SOLDIERS' LETTER DAY

On next Sunday, November 11, write a letter to your boy, or if you have no boy or relative in the Army or Navy, write a letter to your neighbor's boy, and send him a copy of the old home newspaper. Let him know you are thinking of him, that you believe in him, that you are backing him and you want him to make good physically and morally. Tell him to make use of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A.

It's the boy that is lonesome and heartsick for news from home that oftentimes falls. Let him know the home tie is strong and he will be proud, happy and anxious to make good and come clean. The Y. M. C. A. is the nearest thing to home he has in the army or navy. Tell him you are helping this work and he will appreciate it.

Between November 11 and 19 the Y. M. C. A. hopes to raise $35,000,000 for its work among the soldiers at home and abroad. It needs your help and your subscription, and the boy in service needs that letter and newspaper from home.

Help Us Out.

We have a number of subscribers on the list whose subscription has expired and will greatly appreciate their renewal at this particular time. Printing material has increased in price to such an extent that there is little left for labor after the cost of material is taken from a year's subscription, therefore it is necessary that we secure every cent that is due us or "be in the hole." Again, with the postage at 3c per, we can hardly afford to send a statement to our readers living hereabouts, so we kindly ask you to come in and see how your sub stands if you are not aware of the time of expiration.

We will send the Evening Telegram (daily), McCall's Magazine (monthly), and the Eagle Valley News (weekly) all one full year to any address for only $4.90.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists, 75c.

She Always Wore a Sleeve

By ELINOR MARSH

Lieutenant Arthur Delano of the United States navy having certain duties connected with lighthouses on the Atlantic coast one day was pulled up to the Edison reef light by a crew of sailor oarsmen and upon stepping on to the landing place was received by a girl about nineteen years old.

"Father has been obliged to go into town today," she said. "A part of the machinery connected with the light broke and must be repaired before time for lighting."

"And you are in charge, I suppose?"

"I am."

There was one of those mutual attractions between the officer and the girl that sometimes appear at once when two persons of opposite sex meet.

"Let me see," said Delano; "this light is in charge of—"

"Edward Jamieson."

"And you are—"

"Effie Jamieson."

The girl conducted him through the lighthouse on a tour of inspection, which he seemed in no hurry to finish.

Then he got back into the boat and was pulled away. After that he made numerous inspections—of the girl, not the lighthouse, and fell in love with her. Her father was an educated man who, having met with reverses when he was too old to regain his grip on the world, had been forced to accept the position of lighthouse keeper. A match between Delano and Effie Jamieson would not be a misalliance so far as blood and natural refinement were concerned, but he shrank from marrying the daughter of a lighthouse keeper.

Nevertheless love was strong enough to prevent him from keeping away from her, and he allowed himself to fall into the position of a suitor without really being one. He used to call at the lighthouse with a boat and take her sailing. Many a happy hour they thus spent together, dancing over the blue waters, of which they were both very fond. One day while they were sailing together Delano noticed Effie's arm, from which a loose sleeve had fallen back.

"I would like to see you in evening dress. That arm of yours should never be hidden from view by a sleeve."

Involuntarily she pulled the sleeve down from the elbow, but made no reply to the compliment.

"One would think from the way you keep your arms covered that you were ashamed of them. Most women would give a lot to have such an arm."

"I have no reason to be ashamed of my arm," said Effie.

"Then why are you so careful to keep it covered?"

There was no reply to this. But she was looking far out on the waters, with an expression in her face that told she could say something of interest about what they were talking if she chose. Delano's curiosity was aroused, but there was that in the look to indicate that he would be trespassing if he made further inquiry. He noticed a wind cloud on the horizon and, putting the boat about, started for the lighthouse.

The cloud came rapidly, and, although the young sailor would have liked to make speed by keeping up full sail, he did not dare do so. Lowering all but the jib, he scudded along, making what headway he could by this limited means. Suddenly the wind struck him and with such force that his boat went over. Fortunately they were not far from shore, and both were excellent swimmers. Striking out, after a long pull, in which Effie seemed to be getting the worst of it, they came within the breaker line and were rolled up on the sand.

Effie, who was exhausted, lay still. Delano got on to his feet and ran to her. She had managed to divest herself of her jacket, which she had put on as the storm came up, on being thrown into the water, and the loose sleeve of her dress had fallen back and exposed her left arm above the elbow. A tattoo in blue ink of a girl rowing a boat was exposed. When Delano came up and she saw him looking at the mark she pulled down the sleeve.

Having rested as long as they dared in their wet clothes, chilled by a fierce wind, Delano helped his companion to arise, and they started for the light, not far distant.

As soon as they had been made comfortable Delano asked the girl how she came by the tattoo on her arm. He did not get a continued story, but one elicited by many questions. This is how the tattooing occurred:

One day when a storm was raging, the light keeper being away, Effie, his daughter, was the only one in the lighthouse. A ship was wrecked on a ledge that the light guarded. The coast guard hastened to save the crew and passengers, but they were too late. Effie got out a boat and, attaching a line to it, carried it to the ship. How she escaped being swamped was a miracle. The coast guard made the tattoo.

"The life savers men put the tattoo there. I didn't want them to do it, but they insisted. I was only fifteen, but I knew better and should have refused. Father was away. Before he got back it was done and could never be undone."

Delano married Effie Jamieson and is now a high ranking officer in the navy. He is very proud of his wife's tattoo mark and occasionally begs her to show it at functions by wearing a sleeveless dress. But she has always refused.

NOTICE OF HEARING.

Department of the Interior.

United States Land Office.

October 18th, 1917.

Serial No. 017636

Contest No. 1119

NOTICE is hereby given that the Commissioner of the General Land Office, by his letter of Oct. 10th, 1917, has allowed the application of Marquess C. Lewis, of Keating, Oregon, for a hearing to determine the mineral or nonmineral character of the NE 1/4 NW 1/4 and W 1/4 NE 1/4 Sec. 16, Tp. 10 E., R. 44 E., W. 4 M.

The records of this office show that said land was adjudicated mineral in character by Commissioner's Letter "N" of November 21st, 1894, as the result of a hearing held on application by the State of Oregon therefor, to determine the character of said school section, and that the State has selected and had approved and certified to its indemnity selections based on its losses in said section.

In his application for a hearing, it is alleged by the said Albert E. Rutter, and two witnesses, that the lands above described are nonmineral in character.

Any and all persons, therefore, who claim any right, title, or interest in said lands, or any part thereof, or who may be claiming the same for mineral purposes, by location, occupation, or otherwise, or who may desire to object because of the mineral character of the land, or for any other reason, to the disposal to applicant, are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching the character of the land above described, at 10 o'clock, A. M., on Dec. 11th, 1917, before W. L. Patterson, Notary Public, at his office at Baker, Oregon, and the final hearing will be held at 10 o'clock, A. M., on January 11th, 1918, before the Register and Receiver, at the United States Land Office at La Grande, Oregon.
