SKYSCRAPER'S SET OF NERVES

Business District of New York Uses Six Feet of Telephone Wire to London's One.

The nerves of the skyscraper are the telephone wires, of course. And inasmuch as progress in evolution is measured by complex nervous development, it is natural that New York's downtown, where business, the highest form of social biology, has attained its fullest development, should be an enormous spider's web of telephone wires. The per capita consumption of telephone wire in New York is six times as much as in London, Simeon Strunsky writes in Harper's. That represents the relative nervous intensity of business in New York and in London.

Some such excess of wiring I suspect in the skyscrapers of downtown. There are hundreds and thousands of rooms, and in every room one or more men with their mouths and ears to the telephone. It is all cellular partitions and wire ganglions reaching out to Chicago, perhaps, or San Francisco; wires to the stock exchange around the corner, wires to the assistant in the adjoining room, wires to the heart of the dictaphone into which business is being dictated and from which business will travel to the ears of the stenographer who will transfer it to paper. Our ghostly tourist will conclude that modern business is a matter of conversation.

Downtown, inside of its tens of thousands of skyscraper cells, is thus terribly busy—about what? So far as the eye can see, about nothing in particular. A man with a telephone at his elbow, a flat-topped desk with a metal basket holding a dozen letters, perhaps, a photograph of the man's wife in a silver frame at one end of the desk, and that is all. But if the cell is a large one, sometimes reaching the dimensions of an entire floor in a skyscraper block, the desks, telephones, metal baskets and phonographs are indefinitely multiplied. The substantialities of business are not there—the steel, wheat, cotton, bullion, the beams, casks, boxes and bales which you recall being hauled toward quaint little wharves on toy trucks driven by men in jumpers and shovel hats in the pictures in your school geography labeled commerce. By externals there is no way of telling whether the man at the desk is engaged in selling stocks and bonds, or woolen remnants, or railway accessories or trusts and mergers, or theater tickets. There is lacking the concrete symbolism of the old counting room—the heavy ledgers, whose bulk suggested the raw materials of traffic, the clerks on their high stools, the bustle of orders given and taken. The heavy ledgers have been replaced by filing cabinets, whose purpose seems as much decorative as useful. Your business office might as well be the catalogue room of a college library.

KEEP YOUR BREEDING STOCK

Because of Increased Demand and High Prices for Feed Hens, Sows and Cows Are Sold.

Don't sell off your breeding stock because of high prices of feed and the demand for live stock. Large numbers of hens, brood sows and milch cows are being sold. Already there is a scarcity of poultry in the country, and in some dairy sections there has been a marked decrease in the number of milch cows.

There are two sides to this business. Milk dealers and contractors in their effort to hold trade and placate their customers have refused to pay farmers a price for milk which would leave them a profit. As a consequence, many farmers have found that their cows are worth more dead than alive. They have been forced to sell the cows because they could not continue in the business which was running them deeper in debt each month.

Advancing prices for meat, milk, dairy and poultry products will bring a profit over the high cost of feed and labor, and the farmer who has kept a good stock of breeding animals is pretty sure to receive handsome returns.

LABOR IS LIMITING FACTOR

Horses Are Relatively Plentiful in Comparison and Use of More Is Strongly Used.

Labor is the limiting factor in crop production this year. Horses are relatively plentiful in comparison. O. R. Johnson of the department of farm management of the Missouri College of Agriculture, suggests that farmers lay aside one-man and two-horse tools and use those that require more horses so that more work per man can be done. One man with three horses to a 16-inch breaking plow will turn over three acres or less in a day. The same man with a gang plow consisting of two 12-inch bottoms will average 4½ acres a day and will use one more horse. This means that by increasing the horse stock one-third, one man can increase his efficiency in breaking ground nearly 75 per cent.

Investigations have actually shown that a man on a riding implement will do more work in a day than the same man and the same team with implements that require him to walk. The use of bigger tools and thorough preparation of seed beds will also cut down the time required for cultivation of the corn crop. Cultivation is the operation which limits the amount of corn one man can grow. If a good seed bed is prepared, some time can be saved in cultivating the crop, and consequently more acres can be grown.

GROW VEGETABLES FOR FOOD

No Other Farm Crop Will Give Grower More Satisfaction—Store Properly for Winter.

No other crop on the farm will give as much satisfaction to the grower himself as vegetables. During midsummer enough truck can be grown in the farm garden to supply a good change of food during the winter months, if properly stored.

Plan Against Hog Cholera.

The best way to prevent hog cholera is to keep the germs away from the hog. If hogs on a neighboring farm are sick, keep away from them and don't let anybody from the infected farm go near an uninfected hog pen, or upon the ground frequented by healthy hogs.

Feed for Brood Sow.
Be careful how you feed sows that have little pigs. If too heavy a feed is given, it may lead to sickness in the pigs.

Good Pig Shelter.
Proper shelter will not only keep the pigs in better condition and guard them from disease, but will also economize the feed.

Desirable for Poultry.
A tree-protected location by a small lake or stream is always desirable where one wishes to go into poultry on an all large scale.

Cornmeal, wheat* bran and beef scraps are good for young ducks.

Sure! High Heels Cause Corns But Who Cares Now

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callous the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callous, root and all, lifts off with the fingers. Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callous without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callous. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

Seventy-five persons from eight states will be in attendance.

WOMAN NOW IN 'PERFECT HEALTH'

What Came From Reading a Pinkham Advertisement.

Paterson, N. J. — "I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies as they have made me well and healthy. Some time ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and side, was very irregular, tired, nervous, had such bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the foregoing ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles as they did me." — Mrs. ELISE J. VAN DER SANDE, 36 No. York St., Paterson, N. J.
