Secrets of the Wardrobe.
When Winston Churchill was running for the governorship of New Hampshire his opponents became pestiferously active, making speeches, writing letters and distributing campaign buttons. One morning a friend sent this telegram to Churchill:
"Have you no buttons for your supporters?"
The candidate was out of town and did not get the telegram, but a pretty girl stenographer did.
She sent this answering wire:
"No. We use safety pins."
"Winston Churchill."

An Anatomical Mistake.
Just before the baseball season opened Joe Engel, one of the young pitchers for the Nationals in the American league, wrote to J. Ed Grillo, the sporting editor:
"Dear Mr. Grillo: I am on my way to see Bonesetter Reese, and I think when he gets through with my arm I'll be a better pitcher than ever."
Grillo replied:
"Dear Joe: You're making a mistake in going to see Bonesetter Reese about your arm. Get him to treat that head."

WOMAN WEAK AND NERVOUS
Finds Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I suffered with female troubles from the time I came into womanhood until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would have pains if I overworked or lifted anything heavy, and I would be so weak and nervous and in so much misery that I would be prostrated. A friend told me what your medicine had done for her and I tried it. It made me strong and healthy and our home is now happy with a baby boy. I am very glad that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and do all I can to recommend it."
—Mrs. A. B. BOSCAM, 504 E. Howard Street, Creston, Iowa.

Tons of Roots and Herbs are used annually in the manufacture of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is known from ocean to ocean as the standard remedy for female ills.

For forty years this famous root and herb medicine has been pre-eminently successful in controlling the diseases of women. Merit alone could have stood this test of time.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Middle Course.
Senator Root was discussing the Mexican situation.
"Steer a middle course," he said to an extremist. "These extreme ideas are always wrong."
"Thus at a tea one young girl asked another:
"And where are you going this summer, dear?"
"From the way mother talks," was the reply, "you'd think we were going to Newport. From the way father talks you'd think we were going to starve. But I suppose we'll steer a middle course, as usual, and put in a fortnight at a $12 Atlantic City boarding house."

How He Knows.
A traveling sales agent visiting a large factory made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among the employes. Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married, and in almost every case he was right.
"How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement.
"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the single men don't."

JUST ASKED THE HOTEL
WOMAN PLANNING VISIT WROTE THIRTY LETTERS.

Proprietor Had to Tell Her All About Everything, Including Theaters in New York and Side Trips.

A hotel manager whose face usually wears a genial smile, was looking downcast when bearded in his den the other day. On the desk before him lay what was evidently a bunch of correspondence, says the New York Times.
"Look at that!" he exclaimed. "That pile contains 30 letters and replies. Would you believe that all that correspondence was necessary to rent a double room and bath at four dollars a day for ten days? If the public only realized some of the things a hotel man had to undergo in order to get people to his establishment and make them satisfied, it would set him down as a martyr."

"It was away back in December that this woman, who lives in a town in the middle West, made up her mind that she and a woman friend of hers would pay their annual visit to New York the latter part of February. The first letter I received made inquiries as to rooms and prices. It also asked various questions regarding seats at the theaters and various other matters. I made a prompt reply. A few days later came a letter which was a brief repetition of the first. To that I replied promptly."

"Two days later came a third inquiry about charges for meals served in rooms. About January 1 a fourth letter said the writer would take five-dollar quarters, and wanted to know about railroad fares and timetables. Also it contained full and explicit directions as to seats for the theaters and their locations. The fifth letter gave up the short railroad trip out of New York that had been planned, but wanted a list of attractions in New York. The sixth said the four-dollar room had been decided upon. The seventh wanted an estimate on what board in the hotel might cost. The eighth specified more theater seats that were desired. The ninth referred to the same. The tenth made changes in seats already specified. The eleventh did the same. So did the twelfth. So did the thirteenth. The fourteenth warned me that they were coming, and made still more changes in the theater program. The fifteenth was just like the fourteenth. Each of these letters I had to answer, and I had to buy, exchange or return about forty theater tickets, and pay postage on ever so many timetables and theater lists. If you consider the amount of personal labor I put on the thing, I don't see where I profited. But you can see from this quantity of correspondence that this is a life of detail."

