Mrs. Elsie Barber recently received the verses printed below from her brother Glate Makin, who with several other Eagle Valley boys are located at "Camp Harry J. Jones," Douglas, Arizona, the present home of the Tenth and Eleventh Field Artillery:

The REGULAR GUY!

Dedicated to the officers and men of the Tenth and Eleventh Field
Artillery. U. S. A., by F. B. Camp.

Men of the Tenth and Eleventh, hark to the words I write,
Before you enter the World War, with the other nations that fight;
Before you sail o'er the ocean, where others have gone before,
To No-Man's Land and the trenches, where big guns thunder and roar.

Men of the Tenth and Eleventh, recruited from city and town,
Drilled and fed and outfitted, complete ere they sent you down,
To Douglas, here on the border, where Life of its glamor is shorn,
To join your present units, that were only recently born.

From the Sixth, that has crossed the ocean, some of you were drawn;
Officers, non-coms, privates,—picked for your brain and brawn,—
Men who have seen much service, each with a feathered cap,
Earned when you chased Old Villa, in the land of the southern map.

You were held for your present units, because of your sterling worth,
Held for a vital reason the day of your units birth;—

Held for the Tenth and Eleventh, you rip-soaring sons of guns,
Who are going to lick the Kaiser and his millions of fighting Hunns.

There's another cause and I'll tell you if you'll hark to the words I write
'Twas to mold and shape the new ones, to teach them to drill and fight
'Twas to teach them the vital lesson, to make them fearless and strong,
Before you left for the trenches, to fight 'gainst a thing that is wrong.

And men of the Tenth and Eleventh, you ones who are new recruits,
Ere you leave for the plains of Europe to fight the Prussian brutes,
You must always be men and soldiers while life holds a fighting chance,
Always be brave and willing, when you fight on the plains of France.

You came from the crowded cities, you came from the newplowed fields,
You came from the mountains and prairies, where Nature her real men yields,

You answered the call from the village, that lies in the northern woods,
And now that you've gathered together, you must deliver the goods.

Your mothers and fathers and sisters, each pray for the loved lives,
That left to fight for your country, left your sweethearts and wives;
Left the girl whom you married, or the one whom you promised to wed,
Left when your country called you, 'cause the blood of you all is red.

You didn't wait for conscription, or the day of the numbered draft,
When they said you mightn't be chosen, you simply chuckled and laughed,

And said, "It is now that I'm needed, 'tis now that I have the chance,
To fight for my Uncle Sammy, for Democracy's cause and for France."

You men of the Tenth and Eleventh, you all are regular guys,
You answered the call spontaneous, you didn't covet the prize,
You didn't wait for the training camp, or try for the officers' school,
You did on the spur of the moment, you followed the ancient rule—

That your fathers followed in '61 and your brothers in '98,
When your country needed its fighting men to settle the nation's fate;
And quit your jobs in the cities, came from the mines and the woods,
And enlisted in Uncle's Army, for you're made of the proper goods.

And now you are getting ready, you are learning to fight and drill;
Swinging your guns into action, each with his place to fill,
Waiting the day of the order that will take you over to France,
Where the Allied Armies are drilling for the day of the big advance.

With the English, French and Russians, you'll bear Democracy's flag, Silent, determined fighters, who will never falter or lag,
'Till the power of the German Kaiser is wiped from the face of the earth,
You will show the nations of Europe, what Uncle's soldiers are worth.

Now men of the Tenth and Eleventh, I'm bidding you all farewell,
I'm thinking more than I've written, but it's awfully hard to tell,
You men of the Field Artillery, who've proved what you'd really do,
Beneath the flag of your country, the Red, the White and the Blue.

THE Call to the Colors calls for thrift and common sense by everybody. A 10c. pouch of W-B Cut Chewing goes twice as far as 10c.'s worth of ordinary tobacco. That's the big point:
W-B Cut isn't ordinary tobacco, it's rich tobacco, and a lasting chew.
