fascinating picture.

Serving the Commonwealth.

There are many crosses and trials in the life of one who is endeavoring to serve the commonwealth, but there are also two permanent sources of comfort. One is the support and sympathy of honest and reasonable people. The other is the conviction dwelling forever, like a well of living water, in the hearts of all of us who have faith in the country, that all we do in the fear of God and the love of the land, will somehow be overruled to the public good; and that even our errors and failures cannot greatly check the irresistible onward march of this mighty republic, the consummate evolution of ages, called . . . to a destiny grander and brighter than we can conceive, and moving always consciously or unconsciously, along lines of beneficent achievement whose constant aims and ultimate ends are peace and righteousness.—John Hay.

Closing Wild Gas Wells.

Engineering feats, comparable in the ingenuity required, if not in expenditure of effort with the closing of the Salton sea, have been called for in recent years to close wild gas wells in northwestern Louisiana. An immense amount of natural gas has been lost in wells that have got beyond control in the Caddo and Red river fields, and the loss consists not only in the precious fuel wasted, but in the lowering of pressure on the associated oil, which is rendered thereby more difficult to recover. Indeed, it is asserted by some that the ultimate yield of oil from a pool is considerably less if the gas is allowed to escape than if it is closed in until as much oil as possible is taken out.—Argonaut.

Horses in the Philippines.

The horses in the Philippine Islands are ponies containing a mixture of the blood of ponies and small horses from northern China, French-Indo-China and Mexico, with a considerable admixture of Arab blood. There are about 243,000 horses in the islands. In Manila alone about 100 dead horses are collected every month, which are cremated, hides and all, though there is great need of horsehides for razor strops and shoe leather. In the rest of the islands probably 2,500 horsehides are wasted every year because no one knows where to sell them profitably.

NEW HONOR ACCORDED DAVID

Might with Entire Propriety Be Called the First Bandmaster Recorded in History.

David might well be called the first bandmaster mentioned in history, for he was the first orchestral organizer of which we have any record. His band numbered two hundred, four-score and eight, and he thus led the first body of players. He no doubt possessed a knowledge of instrumentation and tone-color effect, for he assigns his subjects to special instruments.

The fourth Psalm, "Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness," he directs to be played by his chief musician, who was a player of the harp and the sackbut. Psalm fifth, "Give ear to my words, O Lord," he assigns to the chief musician, who was the solo flutist of his band. Psalm sixth, "O Lord, rebuke me not in thine anger," the chief musician or soloist on the string instrument, who had a virtuoso's regard for expression, is called upon to perform, and so on through the Psalms.

David without question had in his hand all of the component parts of the modern orchestra—strings, woodwinds, brass and percussion. At the dedication of Solomon's temple, David and all the house of David "played before the Lord with all manner of instruments made of fir wood, and with harps and with psalteries with trimbels, castanets, cornets and cymbals, and the sound of the trumpet was heard in the land even as it is heard today." Popular as a composer and popular as a conductor, David was certainly to be envied.

From these Biblical days to the present time the instrumental body has existed in many forms—bands composed entirely of bagpipes, orchestras composed entirely of string instruments, bands of oboe players, bands entirely of brass, bands of brass and woodwind, bands of trumpets, bands of bugles, bands of drums, and all sorts of combinations have been made by man.