"About the queerest request I have had in a long time came the other day from a North Carolina lawyer. I did not know him, but he evidently spent more money in New York than he had intended. He sent me a letter telling me that he had lost a pawn ticket, and asked me to find the Canal street pawnbroker that had executed a loan for him on a certain date. He did not remember his name, but the ticket called for a diamond ring. He believed that the pawnbroker's establishment was the first one on Canal street. If there was more than one pawn shop on Canal street, he said, he was willing to pay my man for his extra trouble. Strange to say, we did succeed in locating the place where the lawyer had hooked his ring."

Elatar Fire-Fly.
Another remarkable insect found in Mexico is the Elatar fire-fly, which the Indians use as miniature torches. The men fasten them to their ankles in going through the forest, and the women wear them in their hair under a thin gauze veil. Tiny little cages are constructed in which three or four are kept for lighting purposes. The insects congregate by the thousands in many forest trees and, as if by preconcerted agreement, simultaneously flash their lights, then darken them and flash them again.

Stage Money.
It has been observed that stage money must sometimes figure in the salaries that stage performers receive. In a breach of promise case, recently tried at New York, it was shown that an actress who was understood to be receiving $1,000 a week, was actually getting $300, out of which $50 was deducted for booking and press agent fees. Still, as the press agent was giving her a salary of $1,000, she could hardly have begrudged the money she paid him.—Springfield Republican.

Wise Precaution.
A tourist in Scotland came to a wide ferry. It was stormy, and the wind was constantly increasing. The Scotch ferryman agreed to take the tourist across, but told him to wait until he had first taken a cow across. When he had returned and started across with the traveler the latter became curious.
"Will you tell me why you took the cow over and made me wait?" he asked.
"Well, now," explained the ferryman, "you see, the cow wud valuable, and I feared th' wind wud increase so th' boat might upset on th' second trip."

The Oil King.
We sat listening to the band on City Hall plaza. We turned to the man on our right and asked what the musicians were playing.
"The Oil King," quoth he, and we wondered whether John D. Rockefeller was dead, for the music had all the aplomb and verve of a funeral march. Just then we glanced over the shoulder of the lady to the left and realized our error, for there we saw writ: "The Oil King."

Easy to Misjudge
Remedy You Need
In Overcoming Blood Trouble Do Not Be Fooled By Mere Claims.

Study the Game and You Will Understand Why Some Things Are Deceptive.
In treating a blood disorder the fundamental fact to be observed that the aim and object of the medicine used is to permit a hit, a home run and a sure, safe hit every time.
Now the propulsive effect of S. S. S. is to regulate the blood formation, to assist in development of tissue and to have a decided bearing upon the lymphatic influence, all of which is in the promotion of blood health. And this propulsive effect will be similar to the straight ball pitched to insure a safe hit and not the deceptive gyrations designed to fool the batter. S. S. S. is a plain, straight blood purifier. It is not a fanciful mixture to move the bowels and thus falsely play upon susceptible minds. It is not a nerve excitant to exhilarate for the moment and then die away. It contains none of those mineral drugs which dry up the tissues. In other words, it does not play to the bleachers but to the "fans." It is just a wholesome, powerful, searching blood remedy, the ingredient of which serves the active purpose of arousing each cellular part of the tissues to select from the blood the nutriment or materials required for renewal of health.
S. S. S. is prepared from nature's own materials, not an ounce of drugs being used. And yet it is more potent, more powerful, more searching and more productive of restorative results than from the most active of all the minerals employed in medicine.
Its action by elimination of the irritating poisons that infect the blood, is one of the very important things to know.
You can get S. S. S. at any drug store, but take no other so-called blood purifier falsely claimed "just as good."
S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 900 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice. It will be worth your while to do so.
